The cover features a minimalist design with black and teal geometric elements. A thick black L-shaped line runs along the top and right edges. A teal rectangle is positioned horizontally across the middle, containing the title. Another teal rectangle is at the top right corner. A small teal circle and a black square are located in the lower right area. The title 'THE BEAVER' is centered within the middle teal rectangle, with 'THE' on one line and 'BEAVER' on the line below it. The word 'THE' is flanked by dots.

Of the man who has done most to shape a constructive course for higher education in Oregon; an educator who is an ardent advocate of public education in all its ranges, while recognizing the peculiar merits of the land grant college as the bulwark of our American citizenship; an executive who has built up, through his genius for organization, an institution that has made a distinctive contribution in each phase of educational and scientific activity in which it has engaged, and that has made available to the homes and industries of all the people the helpful leadership of these activities; a statesman in education, who as an exponent of vocational and technical training has always claimed for every student the right to a liberal as well as practical education, and who now, within the scope of his new and broader field as Chancellor of Higher Education in Oregon, can amply fulfill, through the several institutions, all the varied and exalted functions of that democratic and far-reaching philosophy; a just and faithful administrator, who weighs all things in the even balance of established facts, who has the poise to resist being prodigal in the midst of plenty, and the vision to look beyond the lean provisions of adversity; a prophet who has the power to give reality to his prophecies; a fair-minded and congenial counselor of his colleagues; a true friend and fatherly adviser of his students—to Dr. William Jasper Kerr, for thirty-eight years a college president, and for twenty-five of those years president of Oregon State College, constructive public servant, creative builder and truly noble character, we dedicate this issue of the BEAVER in a spirit of trust, honor and love.

MEMORIAM

FOREWORD

A book can be no more than a picture of life, but in this book we have tried to preserve a true picture of your college days which will keep your memories of Oregon State ever alive. To have been given the opportunity to aid in the accomplishment of this purpose, we consider ourselves fortunate. We hope that this Volume XXVII Beaver with its recorded events will be one of your prized possessions.

GOVERNOR JULIUS L. MEIER

Governor Meier's Message

Along with every other public activity, higher education has suffered a period of great stress during the years of economic depression, when drastic adjustments have been imperative in every governmental enterprise.

Higher education can survive material curtailment but it cannot survive impairment of standards, weakening of ideals and lowering of morale.

Those who have faith in the value of education to the state must see to it that the priceless scholastic, personal and spiritual values of Oregon State are preserved, enhanced and passed on to future generations of students.

It is my earnest hope that the institutions of higher learning may meet the needs and demands of the present emergency in a manner which will inspire the faith and confidence of the people of Oregon, and those who are graduated from these institutions may prove on the campus and in their communities that the investment of the state in higher education yields worthy returns in increased vocational value, richer personality and finer citizenship.

GOVERNOR JULIUS L. MEIER

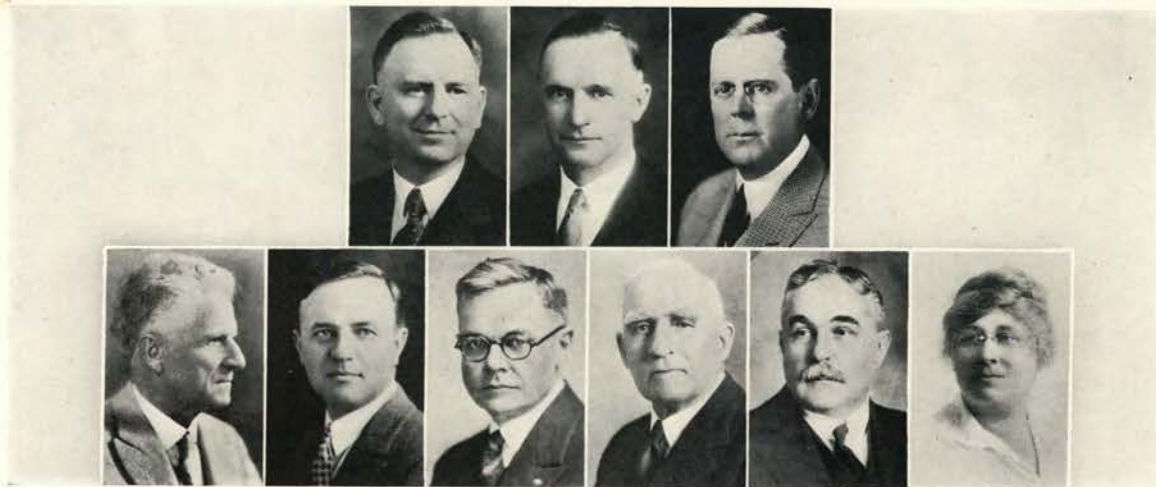

CHANCELLOR W. J. KERR

Chancellor Kerr's Statement

Adversity reveals the true caliber of the man. The condition in which he finds himself is often best for his real growth.

Students who are attending college or who have recently been graduated from college are being tested today by the same hardships and the same necessity for sacrifice that confront many others throughout the country. To the college graduate of these days the lack of those opportunities for ready employment enjoyed by his predecessors only a few years ago is disappointing and distressing. Shall he therefore yield to despair and condemn the institution and society for his misfortune, or shall he rather take stock of his own and his country's enduring resources, and out of that inventory pick the surest path to sound and helpful service? The caliber of the man will determine his choice. Initiative has always been the distinguishing trait of American progress. Patience and forbearance are other noble virtues. "They also serve who only stand and wait."—W. J. KERR.

The State Board of Higher Education controls the normal schools, Oregon State college and the University and supersedes the individual boards which operated these schools until 1929 when the board was established by legislation.

This group is attempting to simplify higher education in Oregon and eliminate duplication of courses on the various campuses. Curricula for each school are determined by the board, finances are handled to effect the greatest saving, and major executive problems come before it. Results of their efforts to eliminate duplication of courses have already become evident on the campus.

The nine members of the board are appointed by the Governor with approval of the senate for a nine-year term. Recently Hon. Geo. B. McLeod, Portland, and Hon. C. A. Brand, Roseburg, were named by Governor Meier to replace Mr. Burch and Mr. Pease who resigned their positions on the state board.

Dr. Kate W. Jameson, Dean of Women

Dean of Men

Limitations on available resources have important compensations despite the inconvenience. The effect depends on the individual involved. Some are prone to complain because hard times make denial necessary in customary pleasure. Others have developed untried and even unsuspected resources in self-entertainment. Some have found college impossible because they cannot enjoy the material things which can be bought only with money. Others have met the situation with more hard work, less common pleasures, more association with the great in science, literature, music, art, and religion. Some have permitted adversity to rob them of hope, respect for themselves and confidence in the future. To others adversity has given occasion to take their own measure, to develop new estimates of value and to tap resources, previously unknown, both within and beyond themselves. What happens depends on the individual involved.

U. G. DUBACH, Dean.

Dean of Women

The 1933 edition of the Beaver brings to you many beautiful views of the campus. I think you will agree that nature has been very kind to this particular spot in Oregon. Man, too, has done his share in providing buildings especially designed to meet the needs for which they are erected and to add to the beauty of the entire campus.

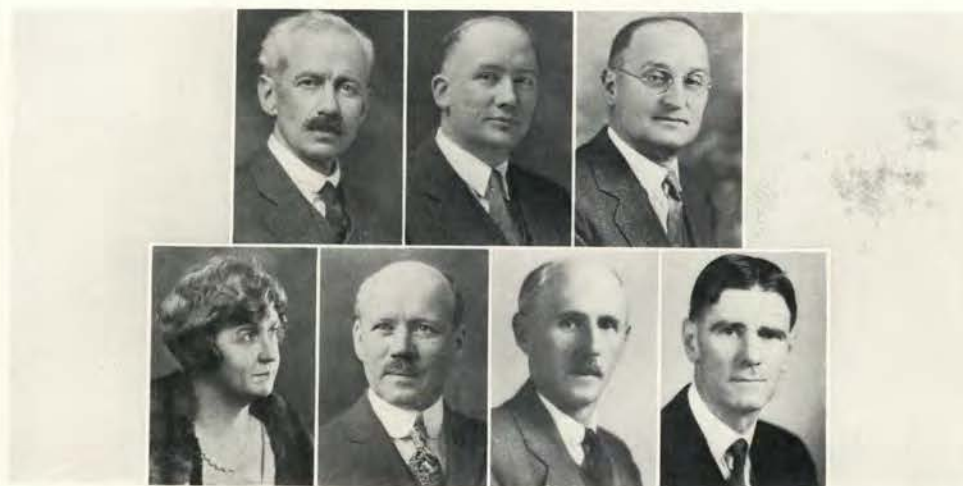

Far more important, however, than lawn and trees and vine-covered buildings are the faculty and students who are found here. If the instructors are men and women of character and worthy ideals they must of necessity impart to their students a subtle influence which will count for much more than facts and intellectual training in the men and women who take up, in their turn, the responsibilities of organized society.

The spirit of the student body is another important element to be considered in the choice of a school. Oregon State college is a great school and holds a proud place among institutions of its kind throughout the whole country. This is true not because of the physical beauty of the campus, but because of the character of the men and women who are influential in establishing its policies and directing its destinies. The photograph is a symbol, but only a symbol, of the beauty and character of the subject. The far-reaching effectiveness of the student-faculty relationship must be sought in the lives of individuals.

Deans of Schools

Because of the many changes in the organization of the schools in the state and the specialization and combining of courses the number of deans on this campus has been reduced. Each dean and director is inter-institutional in function and held responsible for all work in his field wherever offered throughout the entire system. The resident instruction, research and extension staffs are on this campus under the direction of the head dean.

Ava B. Milam, dean and director of the school of home economics, has been in her present position since 1911. Oregon State was the first school west of the Mississippi to specialize in this field, the work being started by Dr. Margaret Snell in 1889. Dean Milam resumed her work last fall after a year's leave of absence during which she traveled extensively in China and other important foreign countries.

Earl L. Packard, dean and director of the school of science, came here from Eugene last fall. By action of the State Board of Higher Education work in science was centralized on the Oregon State campus. Instruction is given on both campuses but the major and graduate work is confined to Corvallis.

George W. Peavy has been dean of forestry since the school was first organized in 1910. He is the senior dean and is chairman of the administrative council which is the governing body of the institution.

Harry S. Rogers, after having served for seven years as head of the department of civil engineering, became dean of the school of engineering in 1927. The school is one of the strong departments on the Oregon State campus. Dean Rogers directed the engineering experiment in 1920 and 1927.

Carl W. Salser is now acting as dean of the school of education in the absence of Dean James R. Jewell who came to Oregon State as dean in 1927 and who is now on the University of Oregon campus. Mr. Salser is assistant to the dean of education and an education professor. He is also head of the personnel and placement service.

William A. Schoenfeld, dean of agriculture and director of the agricultural experiment station, came to Oregon State in 1931 to take the place of Dean A. B. Cordley, now dean emeritus. Before coming to the campus he was western representative of the Federal Farm board for two years and northwest representative of the United States department of agriculture for five years. The office of director of the experiment station was combined with that of the dean last year to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Director James T. Jardine.

Dr. Adolph Zieffe was made dean of the school of pharmacy in 1917 after coming to the Oregon State campus in 1914. A department of pharmacy was established in 1898 but the work was not organized as a school until 1917. The school of pharmacy is a member of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy. Work in this school is recognized by all state boards of pharmacy.

Heads of Administrative Departments

Heads of the administrative departments and the deans of the respective schools make up the Administrative council which is the governing body of the institution.

William A. Jensen, who is secretary of the Administrative council, is executive secretary and is assuming the heavy responsibilities made by the absence of a residing president on this campus. Mr. Jensen was executive secretary to Chancellor Kerr at Utah State college and accompanied him to Oregon State in 1907 where he has served in the same capacity ever since.

Dr. Clair V. Langton has been dean of health and physical education since 1928 when that department was developed until this year when, due to the many changes in the schools of the Oregon institutions, he was made director of the men's physical education department.

Erwin B. Lemon, registrar, graduated from Oregon State college in the school of commerce in 1911 and previous to his present position was instructor in the department of business administration in the school of commerce. Mr. Lemon became registrar in 1921.

Lucy M. Lewis has held the position of head librarian of the Oregon State library since 1920. Miss Lewis came to the campus in 1911 and since then has been advanced through cataloger, assistant librarian, reference librarian to her present position as director. Several important changes have been made in the library this year under her supervision.

Paul V. Maris has been director of the extension service of Oregon State college since 1920, before which he was the state county agent leader for Oregon. The extension department gives available information and service to people in every part of the state.

Colonel William H. Patterson has served as commandant of the school's cadets since 1930. The Reserve Officers' Training Corps on this campus is the largest in the Pacific Northwest.

Edwin T. Reed is head of the college publications on this campus under Charles D. Byrne. Mr. Reed established the department in 1912 and since then has served as college editor.

M. Ellwood Smith, dean and director of lower division, joined the staff in 1915. Until the changes were made in the higher education of Oregon in this last year, Dean Smith served as dean of the school of basic arts and sciences. He has also done outstanding work as director of the summer sessions.

Edwin M. Smith is manager of the Oregon State college business office which is a position of responsibility although he seldom comes in direct contact with the students. Mr. Smith started working in the business office as purchasing agent in 1915 and from this capacity rose to the office of chief clerk. Not long after he became assistant manager and then was appointed to his present position.

Alumni Organization

The need and desire for contact with the alma mater when undergraduate days are over is proved without doubt by the well-organized American Alumni council composed of alumni associations of 200 colleges and universities in the United States. Not only are these contacts of value to the graduates but to their alma maters in having informed and sympathetic graduates as promoters of the institutions.

Some form of organization of alumni of Oregon State has been in action ever since 1875, according to records found in the O. A. C. "Alumnus" of September, 1920. Not until after reorganization in 1920 did the association employ a full-time secretary, maintain an office on the campus, publish a monthly magazine or compile complete records for information and mailing. Since that time contacts have been established with the American Alumni council, national organization of alumni associations and with the Graduate Travel service which sponsors travel tours particularly for alumni of American colleges and universities.

Affairs of the Oregon State College Alumni association are controlled by the Board of Directors, this year composed of these alumni—Clifford A. Dunn, '11, of Klamath Falls, president; Charles H. Reynolds, '13, of La Grande, vice-president; David A. Wright, '08, of Salem, treasurer; Don W. Holgate, '97, of Portland, and Arthur K. Berman, '07, of Corvallis. Board members are elected for terms of five years, one retiring each year at the election of a new member.

Responsible to the board for the execution of its policies, for the direct management of the affairs of the association, and for the publication of the alumni magazine is the executive secretary, Edward C. Allworth, '16, holder of this position since 1926.

Operation of the alumni association without financial aid from any other source has been made possible by the addition of national and local advertising in the alumni magazine, the "Oregon State Monthly," thus adding to the funds brought to the association by annual dues from members and interest from the trust fund established through the payment of life memberships. At the present time this irreducible trust fund amounts to over $12,000 contributed by 225 fully paid memberships and from payments made on the life membership installment plan of $5.00 a year for ten years. Annual dues in the association are set at $3.00, entitling the member to use of services of the alumni office and to 12 issues of the "Oregon State Monthly."

The association has one member each on the Memorial Union Board of Governors and Board of Directors and on the college Board of Control.

Clifford Dunn, President

Oregon State Monthly, Official Publication of Alumni Association

Oregon State Monthly

The "Oregon State Monthly," official publication of the Oregon State College Alumni association, provides the means of communicating information to and from the college and its graduates. It has proved of distinct advantage to colleges to have their alumni furnished with unbiased information at regular intervals on the political, financial and educational problems.

Alumni of Oregon State wherever they may be are informed through the pages of the Monthly of action of the Board of Higher Education as obtained by experienced writers, of new projects being initiated by the departments, of campus improvements, of student problems and of coming events of interest to Oregon State graduates.

Issues that particularly depict some certain phase of college activity are sent out to high school libraries and sometimes to individuals. The April issue this year was devoted to college work from the viewpoint of the high school student. Other numbers feature particular campus events and campus departments—President Kerr's 25-year anniversary of service to the college, Homecoming, the school of engineering, the school of forestry and such subjects.

Sports news by a student sport writer has been planned to keep material at hand for the graduate so that he is familiar with players available, their ratings and the seasonal prospects. Sports records comparing schools are included so that comparisons may be made with past seasons and true facts at hand when needed in discussions.

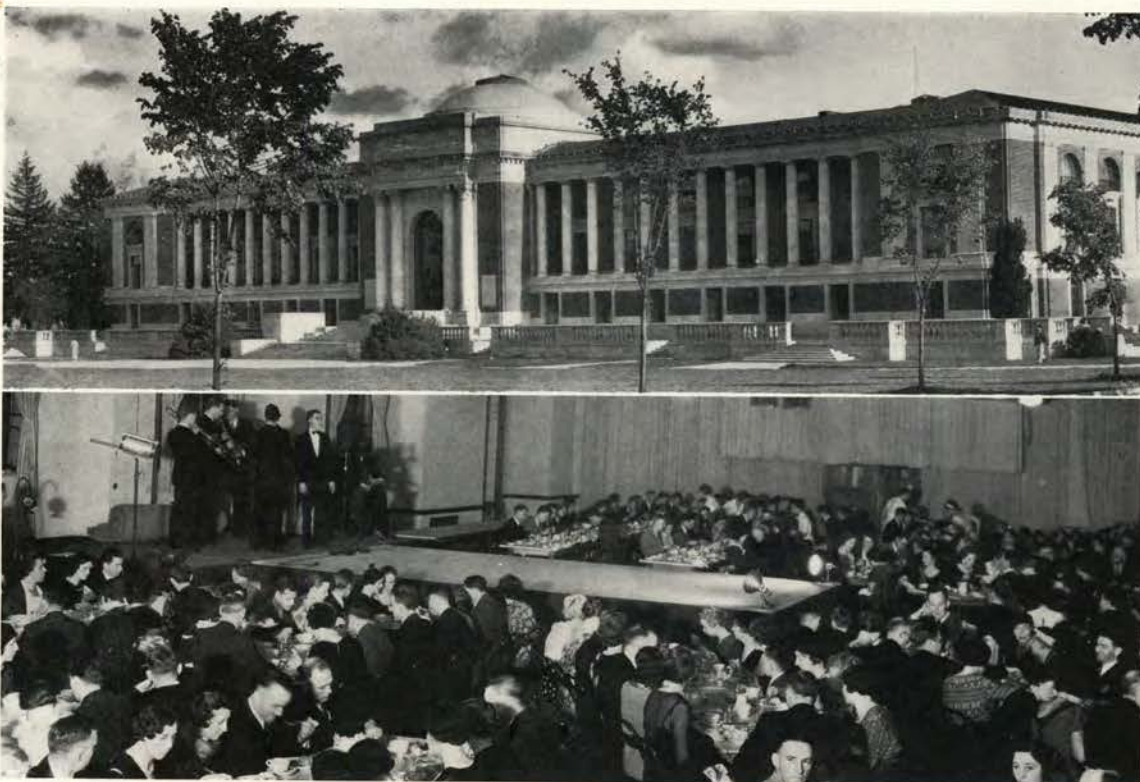

For news of friends and classmates and vital statistics there is the "Beaver Tales" section. Notes from newspapers, from letters from alumni and news from alumni visitors contribute material for this section.

Ed Allworth, Alumni Secretary

Since 1927 the Monthly has included advertising, both local and national, in the make-up. Organization of Pacific Coast alumni magazines into a general incorporated advertising agency—Graduate Magazines, Limited—brought considerable increase in national advertising. With the formation of the Graduate Group, Incorporated, in New York City, including a number of eastern graduate magazines a wider range of advertising has resulted.

Disseminating travel service material is an added feature of the Monthly. Pacific Coast alumni magazines have built up a travel bureau for the benefit of their graduates, sending advertising literature, giving information, arranging general travel tours, special engineering tours, clinical tours, university cruises for members of their alumni associations and for faculty members of their schools.

Memorial Union Building
Annual Alumni Banquet

Alumni Activities

Events for the entertainment of alumni and service to graduates and to the college provide a number of activities to be sponsored by the Alumni association.

Homecoming and reunion entertainments are the foremost in the program of the association. Yearly the alumni secretary plans with the student Homecoming committees for events particularly interesting to alumni—registration, get-together opportunities and the Homecoming banquet. At the latter affair graduates have enthusiastically applauded the various "Coffee Dan" features put on by student talent and the "speechless" program, and have enjoyed the Oregon products dinner. The Homecoming ball follows the banquet.

At Commencement further entertainment is planned for the graduates returning to visit the alma mater as an anniversary of their graduation. By the Dix plan of reunions class celebrations are scheduled on fixed years, each class returning with three other classes which were in college at the same time. The 25-year Silver Jubilee celebration, the 50-year Golden Jubilee affair, the Reunion luncheon, the alumni business meeting and the Reunion banquet are the feature events of this Commencement weekend.

A feature recently promoted by the association is the broadcast of athletic events over Radio Station KOAC. The basketball series this season was particularly enjoyed by alumni in Oregon and nearby states through this service.

Oregon State clubs, city and county organizations of graduates are assisted by the association in providing entertainment for themselves and for prospective students and in furnishing information to these groups on the college set-up and college promotional work.

At alumni headquarters the addresses and occupations of graduates and former students are kept up-to-date. This service is maintained for the information of the alumni and for the benefit of the college. A geographical file as well is kept for the location of alumni in the various cities, states and foreign countries.

STUDENT ADMINISTRATION

Elmer Buckhorn, President

Associated Students

Promotion of student initiative and leadership stand out as the most important functions of the Associated Students, an organization which embraces all students enrolled in Oregon State college who have paid all regular association dues. Its purpose is not only to develop student self-government but to further the renown of the college. Nearly all phases of student activity come within the scope of influence of this organization.

The executive committee of the student body is elected in the spring and is composed of a president, three vice-presidents and a secretary. The president and secretary must be elected from the senior class. One vice-president is chosen from the senior, junior and sophomore classes, respectively.

The various functions of student government are centered around a committee composed of Elmer Buckhorn, president; William Perrin, first vice-president; Margaret Zimmerman, second vice-president; Richard Mather, third vice-president, and Ruth Whepley, secretary. Questions of policy affecting the students, changes in the constitution and presentation of student rallies and convocations require its approval. This committee is responsible to the college administration as well as to the students.

The editor and manager of the Barometer, and the editor and manager of the Beaver are also officers of the Associated students.

Board of Control

Composed of students, faculty and alumni, the board of control occupies a position of trust and responsibility. To it is entrusted the safe keeping and expenditure of all funds of the Associated Students. Members of the board are the president of the Associated Students, first vice-president, secretary, one man and one woman member chosen from the junior class and one man member chosen from the sophomore class.

The board serves in an advisory capacity and does not attempt the functional discharge of details. The chairman of the board is appointed by the president of the college. The secretary of the Associated Students is also secretary of the board. Execution of the decisions and disposition of financial matters is vested in a general manager, appointed by the board who is responsible for his acts both to the board of control and to the Associated Students. The board has the objective of promoting the welfare of the students by carefully scrutinizing all budgets, schedules and items of expense.

Members of the board this year are Elmer Buckhorn, William Perrin, Ruth Whepley, Richard Mather, Jean Freeborn and Kermit Linstedt. New board members elected to serve next year are Vera Weber, Walther Ott and Henry Brands. Three faculty members, appointed by the president of the college, and one alumnus, appointed by the Alumni association, complete the committee. Faculty members are Dean Harry S. Rogers, chairman, W. L. Kadderly, C. L. Johnson and C. A. Lodell. Alumni representative is Jay Reynolds.

Co-op Book Store Board

Memorial Union Board

The Memorial Union stands as a student service building and as such houses alumni organizations, banquet and cafeteria rooms, student dances and initiations, the Co-op bookstore, lounging rooms, trophy rooms and in general serves as a center for student life. It is supervised by a board of eight directors composed of student body officers and alumni. The duties of the board are to make appointments for student offices and all standing committees and to submit a budget to the board of governors for its approval. As a judicial body it is empowered to pass rules and regulations governing members and guests of the building. Directors for this year were George Baldwin, Elmer Buckhorn, Ruth Whepley and Waldo Taylor, student members; Carl Lodell, graduate manager; Jack F. Porter, alumni member, and E. C. Allworth and G. V. Copson, faculty representatives. Members of the student body who have had occasion to contact the board in a business capacity were well satisfied as to the efficiency and economy with which it was conducted this year.

Co-op Bookstore

The Co-op bookstore is a profit-sharing organization and medium for supplying students with school necessities ranging in scope from text books to tennis shoes. The Co-op is student owned and controlled, and through quantity buying and selling the store is able to return at the end of each year a dividend, either in cash or trade, to each person who has a Co-op membership. A board of control consisting of seven students and two faculty members decides questions of policy; supervises the operation of the store, and transacts all business pertaining to efficient operation. Members of this board are elected each spring term and are installed with student body officers. A manager is appointed by the board to operate the store. The board for this year consisted of Ellis Stevens, president; Clair Young, vice-president; Adena Joy, secretary; Louis Withers, Gordon Bell, student members, and Dean George W. Peavy and Dr. N. H. Comish, faculty members. In spite of the financial conditions the Co-op will return dividends as usual, indicating efficient operation this year.

Student Interest Committee
Homecoming Committee

Student Interest Committee

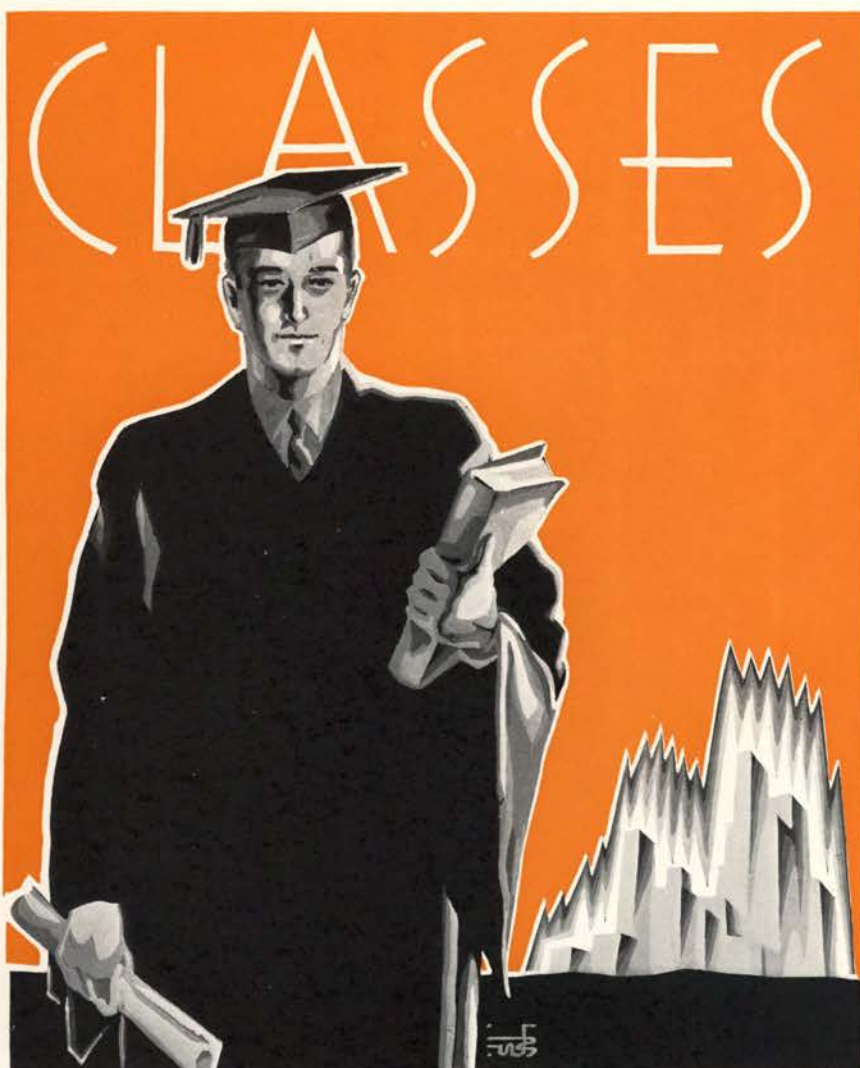

The Student Interest committee, whose particular duty is to look after those interests of the students which are not strictly academic in character, is composed of the president of the Associated Students, editor of the Barometer, president of the Independent Student council, president of the Inter-Fraternity council, president of Pan-Hellenic, president of the Associated Women students, dean of men, dean of women, chairman of the scholastic committee, chairman of the housing committee and the director of physical education.

Besides assisting in working out student social problems, the committee helps maintain a wholesome relationship between clubs and fraternities and the college. It is prepared to assist student organizations in all financial dealings and bring about those conditions which will make the student's college life of greatest profit to them.

Members of the committee this year were Dean Dubach, Dean Jameson, Dr. Gilfillan, Prof. Vance, Elmer Buckhorn, Waldo Taylor, William Neale, Caroline Klapotz and Fern Edwards.

Homecoming Committee

Alumni were welcomed back to the campus this year with students doing everything possible to provide entertainment and an enjoyable visit for the grads. Homecoming officially started with a rally parade which led to the huge bonfire built by the freshmen. Merritt Nash, general chairman, assisted by Harold Finnell, provided rally dances, matinees, and banquets for the visitors and students to participate and enjoy. House signs and campus decorations added to the festive appearance of the campus to greet all comers. Official stationery for student use previous to the gala event helped to spread the spirit throughout the northwest. The following committees served to make the occasion the biggest of the year. Midnight matinee, George Hanselman; publicity, Ralph Coleman; house signs, Elwood McKnight; stationery, Helen Haynes; dances, Jeff Conway and Wilbert Campbell; rally, Dick Smillie; decorations, John Hoffman and Bob Tidball; programs, Hervey Ide; alumni registration, Marguerite Welch; alumni banquet, Louis Withers; bonfire, Al Head; traffic, George Lage.

SENIORS

Richard Dunn, President

Senior Class

The class of 1933 ended its four-year sojourn on the campus with a year filled with many exciting times and interesting events in spite of the depressed pocketbooks of most students. Seniors joined with the underclasses in voting funds for a sensational fireworks display as a new feature for Homecoming. Later in the year the class adopted a budget placing all surplus from the class treasury in the student loan fund which was in great need of money. Members of the class of 1933 were the leaders who carried the student body through a most trying year in a very capable manner. These campus leaders tackled the serious problem of building up campus morale which suffered from the many reverses of fall term. Class officers and committees worked for the lowering of student costs, especially the expenses connected with graduation.

In social life the seniors successfully climaxed the year with their senior ball. The middle of spring term found most of them laying aside their duties and activities, turning over the reins to capable juniors. A year of trials and tribulations was nearing its end. Only graduation and the uncertain future lay ahead of them. With customary determination and courage they turned their heads from the past to the now very near future, defying the world with the challenge of youth—prosperity and progress must come. The last days spent on the campus of their alma mater seemed to be filled with pleasant memories of the greatest years of their young lives. At commencement they realized more than ever before their love for Oregon State. The coming years will see them back again at Homecoming time to see the work they so capably handled being carried on.

Professor J. Lloyd Le Master served as faculty advisor for the Class of '33. His many suggestions to the officers and faithful attendance at class functions has been greatly appreciated by all the students.

Senior Class History

The class of '33 began their freshman year with an enrollment of approximately 1400 students which was the largest class ever assembled for "rook" week. After the class took the Beaver pledge the following officers were elected: Lyle Foster, president; Bea Moeller, vice-president; Amy Aldrich, secretary; Darwin Woodcock, treasurer; James London, sergeant-at-arms and Curnow Slater, yell leader. The high lights of the year centered around the rook dance headed by Jack Byrne and the rook-sophomore olympics and tug-of-war campus weekend.

George Hanselman was elected president of the sophomore class and took charge of the class activities and appointment of committee heads. He was assisted by Estora Ricks, vice-president; Wesley Heise, treasurer; Ellen Stebbinger, secretary and Vincent Wood, sergeant-at-arms. John Allen was representative on the student council. A Mardi Gras idea was featured for the Sophomore Cotillion which was the major event of the year. The success of the event was due to the work of Merritt Nash, chairman, and his committee heads.

With their return in '31 as juniors, Merritt Nash was chosen president. Other class officers were Lois Balzer, vice-president; Doris Buck, secretary and Howard Stevens, treasurer. Again the center of attraction was the formal dance. Dick Dunn was chairman of the Junior Prom and chose a queen's court idea for the decorations. The ballroom was transformed into an old English castle and an air of royalty was added to the affair by the crowning of Ruth Whepley queen of the prom.

Other junior events was the Cord Dance arranged by George Hanselman, the Junior Follies of which Lynn Russell was manager and the Junior Breakfast planned by Edna Karhuvaara.

Instead of 1400 students the class began its last year with an enrollment of approximately 400 students. However, not daunted by the decrease in numbers, the class completed a very successful year and added much to the laurels of Oregon State by the way of national and intercollegiate honors. The various activities of the class of '33 for the past year are recorded on other pages of this book.

JUNIORS

Don Black, President

Junior Class

As members of the class of 1934 review their junior year at Oregon State, a feeling of satisfaction is theirs in the accomplishments of the class as a campus organization and in the attainments of its individual members in scholastic honoraries, in all fields of athletics and in all other extra-curricular activities.

The junior class was led by Donald Black, president; Alice Malin, vice-president; Marian Gary, secretary; Jim Emmett, treasurer, and Edmund Jordan, sergeant-at-arms. At a special election called winter term to fill the vacancies left in the official ranks Shirlie Brownson became vice-president; Kenneth Munford, treasurer, and John Mack, sergeant-at-arms. Marshall Grey was representative on the student council.

The Junior Prom, carried out in an Oriental theme, was the outstanding social event of winter term. Margaret Zimmerman as Queen with her two attendants, Marian Gary and Shirlie Brownson, enhanced the dignity and charm of the evening. Much of the credit for the success of the Prom was due to Dick Brown and Hugh O'Neill, co-chairmen of the dance, and their very able committees.

The Junior Cord dance, the Junior Follies, which is an all men's show, and Junior week-end were events of social prominence during spring term. Marshall Grey ably supervised the activities of Junior week-end. The Junior Breakfast, held in the Corvallis municipal park, was the exclusive junior gathering of this all-campus event.

Eagerly the class of '34 looks forward to its senior year to carry on the spirit so strongly shown in this year's activities. With the leadership so dominantly prevalent in this year's group all troubles will be lessened.

Willard White, President

Sophomore Class

Leading the sophomore class through a period of low enrollment was the job of Willard White, president, however, under his guidance a very successful year was completed. A spirit of co-operation and enthusiastic pep was evident in all activities of the members. The following class officers were elected at the close of the freshman year and were co-workers with Willard White in a very successfully executed job; Ruth Hill, vice-president; Alice Mann, secretary; William Jamieson, treasurer; Robert Lowry, sergeant-at-arms, and John Herbert, representative to the student council.

Silhouettes—colored floods—dancing couples in formal garb—this is the picture of the Sophomore Cotillion presented as the first all-school formal on Saturday night, January 28, in the Memorial Union ballroom. "A Glimpse of Colonial America" was the motif carried out in the attractive decorations for this most important event of the class year. From behind Jimmy Whippo's orchestra, a large black stage-coach surveyed the ballroom along the sides of which were the silhouettes of ladies and gentlemen in colonial dress. The feature which attracted much attention was a toe dance followed by a waltz adagio. Approximately 275 couples attended this event.

The sophomores this year have taken an interested part in all phases of the school activities, taking their enthusiasm into dramatics, football, basketball, forensics, journalistic work and many other fields. Finally the end of the year rolled around with Campus Weekend and the election of class officers.

Freshman Class

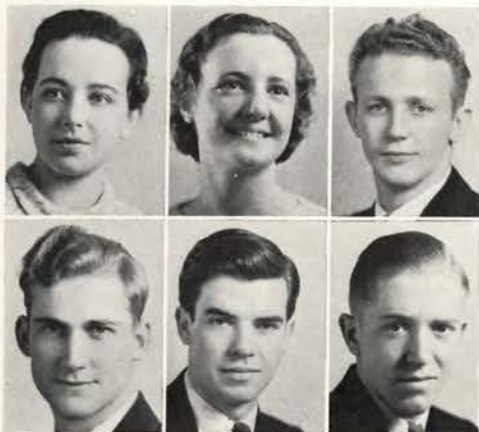

The class of '36, after taking a formal pledge to Oregon State college, met on September 24, and elected the following officers to guide them through their first year: Jack Graham, president; Ruth Price, vice-president; Katherine Seeberger, secretary; Elmer Alskog, treasurer, and Maynard Schultz, sergeant-at-arms. This class, less than half the size of the ordinary freshman class, is the smallest one that the school has known for many years. Not to be daunted by this fact the freshmen started in true Beaver spirit by electing "Bunny" Barrell yell leader and they soon triumphed over the upperclassmen with their "pep." The wonderful spirit and cooperation which has been shown all year by this class was revealed during Homecoming when the rooks constructed a bon-fire sixty feet high, the highest ever built on this campus. The boys worked all night and were rewarded the next morning with hot dogs and coffee served by the rookesses. Much credit for the success of this goes to the chairman, Al Head, the class president, Jack Graham, and Dean Dubach, class advisor.

Friday, January 13, was the date set for the annual non-fussing Rook dance for which Ruth Price was chairman. The dance featured the "bad luck" idea. Black cats and "thirteens" were prevalent in the ballroom of the Memorial Union. The refreshment corner relieved the bad luck, however, with shamrocks, horseshoes and swastikas. During Campus weekend the freshmen celebrated the "burning of the green" and took part in the rook-sophomore tug of war. The end of Campus weekend found them sophomores at last, making way for the freshmen next year.

Barometer Editorial Staff

The Oregon State Daily Barometer, official organ of the student body, is published daily except Sunday and Monday. Its board of control holds membership in the Pacific Interscholastic Press association.

Waldo Taylor, editor, is aided in the publication of the paper by various department editors and five day and night editor combinations which are responsible for their respective editions. Most of the copy is written by students in the journalism classes.

At the first of the year the paper was cut to three issues a week because of reduced finances, but due to the efforts of the editor and other staff members it later resumed its daily status.

The Barometer manager and his staff of assistants are responsible for the entire business administration of the paper, including advertising, distributing, collecting and financing.

Julius Wilson, manager, was well-versed in efficient methods of handling the work as he had been on the managerial staff since his freshman year. Wilson was confronted with the difficult task of financing the paper in the face of drastic curtailment of support from student body funds. He succeeded, however, in placing the paper on a sound financial basis and making possible the maintenance of its five times a week publication.

Beaver Editorial Staff

At the beginning of the current year the editor was faced with the problem of laying out an annual of distinction despite a reduced budget on which it was necessary to operate. The layouts throughout this book were designed to give an original and effective style; yet compact and more interesting to the reader. Sue Hyslop, woman associate editor, was responsible for all copy, and Ralph Coleman, associate editor, was directly in charge of all photographs. It has been the object of the editor, Marvin Davidson, to produce a book as accurate and as pictorially complete as possible. The result would not have been possible without the splendid cooperation from the staff.

Through the efforts of Ellis Stevens, manager, arrangements were made for students to pay for their annual from their "breakage fee." The increased number of sales thus assured, made possible the publication of the yearbook.

Jean Freeborn, assistant manager, and Fred Saling, advertising manager, cooperated with Stevens in his duties. The sales campaign was carried on under the leadership of Lyle Foster, aided by Helen Pietarila. Herbert Kirkpatrick was leader of the winning team. Thirteen houses went over 100 per cent, surpassing all previous records.

Johnny Robinson's orchestra gives an intermission feature at the Senior ball

Senior Ball

The class of 1933 climaxed its career and closed the formal season on the campus with the Senior ball which was held in the Memorial Union building May 6. Spring flowers suspended from the ceiling by wrought-iron frames and hung on the walls in baskets, a cloth-of-gold canopy over the orchestra and palms supplied the setting for the beautifully groomed guests.

Johnny Robinson's eleven-piece Olympic Hotel orchestra, dressed in dark trousers and mess jackets, furnished the music, intermingling the latest dance hits with special feature numbers. "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" proved the outstanding hit of the dance.

After the third dance Dick Dunn, president of the class, introduced Esther Wood as the winner of the queen contest. Instead of holding the usual coronation ceremony, the ruler was presented with a bouquet of spring flowers.

The programs were appropriately decorated with a man and woman wearing caps and gowns, standing against the background of the Memorial Union building. Orange and black cords and an Oregon State seal added the patriotic touch.

Guests of honor were Chancellor and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Starr, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Colt, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dean Kate W. Jameson, Dean and Mrs. A. Junior Prom

Buddhas, Chinese figures and Oriental war-gods observed the dancers at the junior prom February 24 from the walls of the Memorial Union ballroom. Jimmy Whippo's ten-piece orchestra clad in Chinese costumes played from a brilliant red platform at the end of the room. Bruce Sturm, also in Chinese dress, sang several solos. The gold and green programs with a cover design of a fierce dragon and the Chinese characters and burning incense on the inside pages added to the Oriental motif.

Before the dance Margaret Zimmerman was crowned Queen Margaret I by Dr. F. A. Gilfillan, acting for Dr. W. J. Kerr. Miss Zimmerman was attended to the throne in the lounge by Princesses Marian Gary and Shirlee Brownson. Ruth Whepley, who was crowned Queen Ruth I last year, was also in the procession. During the intermission Natalie Lauterstein, a Portland dancer, entertained with Oriental and gypsy dances.

Guests of honor included Chancellor and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Starr, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Colt, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dean Kate W. Jameson, Dean and Mrs. A. B. Cordley, Dean and Mrs. J. A. Bexell, Dean and Mrs. Wm. A. Schoenfeld, Dean and Mrs. G. W. Peavy, Dean and Mrs. Adolph Zieffe, Dean Ava B. Jessup, Miss Lucy Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Ordeman and Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Gilfillan.

Patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Shideler, Mr. and Mrs. Don Emery and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gill.

Dick Brown, Hugh O'Neill, Co-chairmen

Dick Brown and Hugh O'Neill were co-chairmen for the dance. Decorations were selected by Kermit Lindstedt, chairman, Warren Reid, Heyden Whitehouse, Sidney Lathrop, George Burnett and Lucille Gable. Programs were chosen by Everett Davis, chairman, Milton Carlson, Kenneth Ackles and Margaret Zimmerman. (Jeff) Conway was publicity chairman assisted by Fred Anderson and Charles Buxton. Vera Weber, chairman, Dorothy Ann Sidler and Ruth D'Armond handled ticket sales. Guests were invited by Helen Dorothy Haynes, chairman, Lloyd Millhollen and Elizabeth Looney. Marshall Gray, chairman, Robert Tidball and Louise Cook chose the feature. The refreshment committee was made up of Dorothy Oldham, chairman, Doris Shaver and Waldemar Schmidt. Music was arranged by LeRoy Thomas, chairman, Virginia Nelson and Thalia Larson. The floor committee was James Britton, chairman, Gordon Applewhite and Mark Sanders.

Intermission Feature Sophomore Cotillion

Sophomore Cotillion

Black silhouettes of gallant gentlemen and fair maidens transformed the Memorial Union ballroom into a southern estate and revived memories of American colonial life for the sophomore cotillion January 28. The ceiling of the room was draped with white streamers. Large black and white lanterns concealed the ceiling lights and many drapes picturing men and women in colonial dress decorated the walls. Flood lights of different colors cast a soft glow about the room and emphasized the dignity of life when America was young.

A light front cover design, a gentleman kissing the hand of his lady, printed on the black suede programs further carried out the black and white color scheme. Inside pages were decorated by figures of men and women greeting each other for the Virginia reel. During the intermission Jane Lee, Albany dancer, assisted by Hal Pangle presented a waltz adagio. Miss Lee also presented a colonial toe dance.

Guests of honor were Chancellor and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Honorable and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dean Kate W. Jameson, Dean and Mrs. W. A. Jensen, Dean and Mrs. W. A. Schoenfeld, Dean and Mrs. H. S. Rogers, Dean and Mrs. G. W. Peavy, Dean and Mrs. Adolph Zieffle, Dean and Mrs. Elwood Smith, Dean and Mrs. Clair V. Langton, Dean Ava B. Milam, Mrs. Lorna C. Jessup, Colonel and Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Allworth and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Salser.

Patrons and patronesses were Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Ordeman, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Kierzek and Professor and Mrs. E. E. Bosworth.

Milton Campbell was general chairman of the dance. He was assisted by eight committees. Decorations were selected by Merwin Miller, chairman, Hollis Dole, Jack Sambert, Lois Reeves, Henry Brands and Flora McMath. Members of the program committee were Howard Lowe, chairman, Hal Gross, Gordon Plant, Lois Bailey and Alice Merritt.

Marian Selberg was chairman of the guest committee. She was assisted by Ruth Stone, Robert Lucas and Victor Murdock. Publicity was handled by Bruce Myers, chairman, William Gilbert, Harriett Noltner and Ruth Forrester. David Langtin, chairman, Helen Fisher, Lydia Anne Storli and Lewis Reichers selected Jimmy Whippo's eight-piece orchestra with Bruce Sturm as soloist to provide the music. Elizabeth Steele, chairman, assisted by Kenneth Todd and Elsie Hansen took charge of refreshments. The feature was selected by Boyce Stanard, chairman, Mary Duer, Dave Bronson and Helen Seeberger. Arrangements for the floor were made by Henry Harwood, chairman, Tom Zellers and Clifford Parks.

Formal Scabbard and Blade Pledging Ceremony at Military Ball

Military Ball

Guns, sandbags, uniforms and a profusion of flags gave a military air to the Memorial Union ballroom April 8 for the annual dance sponsored by Scabbard and Blade, national honorary fraternity in military science and tactics. This dance was the outstanding social event of the year climaxing a military weekend. The annual horse show and military tournament sponsored by the R. O. T. C. and O. S. C. Polo club was presented in the armory Friday night before a large group of students, townspeople and delegates from other schools.

Representatives of Spurs, national service honorary for sophomore women and Intercollegiate Knights, a similar organization for sophomore men, who were meeting here for national conventions and delegates of ninth corps area of Scabbard and Blade meeting in a district convention were guests. Each school sending Scabbard and Blade men was recognized by a red, white and blue plaque placed on the walls of the ballroom. Bugle calls marked the change of dances and at eleven o'clock taps were sounded in memory of Oregon State men who lost their lives in the World war. A cannon painted on the cover of the red and white programs was in keeping with the martial theme. Jimmy Whippo's seven-piece orchestra played.

Formal pledging of new men to Scabbard and Blade was held during the intermission with Victor R. Griggs, one of the founders of the organization, presiding. Major Vivian Z. Brown, Dental Corps of the U. S. army, was pledged as an associate member. Eighteen students who were pledged are John Biancone, William Bodner, Charles Buxton, Edmund Carleton, John Dougherty, Morris Eisenbrey, Donald Finlay, Jack Kuhn, Willard Lazarus, Hollis Little, Tom McClung, Lloyd Millhollen, Walter Morrison, Kenneth Munford, Fred Saling, Hazen Sanwick, Waldemar Schmidt and Herbert Summers.

Patrons and patronesses were Colonel and Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Major and Mrs. F. W. Bowley, Major and Mrs. J. J. Gerhardt, Major and Mrs. P. W. Mapes, Major and Mrs. E. C. Allworth, Captain and Mrs. N. J. McMahon, Lieut. and Mrs. L. T. Ross, Lieut. and Mrs. G. A. A. Jones, Lieut. and Mrs. F. A. Garrecht.

Robert Blasen, general chairman, was assisted by the following committees: Kenneth Baker, decorations; Robert Reisner, programs; John Trollman, music; Delbert Ball, feature; Timothy Coleman, guests; Carlton Richter, publicity; Lyle Foster, refreshments, and Lieut. G. A. A. Jones, finance.

Guests of honor were Chancellor and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, General and Mrs. George A. White, O. N. G.; Mr. and Mrs. Victor R. Griggs, Mr. and Mrs. John Y. Richardson, State regent, D. A. R.; ninth corps area convention delegates, and Elmer A. Berglund, corps area inspector.

Freshman Dance

Casting aside all superstition the freshmen held an informal get-together dance Friday, January 13, in the Memorial Union ballroom. The freshmen dance is an annual affair and always anticipated by the first year students. "Bad luck" was the idea for the decorations and every omen presumed to cause unfortunate events was displayed. Large open umbrellas were much in evidence, ladders were suspended where it was necessary for the dancers to go under them, quantities of black cats raced about the walls and the numerals "13" were frequently seen.

The Beaver Knights met the rooks at the door and stamped their bibles. Each rook is required to attend the dance and those who do not go must appear later in the Beaver Knight court. The dance was open to all women students but rooks were the only men who could attend. Some upperclassmen slipped in despite the watchful Beaver Knights. These daring men were ushered to the stage by the rooks and forced to entertain the dancers by a song or dance before they were put out. Spurs dressed in their uniforms introduced rooks and rookesses and helped the bashful ones have a good time.

According to tradition the dance was non-fussing but each rook was required to accompany a girl home in order to get by the Beaver Knights who guarded the Memorial Union doors. There were more men than women at the dance, so competition became intense as the evening drew to a close and the rooks frantically sought a partner. After the dance the unfortunate rooks left in the ballroom after all the couples had departed were gathered together by the Beaver Knights and taken to the women's halls to serenade. Dedications were made to various girls in the halls. Sometimes the songs were not recognized by the names given them but the girls and the Beaver Knights enjoyed the effort and misery of the first-yearmen.

Ruth Price, vice-president of the freshman class, was general chairman of the dance. She named the following students as her co-workers: Jack Medlar, chairman of the decoration committee, assisted by Cecil Freyer, Lila Wagner, Marian Kennedy, Franklin Dully and Gilbert Hopkins; Jimmy Whippo's orchestra was selected by Stanley Thompson, chairman of the music committee, and Carmen Fulkerson, Burt Frizzell and Andy Browning; Janet Millard, chairman, Wilma McKenzie, Jane West, Catherine Goodyear, Orion Garrett, Rex Barnett and Viola Fulkerson made up the committee to invite the guests; refreshments were arranged by Mary Brown, chairman, Sharoo Peterson, Jack Miller and Loene Gibson. Don Bennett made arrangements for the floor. Guests were Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn W. Holcomb and Mr. W. E. Caldwell.

Of particular aesthetic value to the women of Oregon State college is the Madrigal Club, a chorus with over 60 members. It provides an opportunity for the women in the group to become familiar with good music, both modern and classical, and to get practice in using it. The club, which was founded in 1909 and has been functioning to the present time, is organized by Professor Paul Petri, director of music, who conducts rehearsals at regular practice periods twice a week. Besides singing at various campus functions, the chorus is presented with the Glee club in two concerts, one at Christmas and the other at Easter.

Members of the Glee club, men's chorus, are selected from a group of applicants by Professor Paul Petri, director of music. They are chosen for quality of voice and ability to sing, although previous musical training is not essential. This year 45 men, who meet twice a week for regular practice, hold places in the club. The group also meets once a week with the Madrigal club to work on material for the concerts in which the combined choruses participate. The Glee club, which was organized in 1909 and has been an active organization every year since that time, is in demand at convocations and other campus functions.

The Oregon State Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Albert Creitz, professor of violin, holds its place among the outstanding musical organizations on the campus. It gives its members an opportunity to come in contact with the finer types of music and get practice in playing their instruments with other people. During the college year the group is presented in two concerts which attract much interest. It also furnishes the music at commencement and other important campus functions. This year the orchestra selected over 50 members from a large number of applicants and was made up of 14 types of instruments.

Men's Varsity Debate

The men's varsity debate teams participated in a total of 40 debates this year, 27 of which were decision contests. Under the direction of Paul X. Knoll, varsity debate director, the men's squad worked on two questions: "Resolved, that the U. S. should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts," and "Resolved, that the protective tariff is detrimental to the Pacific Northwest." Twenty-one men received training through this activity.

George W. Hartley and Kenneth Scott Wood, who composed the first team, won the Linfield tournament, which was equivalent to the Northwest championship, February 17-18 in competition with 16 colleges including Washington State College, Whitman and Willamette University. The debt question was used in this tournament.

Wood and Hartley defeated Fresno State college, winner of the Stockton tournament, in a 3-0 decision on the same question March 15. March 22 they won from Washington State 2-1. Entering the Pacific Forensic league tournament March 24-25 this team was defeated in the race for the Pacific Coast championship by the University of Southern California and Washington State college.

The last major debate of the season was with Stanford university and was broadcast over radio station KOAC. In this debate Wood and Hartley upheld the negative of the debt question for Oregon State winning a 3-0 decision.

Hugh Nicholson and George Hartley debated the tariff question with the University of Oregon in five barnstorming contests using the symposium style of debate. They appeared before the granges at Ashland, Kirby, Glendale, Buell and Sheridan, upholding the affirmative of the question. Wood and Hartley were in 16 decision contests winning 13 and losing 3. Ten of the 13 victories were won away from home.

The following men received letters this year: George W. Hartley, two-year letterman; Kenneth Scott Wood, Hugh Nicholson, Harold Allen and Clifford Joy, one-year lettermen, and Cecil Hallinan and Richard Warrington.

April 7, Wood and Hartley put on an exhibition debate before a debating league at Junction City when they met the Oregon State women's first team on that floor. George Hartley was general manager of the forensic division and Kenneth Wood was manager of men's varsity debate. Melvin Breese was men's assistant manager and Cecil Hallinan was intramural debate manager.

Others who participated in minor debates were Mansfield Howells, Verle Donaldson, Cecil Fryer and Melvin Breese.

Women's Varsity Debate

The women's varsity debate squad completed a successful season under the direction of Paul X. Knoll, coach. The women participated in a total of 31 debates, 22 of which were decision contests. They debated three questions during the season: "Resolved, That the U. S. should agree to the cancellation of the inter-allied war debts," "Resolved, That the several states should adopt a plan of state medical service" and "Resolved, That there should be international intervention under the direction of the League of Nations between China and Japan."

The first major debate of the season was February 16; Adena Joy and Helen Dorothy Haynes won a 2-1 decision over W. S. C. on the war debts question. The week-end of February 17-18 the entire squad which was working on the debt question participated in the Linfield tournament held at McMinnville. Here in competition with 16 major colleges in the Pacific Northwest the first team composed of Miss Haynes and Miss Joy placed second in the tournament, winning 6 out of 8 debates. This same team met Oregon Normal in a non-decision debate at Monmouth April 4. April 7 they put on an exhibition debate for a debating league at Junction City. Of the 7 debates which this first team won during the season, 6 were away from home.

Dorothy Druschel, Maxine Peterson, Mary Whitelaw and Eleanor Allen, worked on the medical relief question during the season. Miss Peterson and Miss Druschel participated in a symposium debate with the University of Oregon for a Eugene woman's club February 20. March 9 the two Oregon State teams gave a dual symposium debate over KOAC. April 6 they debated for the Willamette Valley Medical association at Eugene. April 25 Miss Druschel and Mrs. Allen debated the University of Oregon before a grange club at Buell.

P. X. Knoll, Men's, Women's Coach

March 8 Miss Peterson and Miss Joy had an extempore debate with Willamette university at Salem on the question "Resolved, That there should be international intervention under the direction of the League of Nations between China and Japan."

Only three women on this year's squad have had previous experience. These are Misses Joy, Haynes and Druschel, each having had two year's previous experience. Others on the squad this year are: Miss Peterson, Miss Whitelaw, Mrs. Allen, Rose Musgrove, Barbara Graham, Nell Crover, Elza Kohlhaugen, LaVerne Hessler, Eleanor Geisler, Caroline Mellon, Wilma Gove, Jean Sibbald, Dorothy Bruns, Helen Lindsay, Velve Lucas, Anita Boley, Margaret Engel, Jessie Sims, Luella Wolfe and Maxine Willett. Oratory and Extempore Speaking

Providing training for 25 men the oratory-extempore speaking squad under the direction of Dr. Earl W. Wells, associate professor of speech, completed its seventh successful year as one of the outstanding campus activities. The squad represented Oregon State college this year in seven official intercollegiate contests. In oratory the men entered in the contests were Richard Barss, sophomore in education; Elwood McKnight, senior in education, and Walter Pickthall, senior in business administration. Barss received first place in the State Peace Oratorical contest at McMinnville, February 10. Speaking on the subject "The Red Juggernaut", he stressed the idea that people are taught from childhood through life to idolize war and war heroes and that if we are to achieve peace we should prepare for it by idolizing peace and its heroes rather than war. In the Pacific Coast Oratorical contest at Eugene, March 23, McKnight won sixth place for Oregon State. His speech was entitled "One Slumbering Volcano". Speaking on the subject, "The Carte Blanche to Big Business", Pickthall represented the college in the State Old Line Oratorical contest at Eugene, April 14.

In the extempore speaking division four men took part in official contests. Warren Reid, junior in education, received fifth place in the State After-Dinner Speaking contest at Portland, December 9. The title of his topic was "Ballyhoo—Ancient and Modern." In the State Extempore Speaking contest at Salem, March 10, George Fletcher, senior in agriculture, won third place, using the subtopic "Suppression of Asserted Obscure Literature and Immoral Plays" of the general topic "The Crack in the Liberty-Bell." He also received third place in the Pacific Coast After-Dinner Speaking contest at Eugene, March 25. He spoke on the subtopic "Follow the Leader" of the general topic "Why We Behave." In this same contest John Hamilton, sophomore in business administration, won second place for Oregon State. His subtopic was entitled "The Farmer's Grief and Farm Relief." In the extempore division the contestants received their topics 15 minutes before they had to present them.

Of the 25 men in the squad, 12 of the members participated in one or more varsity intercollegiate contests. Nine others were sent into the Linfield forensic tournament to get practice in speaking and in using the principles they had learned. This year six men were awarded sweaters for participation in the three official state contests and the four official coast contests. The three receiving oratory sweaters were Richard Barss, Elwood McKnight and Walter Pickthall. Warren Reid, George Fletcher and John Hamilton won extempore speaking sweaters. A local contest was organized for freshmen members.

The Corps

The R. O. T. C. Corps at O. S. C. consists of three units—Infantry, Field Artillery and Engineers. Colonel W. H. Patterson, Infantry (DOL), is the Commandant and is assisted by seven other officers, six non-commissioned officers and twenty enlisted men of various grades, all of the Regular Army. The official rating of each of the units is "excellent," which is the highest attainable. Before it was discontinued, the Corps was rated "distinguished" nine times between 1917 and 1927, and it has received the present rating of "excellent" (which is the equivalent of the former "distinguished" rating) in 1928, 1930, 1931 and 1932, as a result of the annual War department training inspections.

The R. O. T. C., in its courses, aspires to prepare students for places of responsibility and leadership; to give them a training which makes for alertness, coordination and good health; to teach them cooperation, leadership, team work, management of men, duty, honor, courage, self-respect, respect for others, sacrifice; love of country and its institutions; to emphasize citizenship and develop concentration and powers of observation; to build character and inculcate high standards of personal honor and patriotism. It also teaches precision, promptness, order, neatness and truthfulness and provides courses in which the subject matter taught in it and in the academic schools of the college may be practically applied.

The R. O. T. C. courses provide a military education which will fit its graduates to efficiently serve the nation in time of emergency. These courses qualify their graduates for appointment as second lieutenant, Regular Army, with exemptions from mental and professional examinations, should vacancies therein exist. Each graduate receives a commission as second lieutenant, Officers' Reserve Corps.

Provision is made for the attendance of the juniors in this course at a six weeks' summer camp. Transportation is furnished each student from his home to the place of the summer camp and return. He is given a monetary per diem allowance of 70 cents while in attendance at the camp and he is provided with a uniform, subsistence, lodging, medical attention, emergency dental treatment and with recreational amusements and healthful supervised diversions. Students are furnished a liberal allowance of rifle and pistol ammunition for target practice, expert instructors and the use of rifles, pistols and target equipment. Except for the period at summer camp, each advanced student is paid 30 cents per day as a subsistence allowance, and receives an additional allowance of $30 for the first year of his advanced course and $10 for the second year, which provides him with a complete uniform for these years and for use later as a Reserve Corps Officer.

Military organization is based upon the number of men who can be controlled by a single leader; the Infantry is the arm upon which all military organization is based, the other arms and services are added in proportion to the assistance required by the Infantry.

The arms of the Infantry are the rifle and bayonet, the automatic rifle, the machine gun, the 37 millimeter gun, the 3-inch trench mortar and tanks. Infantry is essentially the arm of close contact. This function, rather than the nature of its armament, distinguishes it as a combatant arm. The morale of the Infantry is subjected to a greater strain than that of any other arm through the heavy burdens it bears in combat and on the march. Its mobility adapts it to movements on all characters of terrain.

Field Artillery is known as the strong right arm of armies. Characterized by long range and the ability to build up heavy concentrations of fire, Field Artillery cooperates gladly with its companions of the Infantry and Cavalry to bring success to American arms. The training of Field Artillery is remarkably free from monotony as every roll of the ground presents a new tactical problem to the artilleryman.

Military history is filled with records of devotion and successful endeavors of the Artillery from which has developed a wealth of tradition and esprit de corps.

The primary duty of the Engineers is to aid the other arms, particularly the Infantry, by engineering works. These works include construction and maintenance of roads, bridges, field fortifications, railroads, shelter, utilities, camouflage and the supply of tools and equipment, particularly intrenching tools and maps. Engineers are assigned, or attached, to various organizations in proportion to the expected need for such works. General engineer troops are trained in engineering duties of the above nature to meet the temporary needs of other troops and are equipped mainly with hand tools. Engineers also reproduce maps and post road signs.

Carl Boswell, Cadet Colonel

The R. O. T. C. Rifle Team has an enviable reputation. Last year it won back the "Doughboy of the West" trophy and was runner-up for the "Warrior of the Pacific" trophy. It fires matches with practically every college and university in the country.

The military department maintains an excellent polo team, members of which are all R. O. T. C. students.

In the Oregon State R. O. T. C. units, full responsibility is placed upon the cadet officers and non-commissioned officers to develop viewpoint, discipline, obedience, courtesy, spirit, organization and leadership.

THE B E A V E R. .

Oregon State Band

The training is divided into two parts—basic and advanced, the latter taken only by specially selected students after completion of the basic course.

Principles of combat practice and theory of Infantry tactics, machine gun, howitzer and 37 millimeter gun, rifle fire, hygiene, map reading, sketching, scouting and patrolling are inculcated into the fiber of the Infantry cadet. In the Field Artillery unit, the basic courses take up subjects pertaining to battery equipment; the duties of cannoneers, battery transport and marching maneuvers, and the use of the pistol. Advanced students take gunnery, the mechanical means of communication and fire control. Special attention is given to horsemanship and the care of animals. The Engineer unit works with pontoon bridges, foot bridges, military explosives and demolitions and gives instruction in map reading and military sketching, map making and map reproductions, military roads and railways and fortifications.

The College band, besides its duties as a unit of the R. O. T. C., is a very popular concert organization, making annual tours over the State of Oregon and parts of Washington and California. The band has furnished music for three world's fairs and travelled thousands of miles besides its annual concert tours. The longest single trip taken was to Chicago with the football team in November, 1930. Shorter trips are taken with the teams each year. As a concert organization the services of the band are eagerly sought throughout the State. A number of members of the band take advantage, each year, of the opportunity offered here for private instruction on their instruments or in band conducting. Many former members are now occupying responsible positions as bandmasters in high schools or concert bands. During the World War five former members of the band were bandmasters in the United States Army.

Though the attendance at the college has decreased during the past year as a result of the depression, the membership of the band has remained about the same as in former years. The material is much improved and the band now is the best in the history of the college. The concerts this season have filled the gymnasium until standing room was at a premium.

The band has been organized forty years. In that time there have been eleven bandmasters. The band has been under the leadership of Captain H. L. Beard for the past twenty-eight years.

The band is active on the campus throughout the year. Besides giving concerts each term they play at all varsity athletic contests and at many of the convocations.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Associated Women Students

All women's activities come under the supervision of the Oregon State chapter of the National Federation of Associated Women Students self-governing organization. The members are women students registered at the college. Five officers compose the executive group which are elected the spring term of each year. A Newport conference was held September 15, 16 and 17 for the purpose of organizing in a co-operative manner the college year's activities for women and establish closer relationships between organizations and students. The delegates were the vice-presidents from the various women's organizations on the campus, the woman in charge of Kinlani Lodge and the executive group; the whole being known as the Legislative council. A mass meeting of all rookesses was held freshman week and each president of the 16 organizations gave a two-minute talk on their aims, work and points for eligibility.

The co-ed ball, annual costume dance for women, was held fall term under the supervision of Margaret Zimmerman. Prizes were given to the persons having the most original and individual costumes, the prettiest costume, the best dressed couple, and for the best skit. February 27 a mass meeting of A. W. S. was held to hear Anthony Euwer speak and to have A. W. S. and Y. W. C. A. nominees introduced. For the first time in many years women had a chance to make further nominations from the floor.

The A. W. S. participates in and supervises many activities. It was hostess for the state older girls' conference, of which Betty Steel was state president, April 1 in the Memorial Union building, and also for the national Spur convention April 7 at a luncheon in the Memorial Union building. It arranged for the mimeographed etiquette sheets which are now available to men and women students and for articles on etiquette printed in the Barometer spring term. Co-ed interest in the retreat was created and an election was held spring term to determine its new name, Kinlani Lodge. With the help of Theta Sigma Phi, national honor society in journalism, A. W. S. edited a handbook which explains the purpose of A. W. S., its aims, activities and history in order to acquaint the co-ed with campus life.

The officers for this year were Fern Edwards, president; Margaret Zimmerman, vice-president; Betty Steel, secretary; Ruth De Armond, treasurer and Dorothy Ann Sidler, sergeant-at-arms. This year the present and future president of A. W. S. will be official delegates to the National Convention of Intercollegiate Associated Women Students at Cornell university, Ithaca, New York, April 19, 20 and 21. Last year the same convention was held on this campus under the general chairmanship of Grace Baird and Billie Cupper, A. W. S. president. A rising vote of thanks was given to Oregon State college by the 34 delegates.

A. W. S. Legislative Council
Retreat

Legislative Council

The Legislative Council is a group of women students composed of five A. W. S. officers, the vice-presidents of each women's organization on the campus and the co-ed in charge of Kinlani Lodge. It met the first time during spring term of 1932 and held a three-day conference at Newport September 15 to 17. The council aims to further friendship among women's organizations; obtain full and clear explanations of the purpose of each group; use the power of group suggestion to help in problems; and give tangible suggestions or recommendations. The following group representatives are, Amy Aldrich, Cap and Gown; Irma Babcock, Omicron Nu; Betty Jelinek, Phi Chi Theta; Byra Hunter, Temenids; Lillie Blake, Greater Halls; Ruth Misphey, Parthenia; Barbara Sims, Women's Athletic Association; Mary Stevenson, Physical Ed. Club; Helen Kammerer, Phrateres; Vera Weber, Home Economics Club; Shirlie Brownson, Y. W. C. A.; Marian Dunham, Spurs; Dorothy Moore, Pan-Hellenic; Amy Aldrich, Theta Sigma Phi; Nadine Millhollen, Euterpe; and Miriam Bleamaster, Orchesis.

Retreat—Kinlani Lodge

Kinlani Lodge is the new name for the A. W. S. retreat. It is a Navajo name which means "house of many people" and was suggested by Mrs. Lorna C. Jessup, assistant dean of women, and chosen by the co-eds at the spring election. The lodge is owned and managed by the Associated Women students, although Cap and Gown built the lodge. Kinlani Lodge is seven miles west of the college campus located near the headwaters of Mary's river. It is the scene for many picnics and outings all during the college year and invites rest and recreation to all those who visit it. The cabin is set in the midst of a woods and it is attractive whether surrounded by brilliant fallen leaves, snow, or spring flowers. The lodge can be reached by hiking along the side trail on the banks of the river, by horseback or by driving. Meals can be prepared in the fully equipped kitchen or at the huge fireplace with its old-fashioned crane and kettle at the end of the rustic living room. Comfortable beds are provided upstairs for sleeping overnight. Maud Purvine has been appointed to take care of the lodge and its guests.

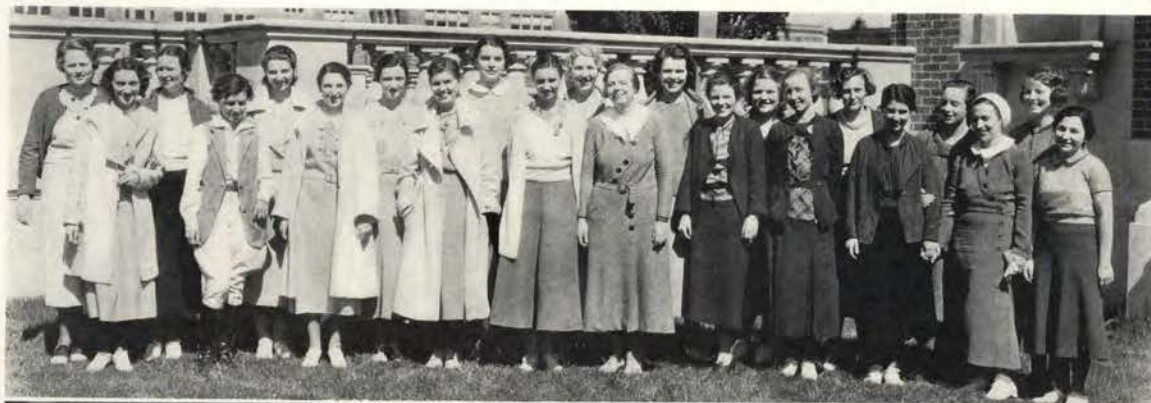

Co-ed Ball
Women's Day

Co-ed Ball

The costumes of the nations, all types of college costumes and creations of jest were intermingled at the co-ed ball this year on October 15 in the women's building. "College Life" was the featured idea and this was carried out by eight sororities giving skits two minutes in length on different phases of college life. Delta Zeta won the first prize. Other houses competing were Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Kappa. Prizes were also given to the individuals for the funniest, the prettiest, the most original and individual costumes and for the best costumed couple. The general chairman this year was Margaret Zimmerman and the chairmen of the committees were as follows: Dorothy Ann Sidler, feature; Edythe Walker, prizes; Vera Weber, invitations; Maxine Peterson, publicity, and Ruth De Armand, refreshments. The purpose of the co-ed ball is to secure funds for A. W. S. activities and to give an opportunity to the co-eds to renew and make friendships.

Women's Day

The week-end of Mother's day is annually set aside for Women's day and a program for the event is arranged by the A. W. S. officers. The annual honor convocation was held Saturday afternoon. The A. W. S. officers were installed; pledges to the various women's honorary organizations were named, and awards announced. After a short inspirational talk and congratulatory speeches the honor convocation was dismissed and the mothers and daughters visited the lower campus where the spring festival was held. Miss Thompson's dance recital numbers were given there by the women's physical education department. A reception and formal banquet in honor of the mothers was held in the Memorial Union building in the evening. This day is given over entirely to co-eds and their mothers and if men desire their mothers escorted to the banquet or convocation they must secure a woman student for their mother's companion as this day is the only one in the college year devoted exclusively to women. It was first celebrated in 1924 and since that time has proved successful.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet
Big Sisters

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet

About 400 students are members of the Oregon State Y. W. C. A. The cabinet and committees, in consultation with the resident secretary, are responsible for planning the program which is such that students have the experience in carrying committee responsibility, in participating in discussions, in conducting social affairs and in learning to know persons of greater experience than their own. The program has included a delegation to the summer conference at Seabeck; the Big Sister plan; the freshman mix; discussions; International banquet; International store; a weekly worship service; discussion groups on religion and various national and international topics; informal teas for fellowship and fun; leadership in local Girl Reserve groups; display of poetry and art on bulletin boards, and several intercollegiate gatherings. Officers for this year are Fern Edwards, president; Shirlie Brownson, vice-president; Carmen Hunt, secretary, and Candace Rumbaugh, treasurer. The Oregon State Y. W. C. A. is a member of the National Student Y. W. C. A. and a participant in the World Student Christian federation.

Big Sisters

Big Sisters is an organization composed of representative sophomore women for the purpose of aiding freshmen women in adjusting themselves to campus life. Eighty Big Sisters were chosen this year and announced at the honor convocation during Women's Day. The Big Sisters are chosen for their knowledge of problems of freshman girls, dependability, and ability to return to school early in the fall. During the summer the incoming freshmen receive letters from the Big Sisters and descriptive booklets telling them about the college. During the first week of school the Big Sisters meet freshmen at the trains and help them become acquainted with the campus. They assist with the Freshman Mix, and escort the new co-eds to meetings and parties. Betty Steele was the chairman during this year, with 12 captains working with her.

Oregon State women have been aided by this service group. And it is through their efforts that many girls have been able to meet college problems successfully.

THE B E A V E R .

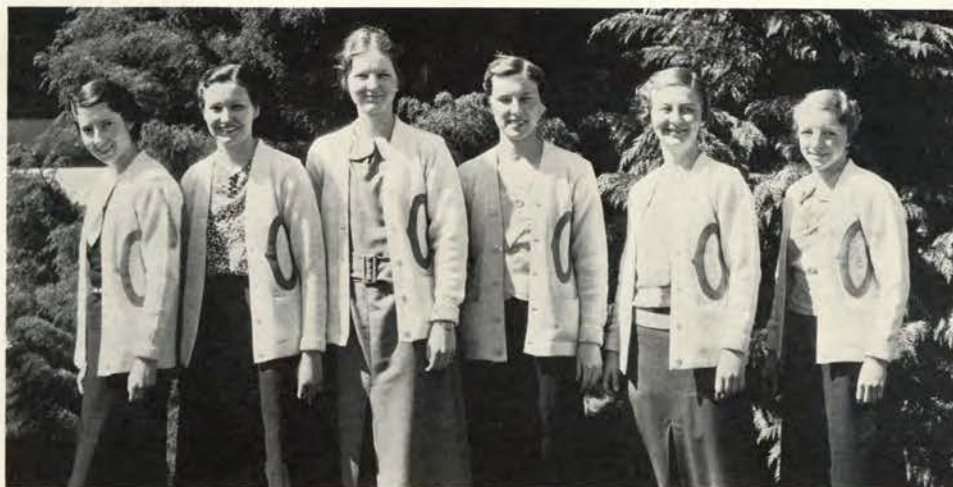

Stevenson Sims Warnke Ayer Wyman

Women's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic association offers an opportunity for every co-ed to participate in athletic activity. Its aims are recreation, quality in leadership and an efficient healthy body. Any girl who earns 50 points in any W. A. A. sport is eligible for membership. The officers of the organization are Helen Pietarila, president; Barbara Sims, vice-president; Constance Ayres, secretary; Mary Stevenson, treasurer; Daphne Weiman, custodian, and Ruth Warnke, publicity. Each sport that the association sponsors has a manager who were as follows: hiking, Rebecca Oglesby; volleyball, Grace Coombs; archery, Gladys Plummer; dancing, Miriam Bleamaster; hockey, Mary Whitelaw; basketball, Waivo Lenon; baseball, Phyllis Corbett; swimming, Helen Spring; tennis, Margaret McAdams; badminton, Leah Bradley; deck tennis, Maxine Bennett; horseshoes, Josie Daly; and golf, Alice Stangel. There is interclass competition in all sports of the season including volleyball, hockey, badminton, basketball, baseball, swimming, and tennis. This was the first year that plaques were offered to each organization winning a tournament in an inter-organization activity such as horseshoes, archery, swimming or tennis. An intramural program started this year has been popular. It was organized to meet the need of recreation for upperclass women who desired physical activity and were not able to get it as classes were no longer offered to them. A definite plan is arranged each term to correspond with the season of the year and it has worked out very well. Badminton has been the most popular sport and inter-class as well as inter-organization tournaments were held. Turnouts for all the sports were large and full of enthusiasm. Each girl earning 500 points is given a minor "O" letter and each girl earning 1000 points by competing on the various teams is awarded an Orange "O" sweater by W. A. A. for sportsmanship, leadership, service to W. A. A. and good posture. An annual intercollegiate telegraphic archery tournament is held in May. Rose Winkler was chosen by the dean of women, W. A. A. executive council and the physical education faculty to be the most outstanding girl in W. A. A. and the one who has progressed most in ideals of womanhood and service to W. A. A. in her college career. Her name is placed on a plaque in the club rooms of the Women's building. Only one of several hundred women is selected annually for this honor and competition is keen. Outstanding events this year sponsored by W. A. A. were the water carnival, given annually fall term and sponsored by Aquabats, which had as its general theme king Neptune's Olympics; the annual dance recital given winter term, February 23 and 24, which had "Music" as its principal idea; Health week, sponsoring a posture contest and awarding a cup to the winning girl, and a W. A. A. rookess "get-to-gether" party.

Orange "O" Association

An Orange "O" sweater is the highest award offered to women in athletics, and it means membership in the Orange "O" association. The sweaters are awarded to junior and senior women belonging to the Women's Athletic association who have earned 1000 points in interclass athletic competition and have fulfilled the other requirements. The basis for awarding points is 100 for class first teams, 75 for first team substitutes and 50 for those making the second team.

The activities for which points are awarded include the individual sports, archery, swimming, dancing, tennis, badminton, deck tennis and golf, and the team sports, hockey, basketball, baseball and volleyball. One point a mile is given for hiking with a maximum of 100 points and a minimum of 25 points in one year. Women who earn points at hiking go along certain prescribed routes, either in groups on scheduled hikes or individual hikes with one or two members of W. A. A. A woman may take part in one individual sport and one team sport or two individual sports during one term.

Other requirements which women must meet in order to wear an Orange "O" sweater are a grade average of at least 84, service to the association, good character, sportsmanship and above average posture.

Wearers of the Orange "O" sweater this year are Margaret Merryman, Ruth Warnke, Irene Davis, Connie Ayer, Waivo Lenon, Barbara Sims and Grace Coombe. These girls have all been active in the Women's Athletic association as office holders and sports managers.

A minor "O" is given to women who have earned 500 points in sports as a first step toward a sweater. This letter may be worn on the pocket of a sweater and may be won at the end of the freshman year if all-round proficiency is displayed in sports.

Rose Winkler, Award Winner

A special committee which determines the awarding of sweaters to eligible co-eds is composed of the head of the department of physical education for women, a faculty member elected each year from the department staff, the president of the Physical Education club and one member from the junior or senior class. The Women's Athletic association is open to every woman in college interested in sports who has earned 50 points or more, but membership is not compulsory for those taking part in sports.

Rose Winkler was the winner of the Orange "O" and W. A. A. award which is given each year to the outstanding woman minoring in physical education. This award consists in having the winner's name engraved on a plaque placed over the fireplace mantle in the club rooms in the women's building. The basis for the award is service to W. A. A. and progress in ideals of womanhood.

Hockey Team in Action
Archery Team

Hockey

Hockey is the team sport of fall term for which W. A. A. points may be won on the basis of attendance at scheduled games, practices and competition on teams. This year, although only three class teams competed, the season was a success in the spirit and sportsmanship shown by the participants. A round robin tournament was conducted in which every team played every other team twice. The winners of this tournament were the junior-senior minors. Women playing on this team were Ruth Warnke, Margaret Merryman, Dorothy Gillanders, Mary McCarthy, Helen Lund, Irene Davis, Eleanor Jenks, Connie Ayer, Phyllis Corbett, Waivo Lenon, Mary Stevenson, Miriam Bleamaster, Dorothy Lachmund and Helen Spring. Other teams competing were the freshman-sophomore minors and a team picked from all non-minor girls who turned out for hockey. The W. A. A. hockey manager for this season was Mary Whitelaw.

A hockey honor team is chosen each season from all classes by a sports committee of W. A. A.

Archery

Interest in archery has been growing since the time it was first introduced on the Oregon State college campus as an individual activity for women students. In the third annual women's intercollegiate archery tournament, Oregon State placed fourteenth out of over fifty colleges that were entered. The meet was a telegraphic shoot, the results being wired from school to school. Women on the first team were Alice Maxwell, Zoa Lowthian, Jean Freeborn, Mary McCarthy, Ruth Warnke, Alice Purvis, Ruth Minor and Inez Oatfield. W. A. A. points were awarded on the basis of the score made while shooting in the intercollegiate tournament. Miss Laura McAllester of the women student's physical education staff is adviser for archery and Irene Davis was manager for last year.

Archery is included in the intramural program this year as a competitive sport among women's living groups. Each group enters two women and the winner is awarded a bronze plaque which becomes the permanent possession of that group. Further victories won will be recorded upon it.

W. A. A. Basketball Winners
Badminton Team

Basketball

Basketball, one of the oldest sports for women on the Oregon State campus, is the winter term sport for which each class enters a minor and non-minor team. This year's winners were the sophomore minors. Women on this winning team, the regular team and substitutes, were Mabel Sandoz, Mary Whitelaw, Gilma Endicott, Sarah Callan, Jean Guerin, Ruth Sterling, Rebecca Oglesby, Gladys Swarner, and Leah Bradley. W. A. A. points are awarded to individual team members on the basis of attendance and participation in scheduled games and practices and the team made, whether first, second or third. The W. A. A. manager of basketball, who this year was Waivo Lenon, is also awarded points toward her W. A. A. awards.

A basketball honor team is chosen each year from the members of all the teams participating. The line-up of this honor team is not disclosed until at the W. A. A. all-sports banquet sponsored each spring term.

Badminton

Badminton is a new sport at Oregon State college and was added to the list of individual activities for women students in the fall of 1932. Considerable interest was shown winter term in both class and intramural competition with 24 girls taking part. Points are given in badminton on the basis of attendance, managing and games won. Sixteen organizations, the sororities, Phrateres, and the women's dormitories entered the intramural tournament and a bronze plaque of artistic design was awarded to the winners. Jean and Rebecca Oglesby were the team that won the plaque for Phrateres. The award is formally presented to the winners at the annual Women's Athletic association banquet spring term. In the tournament conducted within classes the winners were Margaret Merryman and Ruth Warnke for the seniors; Gladys Plummer and Rebecca Oglesby for the sophomores and Edith Bear and Dorothy Burns for the freshmen. The intramural manager for badminton this year was Leah Bradley.

Women's Physical Education Club

The Women's Physical Education club is an organization for all women minoring in physical education. This year the officers of the club were Margaret Merryman, president; Mary Stevenson, vice-president; Helen Spring, treasurer; Helen Lindsay, secretary, and Leah Bradley, sergeant-at-arms. Elsie Jacobsen, instructor in physical education, is adviser for the club. Events of interest to women on the campus are sponsored each year by the club. Fall term the outstanding event is Giocoso, fun-fest for all women students, in which classes compete with one another. An entrance stunt, dancing, songs, tumbling, relays, games, technique in skills and number of women present furnish the basis for competition. This year the junior women won the prize, a doll called Miss Giocoso. The Spring festival given Mother's weekend is also sponsored by the club as well as hikes and overnight trips to the Associated Women Students' retreat, located in the hills west of Corvallis. Outstanding people in physical education have been one of features at the meetings.

Parthenia, local honor fraternity for women in physical education, was organized by the Women's Physical Education club. Members for this year are Ruth Mispley, Margaret Merryman and Ruth Warnke. These girls are all seniors in education. Selection of members is on the basis of professional interest in physical education, leadership, character, scholarship and junior or senior standing in school. The faculty adviser is Natalie Reichart and faculty members are Laura McAllester, Betty Lynd Thompson, Elsie Jacobsen, Jeannette Brauns and Ruth Thayer.

Amory T. "Slats" Gill, head basketball coach for the Orangemen, gave Oregon State its first all-coast championship basketball team since the Beavers first started looping them through the net. Gill's center, Ed Lewis, was given All-American mention. Slats starred for Oregon State in 1924 and 1925 on the maple court. He began coaching the rook team after his graduation and became varsity mentor shortly afterward. Baseball teams also look for their guidance to Amory Gill.

Dr. Clair V. Langton, head of the department of physical education and health at Oregon State college has made the slogan, "Every man in athletics," come true. The many and varied games now offered enable every man a chance to participate in one or more of the intramural sports.

Alonzo Stiner, head line coach, was made head football coach for Oregon State upon the resignation of Paul J. Schissler this year. Lon has had plenty of experience in handling Oregon State football teams having served here for a number of years under Schissler. When he was under the tutelage of Schissler at Lombard college, Lon was selected as an All-American tackle. Stiner's style of play to be used this coming year will give the fans plenty of thrills. The new system is much more colorful to watch and much faster than those previously used.

Jim Dixon, assistant line coach and former all-coast tackle at Oregon State, is one of Stiner's ablest of assistant coaches in the production of Schissler's former "speedball" backfield men and has proved his coaching ability while here.

Ralph Coleman is directly in charge of all the intramural work at the college. With a master's degree from Columbia added to his degree from Oregon State, "Coley" is academically equipped as well as being experienced in handling intramural work.

Roy Hewitt coaches swimming and has developed several men who are headed for the next Olympics.

O. C. Mauthe is the director of the gymnasium and acrobatic classes. He also coaches the fencing teams and one of his pupils won the northwest championship with the foils this year. Mauthe's tumblers furnished entertainment for the crowds during halves at the basketball games this winter.

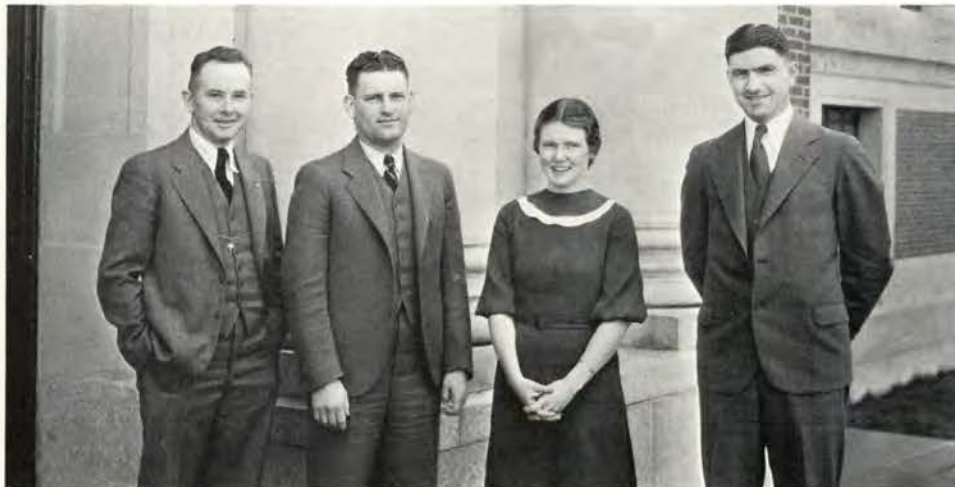

Major F. W. Bowley gives the polo men their instruction and training.

Alonzo Stiner directs the cinder men in their workouts and meets during spring term.

B. T. Simms coaches tennis which adds another important athletic activity to the curriculum.

Graduate Manager's Office

Since 1922 Carl A. Lodell has been graduate manager of the Associated Students, his appointment to that office coming one year after he had graduated in the school of commerce. The graduate manager's office handles all financial operations of the Associated Students including every branch of athletics and the financing of various school publications. One of the biggest of the graduate manager's problems is the scheduling of football games and other athletic contests for the college. Besides being a member of the board of control which decides on all matters pertaining to athletic competitions and supervising at Oregon State, he is a delegate to the meeting of Pacific Coast conference graduate managers and coaches who determine the athletic destinies of the schools and arrange schedules for conference members. Lodell's work this year is particularly noteworthy, for in spite of the strained financial conditions here, as elsewhere, he has been largely responsible for Oregon State's staying in the running in various competitions.

Bern Hafenfeld, who graduated in the school of commerce in 1928, is assistant graduate manager and is directly in charge of the financial operations of the Oregon State Daily Barometer and the Beaver. He is also responsible for the financing of all locally played games and for the arrangement of seating facilities of Orange guests at home athletic contests. One of his most commendable achievements during this year was that of setting prices for the Southern California basketball series low enough that the student body could support the contests. Hafenfeld is a former Orange athlete, having played football and baseball while in school. He is younger than most college managers on the coast and has made quite a name for himself as the genial handler of Orange athletic finances.

Carl Lodell, Graduate Manager

Art Taaffe, '26 in commerce, is director of the Oregon State college athletic news service. His is the responsibility of getting publicity for all Oregon State teams and for all Orange games, whether they be at home or abroad. Art, who is known to all sports authorities on the coast as a smiling Irishman who knows all about Oregon State teams of the past and present, has gotten quite a reputation for being able to forecast the outcome of future sports events with great accuracy.

Dorothy Knowlton, ex-'33 in commerce, was appointed this year to do all of the secretarial work for the graduate manager's office and Art Taaffe. As part of her duties she prepared copies of all stories that Taaffe releases for the newspapers in the state and takes care of all files in the publicity office. In the absence of Lodell and Hafenfeld she transacts all student business. These two men are gone a good deal of the time so that her responsibility is varied.

The Varsity "O" association is composed of lettermen in football, basketball, baseball and track. Each year the association sponsors a number of events to raise money for their clubroom located on the second floor of the Memorial Union building. This clubroom is strictly for wearers of the Orange "O." During the past year the group organized and carried through a most successful all-college boxing-wrestling meet. Under the guidance of Marsh Dunkin, president, the group raised its prestige this year and became better known on the campus and outside of school as an aggressive organization. Plans have been made for next year to increase the furnishings of the clubroom and promote a number of benefits.

Varsity Yell Leaders
Pep Committee

Yell Leaders

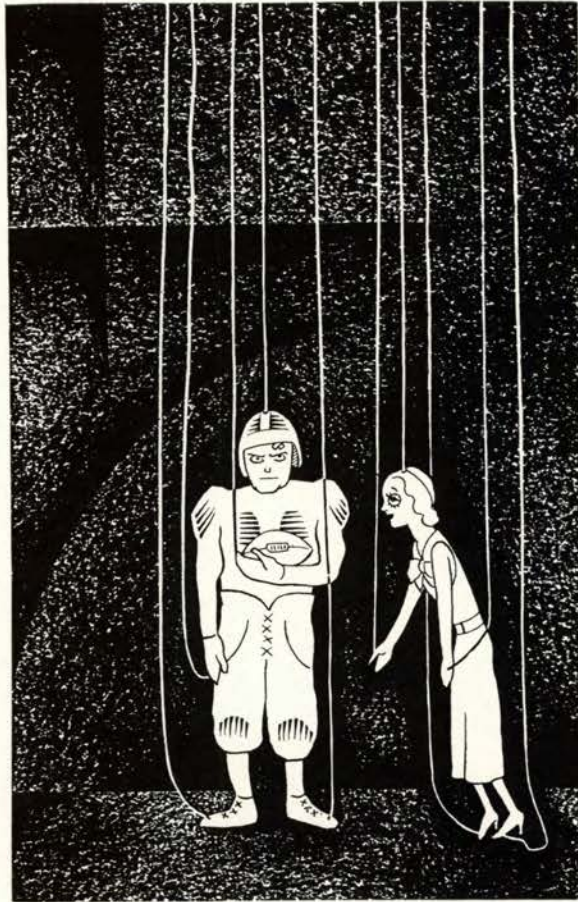

Student support of varsity athletic contests on the campus is largely in the hands of the varsity yell leader. Forrest Lindsay, varsity yell king, did an excellent job this year in handling the rooting section and arousing student enthusiasm, even though the Orange team was on the low side of the score. He was able to keep student morale well up the scale throughout the football season in spite of the fact that the Beavers lost nearly all their conference games. Two assistants, LeRoy Thomas and George Williams, helped Lindsay with the difficult task of creating Beaver spirit.

The yell leaders were highly complimented by Coach "Slat" Gill for their efforts in arousing Beaver spirit during the basketball season and their ability to prevent an undue amount of "booing" at the games.

Each year yell leading classes are held from which the best candidates are picked and their names placed on the ballot at the spring student body election. LeRoy Thomas was chosen yell leader for the coming year.

Pep Committee

The Pep committee headed by Luke Tormey was organized at the first of the year and has continued to make itself heard from in most of the student body affairs. One of its outstanding enterprises was the way it handled the rally at the Paramount theater during the Stanford game weekend in Portland. The committee also officiated at the game and was largely responsible for the lack of confusion at Multnomah stadium. In the early part of fall term the Pep committee began sponsoring regular matinee dances every Wednesday from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Memorial Union ballroom. Numerous special features and attractions helped to make the pep dances a continued success during the school year and to bring about their main purpose—uniting Oregon State students in an enthusiastic feeling for the school. Tormey was assisted by Lee Sutton, Shine Mack, Bud Nock, Marian Selberg, Estora Ricks, Doris Buck, Hal Whiteside, Dick Dunn, Hugh O'Neill, Forrest Lindsey, Howard Douglass, Vera Weber and Ken Ackles, all of whom worked diligently.

Football Coaching Staff

After serving as head football coach at Oregon State college for nine years, Paul J. Schissler terminated his duties here little more than a month after the close of the 1933 football season by turning in his resignation and leaving to find new lands to conquer. Schissler held the football coaching reins at Oregon State for a greater length of time than any of his predecessors and hung up an enviable record while guiding the Orangemen on the gridiron. Under his leadership the Oregon State football teams were known up and down the coast for their fight and their ability to stick through any kind of conditions.

In his 19 years of coaching Schissler's teams won 113 games, tied 3 and lost 41. After several successful seasons at Lombard college Schissler was brought to Oregon State in 1924 where he immediately set to work making a name for the Beavers in the football world. In 1926 his great team lost only one game during the year and was rated first in defense and tenth on offense by sports authorities. Perhaps the greatest fame won under Schissler's guidance was in inter-sectional contests where the Orangemen hung up an enviable record.

In his efforts to build great teams at Oregon State Schissler gathered together men who had served under him in previous years as players to make up one of the best coaching staffs on the coast. The four men upon whose advice Schissler placed a great amount of weight were Alonzo Stiner, Roy Lamb, Verne Eilers and Jim Dixon.

Stiner, who came here in the fall of 1928 following several years as assistant coach at the University of Colorado, acted as assistant coach and not only was a great aid in building up the sturdy Orange forward wall but did practically all the scouting against other schools. Stiner played two years at Lombard under Schissler before transferring to Nebraska where he won all-American recognition.

Lamb, whose main duties were to train and coach the backfield men was another Lombard star who won all-American fame under Schissler. During his college days Lamb was a great passer and has been able to pass his great art on to many of the Orange ball-packers.

In addition to his duties as freshman football coach, Eilers helped a great deal with the development of the line players. As a varsity player under Schissler, Eilers won recognition as one of the best guards even to play for the Beavers.

Dixon, who has been varsity line coach since 1927, was one of the best linemen ever to show his wares for Oregon State and during his years of work here has turned out many outstanding line players.

Stanford Game

Oregon State's football team opened its conference season against Stanford at Portland, October 1. The Orangemen, rated as an up and coming outfit prior to the conference season's opening, went down to defeat at the hands of Stanford 27 to 0. It was just a matter of how many times Pop Warner's Indians could get down the field to score in the sixty minutes of play. Although Stanford was generally rated as strong prior to game time due to its usual good performances, the Orangemen were given a better than even chance to upset the Cardinals. Not only was the defeat a disappointment to student followers but to Orange backers throughout the country.

Stanford never had to open up against the Beavers and used the same old Warner "razzle-dazzle" spinners, reverses and fake reverses to subdue an already tame ball club. Oregon State threatened to score only once and that was late in the first quarter when Johnny Biancone threw a 14-yard pass to Harold Pangle and then ran to the Stanford 10-yard line where Pangle fumbled before the Orange drive could gain impetus. Stanford scored one touchdown in the first period, another in the second and two in the fourth after a quiet third period.

Although Stanford looked like a conference championship team against the Orangemen it soon lost its drive and ended the season well down the conference ladder thus showing how poor the Beavers were at Portland. Following Oregon State's pitiful showing against the Indians quite some hubbub arose in alumni and student circles against Coach Paul John Schissler, as all blame was laid at his door.

U. S. C. Game

Upon returning home from Portland after losing to Stanford, members of the football team and coaches were made the butt of scathing student, faculty, alumni and press criticism. Fired with the resolution to show critics that they could play football the Orangemen went south to Los Angeles where they met Southern California in their second conference game of the season. Southern Cal won 10 to 0 but in so doing took one of the severest drubbings it had received in some time.

Spectators at the Southern Cal-Oregon State fracas marveled at the stubborn defense put up by the Orangemen through the first three quarters. Figured as a push-over for the men of Troy the Beavers gave Southern Cal fans one of their year's biggest scares. Southern Cal did not score until the last four minutes of the first half when Orv Mohler tossed a beautiful forward pass to Ford Palmer which was good for 43 yards. The Trojans had been unable to make substantial yardage against the Orangemen until then, but found the secret by taking to the air. In the third quarter Mohler broke loose for a 45-yard run and was hauled down on Oregon State's 20-yard line. From there the Trojans gained 7 yards and Ernie Smith then dropped back and sent a place kick through the uprights for three points.

Three different times the Orangemen worked the ball deep into Trojan territory only to be withheld just as stiffly as they had stopped their opponents. The Orangemen more than redeemed themselves by making such an outstanding showing against the national champion Trojans. The Orange showing was the best made by an Oregon State team against the Trojans in years and excited much comment in sports circles.

Biancone Carries the Ball

Washington State Game

After a two-weeks' rest Oregon State met Washington State, a traditional foe, at Corvallis in its third conference game. Rated on a par prior to game time both teams put on a spectacular battle which ended in Washington State's favor 7 to 6. The game was almost an exact duplicate of that played in Portland the year before when the Cougars won by the same score while Oregon State gathered more yardage and outplayed its opponents in every department of the game.

John Eubank's dry toe provided the margin of victory for the Cougars. The Cougars scored their touchdown seven minutes after the start of the contest when George Sander made a 38-yard run taking the ball to the 18-yard line where he passed to Arbelbide who took it to the 3-yard line. On the third down Colburn, fullback, took it over.

Oregon State's score came with barely a minute to go in the fourth period after Hal Pangle carried a poor Cougar punt to the Washington State 18-yard line. Hal Moe then completed a 9-yard pass and John Biacone carried the ball over on the fourth down by an off-tackle thrust. The Cougar victory was the fifth straight for Babe Hollingberry and his crew over the Oregon Staters.

The Orangemen worked well into Cougar territory several times during the contest but could not drive their scoring sprees far enough within the 20-yard stripe to bring home a winning tally. It was in the Washington State game that Tommy Ward's ankle was seriously injured and Red Franklin's arm was broken thereby putting Oregon State badly in the hole with two of its slipperiest offensive aces on the injured list. Bell field was at its muddiest and rain fell throughout the contest.

Oregon Game

After playing through an even contest for three periods, Mark Temple, Oregon halfback, snared one of Keith Davis' long punts and ran over a muddy field for 65 yards to score a touchdown and bring victory to Oregon over Oregon State, 12 to 6, in the traditional battle between the two teams at Oregon State's homecoming celebration. The game, as in previous years, was played in pouring rain, on a muddy field and with a slimy ball.

Temple played the perfect Frank Merriwell part for it was his fumble behind his own goal line that led the way to Oregon State's lone touchdown. When Temple fumbled the ball, Danforth fell on it two yards in front of the goal line and Hal Moe then punched it over after three plays.

Oregon's other touchdown, which came in the third period after the first half had ended 6 to 0 for Oregon State, followed a 33-yard drive in which Mike Mikulak, Webfoot fullback, was the big offensive spark. Biancone's intentional toss out of bounds on the 30-yard stripe hit one yard in from the side line and Wishard fell on it thereby giving Oregon an opportunity to start its scoring drive. Mikulak bucked the touchdown over from the one-yard stripe. Neither team was able to convert its try-for-point kicks as the ball was too slimy and the footing too slippery. Keith Davis' punting was the feature of the contest as he kept the Orangemen out of danger time and again with his consistently long kicks.

Oregon's victory was the twentieth in thirty-six sessions between the two institutions. The Webfoot victory made it four wins, four losses and one tie for the Orangemen under Coach Schissler.

Muddy—As Usual

Montana Game

On its way east seeking intersectional victories Oregon State college football team stopped at Missoula where it completed its conference football season against Montana by winning over the lowly Grizzlies, 35 to 6. The game was the usual slow, uninteresting contest staged every year by the schools, and the Orangemen had little trouble in subduing their opponents. Coach Schissler used all of his squad in the game giving inexperienced men ample opportunity to get ready for the two Orange intersectional contests in the east.

The Grizzlies scored a touchdown in the first three minutes of play on a long run by Stransberry, left halfback, and a forward pass. When the final whistle blew ending the game, Montana had the ball within a yard of the Orange goal line, playing against the Orange third string. It rained throughout the contest, Montana's homecoming feature, and fast play was out of the question.

A pass to Arnold Heikenen, a pass to Hal Moe, a safety, another pass to Moe, a 40-yard run by Tommy Ward and a line plunge by Ed McIntosh accounted for Oregon State's scores. Oregon State's passing was remarkable for a muddy field as passes paved the way for every Beaver tally.

The Orangemen were more than pleased to finish their conference season against Montana and perhaps a bit more pleased to leave Missoula, for they played in the worst weather they had seen for many a year. Leaving Missoula the night of the game, the Orangemen sped on toward New York where they were scheduled to meet Fordham university at the Polo Grounds in New York, November 19. The Orangemen then journeyed to Detroit for a game with Detroit university.

Non-Conference Games

Three non-conference football games were arranged on the Orange schedule last season. The opening season non-conference tilt was against Gonzaga university at Spokane, September 10. The Orangemen won the tilt 19 to 16 but met with one of the toughest teams on the coast and experienced one of the fastest, closest games of the season. The Orange second non-conference game was with Willamette university, September 24 at Corvallis. The Beavers easily captured that tilt from Spec Keene's proteges 32 to 0. Coach Schissler used most of his squad against the Bearcats. The third and last non-conference contest came October 28 at Corvallis, a night game in the middle of the conference season, when the Orangemen defeated West Coast Army 20 to 9. The Army men gave the Beavers a nice scare when they scored on a long pass in the opening minutes of the game against the Orange second team but the Statemen soon settled down and played good ball. Willard Jarvis, Ed McIntosh and Ted Hermann starred for Oregon State against the Army.

Oregon State played two intersectional games last season. Both were played in the east, the first against Fordham university at New York which the Rams won 8 to 6 in a sea of mud. Oregon State was outplayed in every department of the game and only Keith Davis's punting kept the team from being scored upon time and again. From New York the Beavers journeyed to Detroit where they met the Titans Thanksgiving Day. Detroit finished the Orange season with a 14 to 6 win, thereby breaking the great Orange intersectional winning streak. Detroit beat the Orangemen on passes as did Fordham, although the Orangemen reported Detroit not nearly so good as Fordham.

Rook Football Squad

Rook Football

The 1932 freshman football season probably will go down in the record books as one of the most successful in local history as the 1932 gridiron edition of the Orange rooks completed its season without a single loss to mar its record. The first-year men posted a 37 to 0 victory over the Chemawa Indians in the opening game of the year. In the remaining two games, both with University of Oregon frosh, the Orange babes were held to scoreless ties.

Verne Eilers, freshman football coach, had a good starting lineup but was sadly lacking in reserve material. Although a large squad of men turned out for practice nearly every night, most of them were not experienced or heavy enough for the tougher competition.

The playing schedule was small for the 1932 season but the men received plenty of work as they scrimmaged against the varsity at least twice a week. In these scrimmages the rooks gained much valuable experience and came in close contact with the working principles of most of the football systems on the coast as the yearlings were required to take the part of varsity opponents.

In the walkaway victory over the Indians the rooks looked far from impressive and Coach Eilers used his entire squad in an effort to find a combination which could work the most smoothly. After the first few minutes of play the rooks began to click enough to start the touchdown parade that ended only when the closing gun was sounded.

The Orange first-year men entered the first game with University of Oregon frosh a few weeks later as the decided under-dog but surprised the rail-birds by carrying the offensive a large part of the time and holding the Lemon-Yellow men well in check. The game was played under extremely bad conditions as the field was sloppy from a heavy down-pour of rain. Individual honors for the first game went to Bob Patrick who did some sensational ball packing and who turned in a fine performance as safety man.

Although the rooks were handicapped by injuries in the second game with the frosh, the Orange yearlings again battled to a scoreless tie to close their season. Another heavy downpour of rain made playing conditions extremely difficult and neither team was able to keep a continued offense going. Ed Makela, who had been doing most of the blocking for the ball-carrying backs, tried his hand at punting for the first time and drew no little amount of praise by his fine kicking. He averaged nearly 50 yards a time with a wet ball.

Eilers had a fine staff of assistants in Arthur Gustafson, Cap Hylton and Joe Mack, who were responsible to a large extent for developing backfield men.

COACH •

Amory T. "Slats" Gill suffered through four years of hard luck at Oregon State as varsity basketball coach before he achieved the greatest of awards, the winning of the Pacific Coast Conference basketball championship in his fifth year at Oregon State. Gill, a graduate of this college, was judged one of the most outstanding players ever to perform on the coast in his playing regime for the Orange and carried over much of that ability into his more than successful coaching career. Still a young man, genial blonde-headed "Slats" is considered the outstanding student of basketball in conference coaching circles and has no peer as a thorough authority on the game in its present-day stage. He has developed many promising performers at Oregon State of whom Ed Lewis, this season's captain and center, who rivals only Gill, himself, in playing ability and all-around value as a basketball player, is outstanding.

The student body is proud of Coach Gill and his achievements in developing a Pacific Coast Championship team for O.S.C.

ED LEWIS

ALL-AMERICAN CENTER

Edward Collins Lewis, Oregon State's basketball captain and all-star center, is probably the most outstanding performer ever turned out at Oregon State. Lewis, a graduate of Washington high school of Portland, came to Oregon State in 1929 as the most sought after prep basketball player on the coast. While at Washington he was all-state center for two years and was leading state and city scorer. In his rook year at Oregon State he led his team in scoring and was the outstanding freshman center on the coast. During his first two years of varsity play Ed was consistently hindered by injuries but in his last year of competition for the Orange, he threw the injury jinx overboard and came out to set a new all-time conference scoring record of 173 points, as well as gaining all-northern division, all-coast and all-American honors as a basketball center. He has no equal in the northwest as a captain and a defensive and offensive player of all-around ability. Lewis is the only man being graduated from this season's Orange squad and there is no doubt that he will be more sorely missed than any three men might possibly be.

Washington Series

Oregon State defeated University of Washington, five times Northern Division champions, 42 to 34 in the first game of their four-game series at Corvallis. Although the Orangemen were leading only 25 to 19 at half time they rained the basket consistently in the second half to gain a 42 to 23 lead when Coach Gill sent in his second string with six minutes left to play. Captain Lewis was again high point man with 18 counters.

Washington nosed out the Beavers in the second encounter 30 to 24. Oregon State held a distinct edge over the Huskies in the first half until Ed Lewis was removed from the game with 6 minutes to go. Hill replaced Lewis and was not equal to the defensive duties allowing the Huskies to climb up to a 2 point jump from the Orangemen as the half ended 15 to 13 in Oregon State's favor. Oregon State was well in the running in the second half also until Lewis was taken from the game with four fouls.

Oregon State won the third game of the series from the Huskies at Seattle 33 to 29. Play was close throughout the game with neither team holding an outstanding advantage. The Orangemen led 17 to 14 at half time. Lewis, O'Connell and Lenchitsky were the shining lights of the fracas. Lewis was high point man with 11 points.

Upsetting the dope the Orangemen came back the second night at Seattle to win the fourth game of the series 32 to 26. Red McDonald played outstanding ball against the Huskies in the final game of the series. Captain Lewis was again high point man with 13 points for the evening. O'Connell played the best game of his entire career when he gave one of the best performances ever seen on the Husky court.

Washington State Series

The Orangemen took their conference opener from Washington State 25 to 22 at Pullman. The Orangemen came from behind with four minutes to play and took a scant lead which they were able to keep till the sound of the final gun. Captain Ed Lewis was the big gun for the Orangemen both on offense and defense and amassed a total of 12 points to take high scoring honors for the evening. Everett Davis played an outstanding game.

In the second encounter at Pullman the Cougars retaliated with a 27 to 20 win. The Orangemen experienced considerable difficulty in getting started and before they could click the Friemen had too much of a lead to be successfully overcome. Ken Willis and Huntly Gordon, Cougars, starred in the second contest although they were hard pressed by Roland Johnson, sophomore Cougar guard flash. Ed Lewis was easily the outstanding man for Oregon State.

Oregon State won the third game of the series at home 26 to 14. The Orangemen held a 13 to 8 lead at half time and scored enough points during the remainder of the game to stay well out in front. Whenever the visitors threatened enough Beaver baskets were scored to dampen Cougar spirits immediately. Lewis and Skeet O'Connell were high point men with eight and seven points respectively.

The Beavers were nosed out in an overtime period in the last game of the series at Corvallis when the Cougars broke a 28-28 deadlock to pull ahead 34 to 31. A wild rally had put the Beavers out in front by a single point with 47 seconds to go when Carl Lenchitsky fouled Huntly Gordon allowing the Cougar captain to tie the count as the regular period ended.

Idaho Series

Oregon State won the opening game of its series against the Idaho Vandals at Moscow by eking out a 32 to 31 win in an overtime period. The scrappy Vandals, much stronger than they were figured to be, gave the Orangemen one the toughest battles of their season's play. The game was exceedingly rough with 23 personal fouls being called. Ed Lewis was high point man with 16 points for the evening's festivities.

The Orangemen experienced just as much trouble in winning the second game from Idaho at Moscow, but finally pulled out with a 29 to 25 win as Captain Lewis' outstanding playing overcame a 16 to 8 half time lead in a thrilling second half comeback. Carl Lenchitsky aided Lewis considerably in winning the contest as he took many balls off the backboard for long passes and played a beautiful floor game.

In the third game of the Vandal series Oregon State routed the visitors by winning the tussle by a 46 to 26 count. Diminutive Merle Taylor, sophomore forward playing his first conference game, led the Orangemen to victory over the Vandals and tied with Ed Lewis and Skeet O'Connell for high scoring honors with nine points. Score at half time was 19 to 9 in the Orangemen's favor.

The Vandals upset the Beavers in the last game of the series by winning 30 to 26. The Orangemen were dead on their feet throughout the first half and although they put on a determined rally on the second half they were unable to overcome the Idaho lead. All hope of an Oregon State victory went fleeting when Ed Lewis went out of the game late in the second half with four personal fouls chalked up against him.

Grenier's Waiting

Oregon Series

The Orangemen defeated Oregon 31 to 21 in the first game of the series at Corvallis. The game was lacking in the usual thrills of contests between the two teams and was nearly a walkaway for the Orangemen. The Beavers were leading 16 to 8 at half time after the Gillmen had gone out in front with 9 minutes to play in the first half never to be headed. Red MacDonald was the outstanding player of the game.

Oregon lost the second contest of the series at Eugene to the Beavers 25 to 18. Captain Ed Lewis was high point man with 14 points and was closely pushed for all-star honors by Red MacDonald who has a habit of making things particularly interesting for Oregon athletic teams. Red Roberts, Oregon's all-star Captain-center, was leading for the Webfoots and played his usual spectacular defensive and offensive game.

Red MacDonald again starred as the Orangemen copped the third game of their four-game series from the Webfoots 32 to 27 to win the northern division title. MacDonald's free throw as regular time for the contest ended brought the score to 26-26 and allowed the Orangemen to throw in enough baskets in the overtime to win the game and the coveted title. MacDonald also led his team in scoring with 11 counters. The game was exceptionally rough with a total of 26 personal fouls being called on the two teams.

Oregon State added one more win over the Webfoots in the last game of their series to bring the Orange total to 12 wins and four losses as the season ended with a 34 to 24 win over the Lemon-Yellow team at Eugene. MacDonald who was red-hot for the weekend continued to rain the basket in the last tilt and was high point Orangeman with 13 counters.

1933 Pacific Coast Champions

Championship Playoff

Oregon State college basketball team, northern division champions, won two out of three games from Southern California, southern division champions, in a championship playoff at Corvallis to win the championship of the Pacific Coast basketball conference. It was the first win of any coast title in any sport by an Oregon State college athletic team and was more than enthusiastically greeted by students and hosts of friends and alumni of the college.

Turnouts were unusually good for all three games which were without a doubt the three best games of the season to be seen on the Orange court. The colorful Trojan team led by its genial coach Sam Barry, made a big hit with the fans. Its captain, Jerry Nemer, all-coast forward, probably was the best player to perform on the local court for many years for he had an overflowing abundance of dash, color and all-around playing ability.

In the first game of the series three thousand frantic spectators saw the Orangemen turn back a wild Southern California team in the last few minutes of play that broke down an eight point lead of the Beavers to a scant two points advantage for a final score of 35 to 33. Lanky Ed Lewis, Oregon State's colorful all-star captain-center, was easily the outstanding man on the court during the first game although Nemer and Lee Guttero, Trojan sophomore center, looked very good for the visitors.

The Trojans evened the series count in the second game when such an exhibition of long field goal shooting as has ever been seen on the Orange court was put on by the men of Troy. Led by their sensational Captain Jerry Nemer, the visitors threw in 15 field goals, the majority of which were sent in from around mid-court to win the game 36 to 28. Nemer led the scoring with 16 points. The Trojans put on a beautiful exhibition and won heads up.

Oregon State won the third and deciding game by a 24 to 19 score when the Trojans, minus the services of Guttero who injured his ankle in the closing minutes of the second game, put up a valiant fight but were just not the best ball players on the floor. It was one of the hardest fought games ever played on the Orange court as through the first twelve minutes of play the score stood 2-2 and not until late in the second half did the Orangemen pick up enough of a lead to stay at a safe distance in front. The game was packed with thrills throughout every minute of play as both teams repeatedly raced up and down the court to shoot and miss allowing the other team to return the pellet for an unrewarded journey. It was as close as any championship game which has ever been played on the Pacific coast for a title.

A large crowd attended the championship series each night and loyally supported the team. Reserved seats were sold out long before the opening game. Many alumni returned to see the first Pacific Coast Championship team turned out by Oregon State.

Freshman Basketball Squad

Rook Basketball

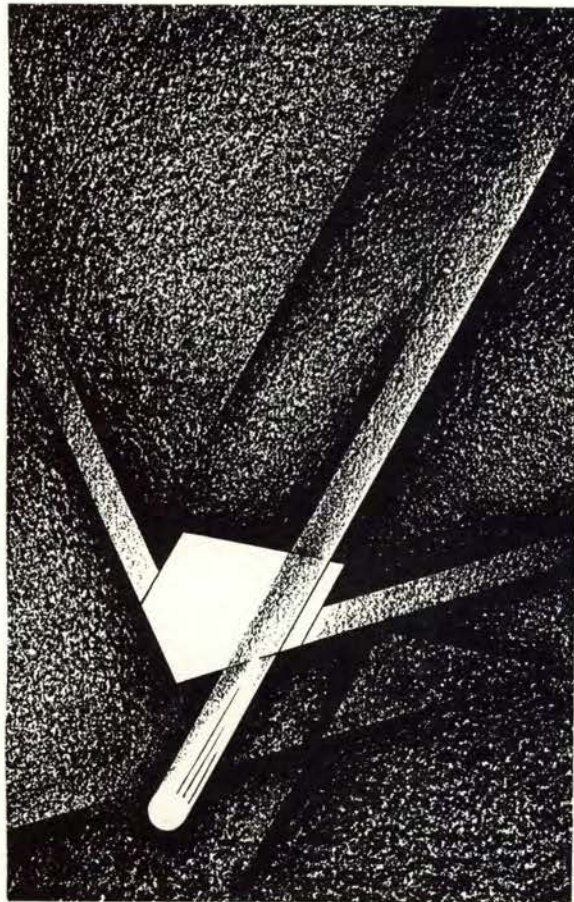

Oregon State rook basketball team under the direction of Coach Roy Lamb had an unusually successful season this year, splitting a four-game series with the University of Oregon frosh and winning the remainder of their games. The personnel of this season's babe hoop squad was not up to expectations, or at least not up to what it has been in past years so that the Orange youngun's had to play good ball to attain the fine record they did during the season.

The Orange yearlings opened their season against Corvallis high school at Corvallis and won 30 to 24. Mush Torson's Corvallis preppers were well coached and gave the rooks a scare or two. Lincoln and Commerce high schools of Portland came next in line as the rooks dumped the Cardinals 28 to 23 in one of their toughest games of the season and took the Stenogs in comparatively easy fashion the following afternoon 44 to 12. Corvallis high came back once more for a return game and this time lost 28 to 23 after leading the rooks at one time and causing Coach Lamb to wax hot on more than one occasion when diminutive Art Merryman, Corvallis forward, got unnecessarily hot on long shots. The Orange first year men next met Willamette freshmen at Salem and copped the contest 44 to 17 after Coach Lamb had used numerous substitutes who needed experience. A return game with the Bearcat babes was played at Corvallis the following weekend and the rooks again won although not quite so easily, by a score of 45 to 30.

The Oregon frosh came to Corvallis the following Friday to open the first game of the annual little civil war four-game series and walked off with the first one 30 to 27. The rooks went to Eugene the following afternoon and came back with a close 28 to 27 win under their belts. The following Friday night the Multnomah Club Intermediates of Portland came to Corvallis and managed to nose the rooks out by a 33 to 32 score after Garber, Club guard, sunk a long field goal from mid-court in the closing minutes of play. The Orange babes trimmed the Salem high school team at Corvallis 34 to 25 the following afternoon after Kelly and Wintermute, Capitol City prep stars, had shown the fans a few capers and thrown a few scares into the rooks. The Oregon frosh were next in line for the last two games of the season. The first contest of the weekend and the third of the series was played at Corvallis. The rooks won 32 to 31 when Art Durland sunk a short field goal as the gun sounded. The following night at Eugene the frosh took vengeance by winning 39 to 23. Lefty Palmberg and Art Bergstrom were outstanding for the rooks while Woody Joslin, Art Durland, Rod Blacker, Ed Zankich, Jim Moe, Art Williamson, Elmer Alskog and Sumner Aldridge were promising prospects.

1933 Varsity Baseball Squad

Baseball Coach and Squad

Although "Slats" Gill was new to his duties as baseball coach at the start of the 1932 Oregon State season, he was able to take a squad which had little promise and bring it through successfully. During the last half of the conference season, the Gillmen were considered one of the toughest teams to defeat in the northern division. The early season games were not all encouraging but the Orangemen developed fast enough under Gill's able tutelage to finish third in the conference with a record of eight games won and eight games lost.

Gill was given charge of the Oregon State varsity baseball season when Ralph Coleman, who had been coaching Orange baseball for several years, was required to devote all his time and energies to intramural sports. Lacking in experience which comes after many campaigns Gill turned his attention from basketball to baseball and soon had a large squad of hard-working lads out for positions.

Faced with a dearth of experienced material Gill shifted men about and uncovered a first-class nine before the end of the season. Although he was handicapped from the start of the year by poor weather conditions, Gill was able to put a dangerous combination on the field. Hitting power was almost entirely lacking and several shifts were made to give added offensive power to the Orange machine.

The catching department was the strongest part of the club as Bud Keema and Joe Mack could handle the stick well and both had considerable experience. To give the team the power which these two men's bats could add to the lineup, Gill shifted Mack from behind the bat to shortstop from which position, the chubby captain turned in one of his best years. Mack not only played a fine game while on the field but was the leading hitter among the regulars.

With no likely prospects out for first base Gill unearthed Joe Cronin from the reserves and made him into a first sacker who was not only a good hitter but was also able to answer the fielding needs of his position. For the rest of the infield Gill had to work with green men but was able to present a classy combination for conference opponents. Jim Clarke carried the duties at third base while Bob Johnson completed the infield at second base.

Late in the season John Biancone, star center fielder, was declared ineligible and Gill was faced with another tough problem in filling that hole. Apparently not at all taken back Gill shifted Walt Erickson from second string first baseman to a good fielder, who began to hit in an entirely unexpected manner.

Gill not only developed a good team but began to build for the 1933 season which from all appearances should be highly successful.

University of Oregon Series

Oregon State baseball team opened its conference season against University of Oregon here April 29. The Webfoots celebrated the season's opening by walloping the Orangemen 10 to 7 in nine innings. Oregon State tallied in the third and ninth innings while Oregon scored all of its counts in the last four innings.

In the second game of the season against Oregon at Eugene the Beavers came back and scored a 6 to 2 win over the Webfoots in seven innings. Oregon errors gave the Orangemen three runs in the first inning. Oregon scored in their half of the frame, scored once more in the fifth and Oregon State turned in three more in the sixth. Bob Peterson pitched well for the Beavers. A steady downpour of rain halted the game in the seventh canto.

Playing their third game of the four-game series, June 1, the Orangemen turned in a 4 to 3 win at Eugene. The Beavers staged a three-run rally in the seventh frame to sew up the game. Poor support cost Ken Scales, Oregon pitcher, a victory as he allowed only five hits. Lefty Woodard got a bit wild in the tight places while pitching for Oregon State, but his teammates gave him brilliant support.

In the final game of the season played at Corvallis, Oregon evened the count to two games a piece by scoring a 6 to 3 win over the Orangemen. Oregon took the lead in the opening stanza scoring two runs and added two more in the fourth and one each in the fifth and sixth. The Beavers scored one in the fifth and two in the seventh. Bob Peterson and Roy Lundberg pitched for the Orangemen. Edwards, pitching for Oregon, held the Beavers to seven hits and looked good in the pinches.

University of Idaho Series

Oregon State college baseball team opened its four-game series against University of Idaho at Corvallis, May 9. The Orangemen landed on the offerings of three pitchers and brought in a 12 to 4 victory in an uninteresting, free-hitting game. The Orangemen broke into the lead in the first inning and were never headed. Henry Hughes, making his pitching debut for Oregon State, pitched nice ball until the seventh when he was relieved.

In the second Idaho contest at Corvallis the Orangemen again emerged victorious 11 to 5. Errors contributed greatly to Idaho's downfall as 10 bobbles were chalked up against the Vandals. Hits were divided—each team getting nine. Oregon State took a comfortable 7 to 1 lead in the first five innings and was never bothered the rest of the way.

Playing its third game of the Idaho series at Moscow, Oregon State again defeated Idaho 11 to 4. The Vandals held a two-run lead from the first to the third inning when it was tied. A four-run spree by Oregon State in the fourth put the tussle on ice. Bob Petersen, pitching for Oregon State, did some nice chucking. Idaho used Lacey and Spiers on the mound.

Oregon State made it four straight over the Idaho baseball nine in the last contest at Moscow winning 11 to 6. Cronin hit a homer with two on in the sixth and Clarke tallied with a three bagger scoring one. Jensen, Orange outfielder, led the Orangemen at bat with two three-baggers. Henry Hughes chucked for Oregon State while Spiers did the tossing for Idaho. The highlight of the Oregon State-Idaho series was Oregon State's hitting. Idaho's frequent fumbling was disastrous to the Vandal's hopes.

A Fast One!

University of Washington Series

Opening the four-game Washington series at Corvallis May 13, Washington trampled the Beavers 9 to 3 in nine innings. Although both teams collected 11 hits, Washington bunched its and came out on the long end. Oregon State held a one-run lead until the fifth when the Huskies had their big canto and scored four runs. Washington added one more run in each of the sixth and eighth and put the tussle on ice with three more in the final stanza.

The Orangemen came back with a vengeance in the second encounter at Corvallis winning 7 to 2. Washington scored its two runs in the second inning and Oregon State evened the count in its half of that canto; added two more runs in the fifth, and sewed up the game in the seventh with three more tallies. Washington's seven errors contributed to its downfall.

In the third contest of the series and the first to be played at Seattle, the Huskies emerged victorious, 5 to 1. Ed Putnam, Washington chucker, scattered the hits in the fifth, seventh and ninth innings and was never in danger of losing after the Huskies picked up two runs in the second and three more in the fifth.

One-hit pitching up until the ninth inning by Lefty Woodard, crafty Orange pitcher, held the University of Washington nine in check until the ninth inning when the Huskies punched across a run on three hits to win the last game of the series at Seattle by a score of 2 to 1. Anshutz' pinch single in the ninth scored Heaman with the winning tally, making it off Bob Peterson who had relieved Woodard. Gourlay, Husky twirler, allowed the Orangemen seven hits but kept them well scattered and was nicely out of danger during most of the contest.

Washington State Series

Washington State opened its four-game series against the Orangemen by capturing a 6 to 3 win at Corvallis. Carl Jensen, Orange outfielder, hit his second and third home-runs of the season, but his teammates were unable to get Karl Norby, crafty Cougar pitcher. Roy Lundberg pitched a good steady game for Oregon State but lost the tussle in the first canto when with two down Baechtel let a high fly go through his hands with the bases loaded.

In the second game at Corvallis, Washington State again triumphed by a score of 6 to 1. Two left-handed pitchers, Irvine of Washington State and Woodard of Oregon State, started the game but were both relieved—Irvine by Estill in the third and Woodard by Peterson in the sixth. Oregon State played errorless ball but failed in the pinches at bat allowing 12 men to die on the bases.

Oregon State dropped Washington State out of its championship hopes position at Pullman in the third game of a four-game series which the Orangemen won 9 to 5. While each team collected 11 hits, Washington State had a bad day being credited with eight errors in the field. Oregon State counted nine runs before Washington State saw home. Washington State rallied in the last three innings, but five runs were not enough to bring home the bacon.

Finishing the four-game series at Pullman, Washington State turned in a 3 to 2 victory in a fast, close, well-played contest. All runs were made in the first four innings after which the game resulted in a pitcher's duel between Karl Norby of Washington State and Lefty Woodard of Oregon State. John Biaeone led at bat with three blows, including a triple.

Rook Baseball Squad

Rook Baseball

Oregon State freshman baseball team wound up one of its most successful seasons last year by winning seven contests and dropping only two games. The Orange babes started off the season with a win over Albany college and the following weekend played a double-header winning by the score of 7 to 5 in a return contest with Albany college and by the score of 12 to 6 in a game with Eugene high school.

In the remaining games with schools outside of regular freshman competition with University of Oregon freshmen the rooks ran up a 10 to 0 win over Salem high school and followed not much later with a 10 to 2 victory over the same school. The rooks experienced little trouble in getting by the lesser competition and hit the Oregon frosh at full strength in the opening game of the regular spring four-game series.

Although the Orange babes were not up to form in the first encounter they came through in fine shape and pounded out a 9 to 6 victory in a wild game played on the Oregon State varsity diamond. The following afternoon the two teams journeyed to Eugene and in a pitchers' duel interspersed with timely hitting by the Oregon first-year men the Oregon State freshmen went down under the count of a 7 to 3 score.

With the count even between the two schools a long rest period was on the schedule before they clashed again and as a result Roy Lamb, freshman baseball coach, did his best to find a pitcher who would be able to stand up under the heavy hitting aggregation put on the field by the Oregon school. The third game, played in Eugene, turned out to be a nightmare for the Orange rooks as the frosh again hit the Orange pitching at will and ran up their second straight win by the score of 9 to 5.

The final game of the season and also between the yearling teams of the two schools found the Orange rooks somewhat in the hole for a good hurler. Lamb found a way to overcome this weakness and as a result the Beaver freshmen won the final game by pounding the ball to all corners of the lot and running up 22 runs while Drew was holding the Oregon nine fairly well in check with only nine runs. As a result of this overwhelming victory the Orange babes completed their season with a record of five wins in outside competition and two victories and two losses in competition with teams of equal ranking.

Perhaps the only pitchers of note that the rooks could boast were Boyd Rasmussen, a left hander, and Jack Woodard, a right hander. Neither of these two were consistent enough to be extremely dependable but varsity coach Gill probably will have plenty of use for these two men on his 1933 edition of the Oregon State baseball team. George Hibbard, Dan Mitola and Joe Kappennann were other players showing promise for future varsity berths.

Varsity Track Squad

Track Coach and Squad

After three years of bad seasons the Oregon State track team took a decided turn for the better during the 1932 season under the able tutelage of Alonzo Stiner, who had coached rook track for three years without a single defeat. Stiner took over the reins of the Orange track team early in the year and without a great deal of outstanding material slowly developed a squad which was able to close its season with a clear cut victory over University of Oregon.

Not only was the material below the standards which a coach could expect to construct an outstanding track and field squad but weather conditions were so bad that little outside work could be carried on. Sunshine which usually is so important for limbering the runners' muscles was almost entirely lacking throughout the whole season.

With his squad in not the best of shape Stiner took his men to Eugene to meet Oregon in the annual relays in the first meet of his coaching career as varsity head man. The Orangemen apparently had a good chance to cop the meet until one of the Beaver hurdlers failed to touch off the next runner in the shuttle relay event. In a dual meet with University of Washington the Orangemen failed to get underway, showing their lack of work outdoors but a few weeks later Washington State watched the Beaver trackmen whittle a large margin down to ten points and only in the last event did the Cougars become assured of winning the meet.

In the Northern Division P. C. C. meet in Seattle the Orangemen placed fourth and in the Olympic trial held at the same time qualified two men. Although Charles Fyock was only a rook, Stiner took the speed merchant north with him and had the pleasure of watching the first-year man breeze through the 100-meter qualifications for the quarter-finals of the Olympic trials. Everett Davis, who will captain the Orangemen in 1933, placed second in the javelin with a toss of 195 feet which let him under the wire for the quarter-finals of the Olympic tryouts. After finishing below Oregon in the Northwest meet, Oregon State returned to its home field to wind up the 1932 track season in a blaze of glory by defeating the Webfoots.

Although his team was weak at the start, Stiner developed his men with enough speed to be one of the strongest schools in the conference and Oregon State should have one of its best track squads in years for the 1933 season. The lettermen who will be missing are Millard Rodman, Bill Mullin, Tom Cantine, Bob Prentiss, Gil Bergerson and Jay Chatterton. Because of the poor financial conditions Oregon State will compete on a reduced basis for 1933.

Lon Stiner, Coach

Washington Meet

Oregon State was unable to withstand a terrific onslaught by the Huskies of the University of Washington in the first dual track and field meet of the 1932 season and were snowed under by a score of 92 to 38. The Orangemen showed the lack of sufficient practice which was due to poor early season weather conditions. This was especially true in the running events where the Huskies took every first place. In the field events the Orangemen showed much better form and took firsts in the broad jump, javelin and shot put.

The Huskies who had won the northern division track title for seven straight years, were unstoppable and gave indications of sweeping through to their eighth straight title. Although the Orangemen did not click in the sprints, they piled up points in the field events when Skeet O'Connell took the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 7 inches; when Davis tossed the javelin 193 feet 6 inches, and when Berger-son putted the shot 47 feet 1 inch.

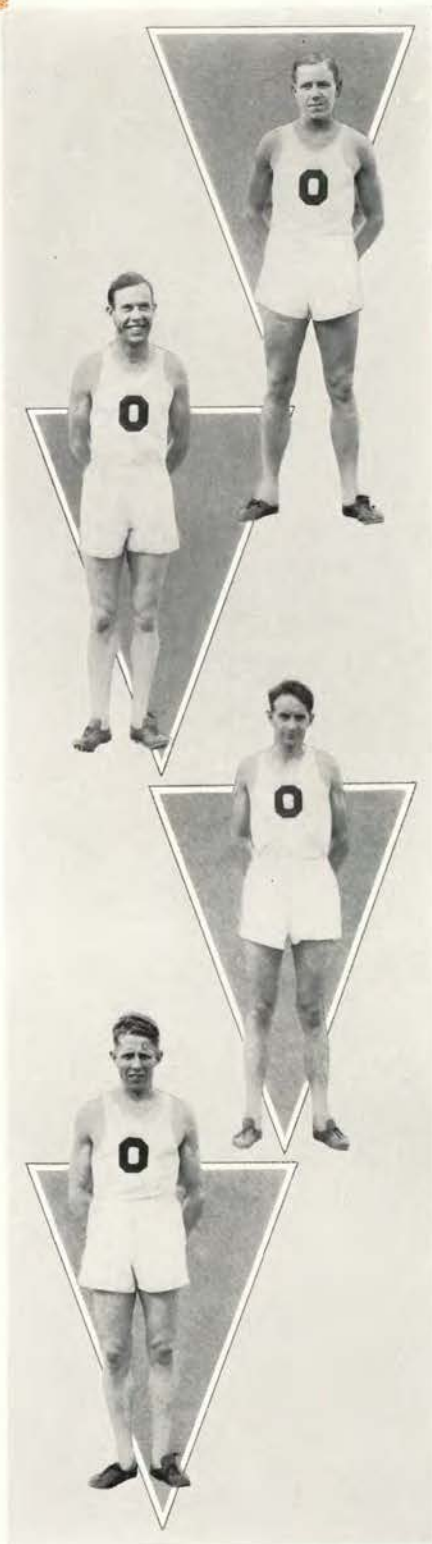

The men wearing the Orange battled throughout but were unable to cope with the superior material and better conditioning of the Washington athletes. Thrills were many despite the large score as proved in the mile relay which saw the Orangemen nearly sweep through to a win but for the sensational sprint of Eddie Genung of Washington, national A. A. U. half-mile champion, down the stretch where he overtook an early Orange lead and forged through to nose out the Beaver anchor man. O'Connell not only took the broad jump but turned his attention to the sprints and came away with points in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash events to lead the Orange scorers.

Washington State Meet

Oregon State track team was unable to take points in the long distance events against Washington State and as a result dropped enough valuable points to lose the dual meet by a score of 71 to 60. At one time in the meet the Orangemen held a 22-point lead over the highly touted Cougars and only the loss of a sure first in the hurdles and the fact that they were outscored 23 points to four in the distance events which came at the last of the meet held the Oregon State trackmen from scoring a decided upset.

With only the two-mile and the relay left after 13 events had been completed Washington State led by a 60 to 57 score and needed only a first and a third in the two-mile to clinch the meet. Not only did the Cougars do this but they went on to take the relay and add more points to their total.

Washington State took nine firsts while the Orangemen were winning six. Events which the Cougars won were the mile, broad jump, high hurdles, pole vault, half mile, high jump, low hurdles, two-mile and relay. The Orangemen placed first in the 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, javelin, furlong, shotput and discus.

Individual high point honors were divided between Skeet O'Connell of Oregon State and Ken Sparks of Washington State who tied with 13 points each.

O'Connell scored his points by taking firsts in the century and furlong and second in the broadjump.

Sparks gained his points in the high and low hurdles where he took both firsts and in the high jump where he tied with three other Cougars for first place.

Oregon Track Meets

Oregon State trackmen broke even with University of Oregon in competition during the 1932 season. Although Oregon scored a five to three victory in the relays early in the season, the Orangemen came back in the last meet of the year and ran up a $66\frac{1}{3}$ to $64\frac{2}{3}$ score. Coach Stiner took his charges to Eugene for the relays and after piling up a big lead and seemingly with the meet in the bag one of the hurdlers failed to touch off the next runner in the shuttle relay event and Oregon came from behind to carry off the laurels.

In the dual meet with Oregon at Corvallis the afternoon's proceedings were going nip and tuck and with only the two-mile run and relay left to go. With the score $59\frac{2}{3}$ to $57\frac{1}{3}$ in favor of Oregon, the Orangemen swept through to take the first three places and put the meet on ice. Six runners started, three from each team, but after the half-way mark, the Orange distance men kept up such a hot pace that two of the Oregon runners had to drop out while the third was lagging far behind. Cantine who had been leading the parade until the last lap dropped behind and made sure of the sweep while Chatterton and Willison placed first and second. Oregon won the relay after staving off a great Orange spurt in the last lap but were forced to take second honors for the meet.

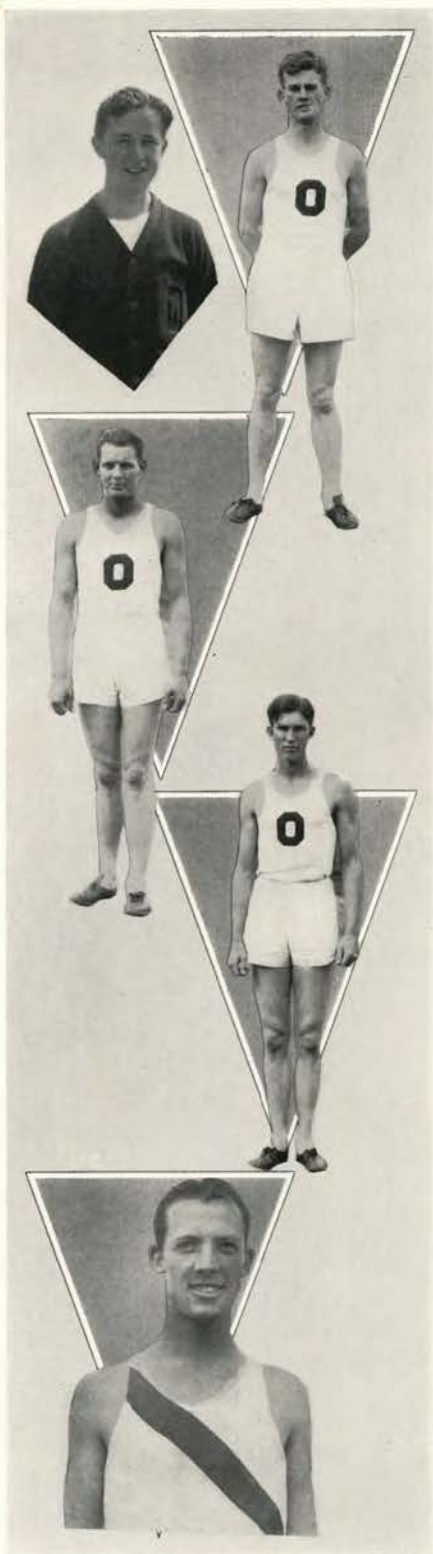

Although conditions for outstanding performances were not of the best, several records were cracked or tied. Duane Kirk of Oregon State broke the quarter-mile record by stepping the distance in :49.4. Starr of Oregon tied the record for the 220-yard race and McCoy of Oregon tied the mark in the high hurdles.

Northern Division P. C. C. Meet

In the Northern Division P. C. C. meet held in Seattle, Oregon State placed fourth with a score of 21 points. Washington State took the title by running up 46 points to Oregon's 41 and Washington's 40. As the quarter-finals of the Olympic tryouts were held in conjunction with the meet, Coach Stiner took two of his freshman sprint stars north with him. They were unable to run for points but Charles Fyock qualified for the tryouts in the 100-meter event by stepping the distance in 10.7 seconds. Everett Davis placed second in the javelin throw but qualified for the Olympic trials.

Oregon State looked much improved over the team that lost to Washington in Seattle earlier in the season. The Orangemen began to show the promise which later developed to such an extent that they were able to defeat the University of Oregon in a dual meet.

Although Davis was unable to win the javelin event, he turned in one of his best performances and placed second to Art Crews of Washington State who set a new conference record by tossing the spear 199 feet 3 inches, an exceptionally long distance.

Washington State furnished the big surprise of the meet by coming through to win the title over the highly favored Washington Huskies. To cap off the day's events University of Oregon uncovered amazing strength to take second from Washington by a single point. Oregon State was far behind and had to be content with qualifying the two men for the Olympic trials which were to be held later.

The weather conditions were excellent and aided the runners greatly in lowering times.

Rook Track Squad

Rook Track

In his first year as freshman track coach Jim Dixon turned out one of the best groups of track and field men seen here in many long years. Not only did the rooks sweep through a heavy schedule undefeated but they scored a double win over the University of Oregon frosh, the first in the dual relay meet and the second in the dual track meet.

The strong rook trackmen started their season by swamping Corvallis high school under a lop-sided score of 98 to 6. In the second meet of the year, the Oregon frosh dual relay meet, the Orange babes took four of the five events to post a four to one victory. The rook medley relay team composed of Bill Rutherford, Bob Patrick, Art Nixon and Bob Bryant swept through to a new meet record by posting a time of 7:57.

Journeying to Forest Grove in the middle of the season the rooks took a five-way meet from Willamette valley opponents by scoring a total of $69\frac{2}{3}$ points. Pacific placed second with $55\frac{1}{3}$, Columbia third with 14, Salem "Y" next with $13\frac{1}{2}$ and Monmouth Normal fifth with $11\frac{1}{2}$ points. Norman Franklin gave the railbirds a big surprise in this meet when he stepped the 100-yard dash in 9.9 seconds, a new record for the rooks.

Returning from their triumph the Orange first-year men ran away with a triangular meet by scoring 99 points to Eugene high's 14 and Corvallis high's 13. The rooks were so far superior that the result of the meet was never in doubt.

Having swept through their earlier meets with little or no tough competition the Oregon State first-year men tangled with University of Oregon freshmen in the last meet of the year and nosed out the Lemon-Yellow youngsters by a score of 65 to 57.

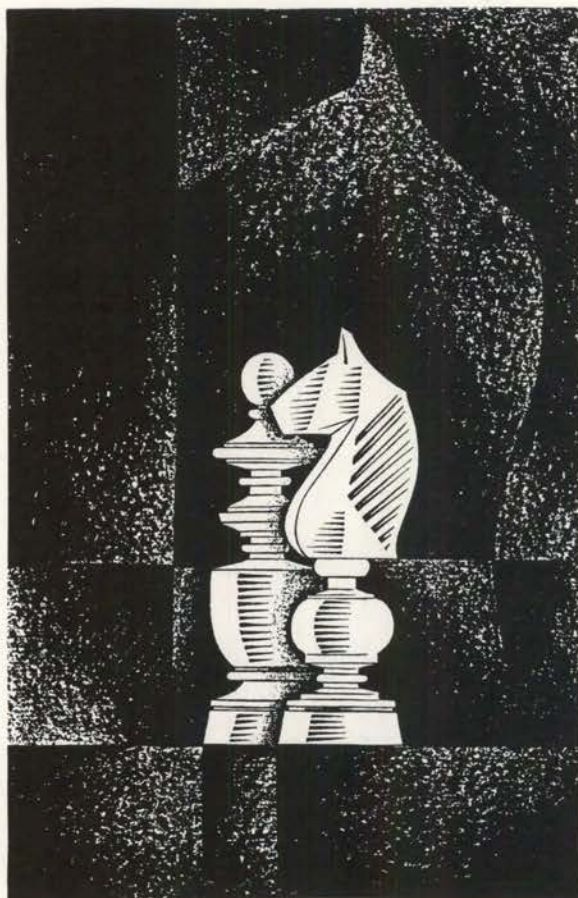

Bryant of the rooks stepped the mile run in 4:32.6 to set a new dual meet record and nose out Wagner of the frosh who had been all-state mile champion while in high school. Willard White, another rook, trotted forth a record-tying performance by running the half-mile event in 2:02. Demaris of the frosh tossed the javelin better than 197 feet to set a new record.

In the last event of the day, the mile relay, the rooks star quartet got under way and ran the distance in the record-breaking time of 3:35.7. Men on the winning four were Rutherford, Bill Patrick, Bob Patrick and Koerner.

Although he was just starting his first season as freshman track coach, Dixon developed several men into potential stars for the varsity. His biggest threats were Red Franklin, Charles Fyock and the Patrick twins in the sprints and Bryant, the flashy miler, that uncovered worlds of talent and future possibilities.

Varsity Swimming

Oregon State won the mythical Northwest Intercollegiate Swimming title and was represented by one of the strongest swimming teams in the history of the school this season under the guidance of Jack E. Hewitt, varsity coach. With five lettermen, Al Van Gilse, Ray Schwarz, Herb Eisenschmidt, Eldon Ball and Jim Wilson strengthened by excellent swimmers from last year's rook squad Coach Hewitt developed the strongest and best-balanced scoring combination ever to represent Oregon State in swimming.

The Beavers had three meets in which they defeated the University of Washington in Seattle 45-21; the Portland Natatorium in Portland 41-34, and a week later again defeated a Corvallis team by the same score. A water polo game against the natatorium followed this meet which the Orangemen won 10-0 with Jim Wilson and Ray Schwarz starring for the Beavers. In the first meet with the Nat splashers Vic Smith, Beaver sprinter, tied the Northwest intercollegiate record of 56 seconds in the 100-yard free-style. In the return meet a week later Herb Eisenschmidt, Beaver captain and distance man, broke the Northwest Intercollegiate and local tank record in the 440-yard free-style by seven seconds.

With a five-man team composed of Herb Eisenschmidt, Tom Robins, Vic Smith, Morrie Staton and Harvey Johnson, Oregon State met and defeated the University of Washington in Seattle by winning every first place, thus having a claim to the mythical Northwest Intercollegiate Swimming title, as the University had defeated both Washington State college and the University of Idaho.

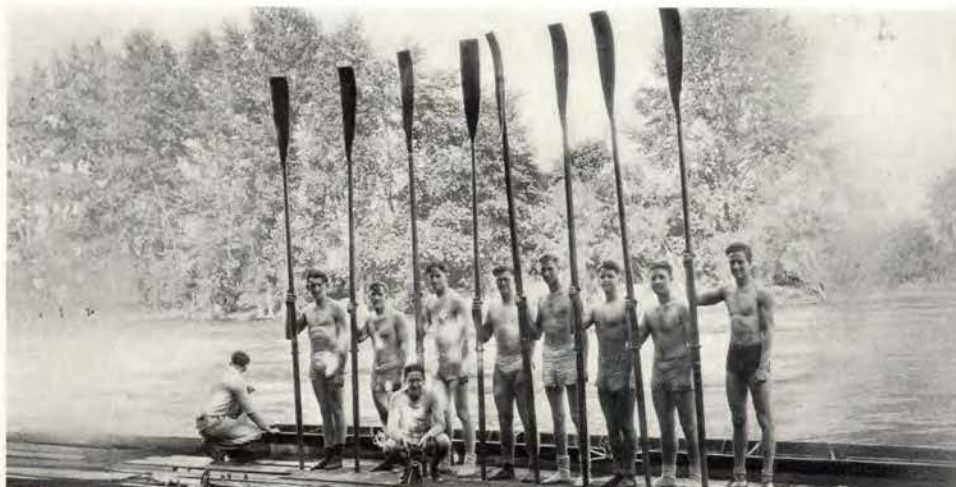

Oregon State placed third in team totals in the Pacific Northwest swimming championships held in Seattle April 6 and 7 with Harvey Johnson, Oregon State diver, winning and retaining the high board diving crown and Al Van Gilse, breaststroker, and Tom Robins, backstroker, qualifying in the finals.

Four men, Captain Eisenschmidt, Ray Schwarz, Eldon Ball, and Jim Wilson, have completed their last year of varsity competition and will be lost to the squad next year. Of these four men the loss of Eisenschmidt will be the greatest. Eisenschmidt has been a consistent winner in his events and while swimming for the Beavers has established six state and Northwest records and has assisted in establishing three more.

Men on the squad this year were Vic Smith, Ray Schwarz, Ken Mayer, Eldon Ball, Morrie Staton, Herb Eisenschmidt, Harvey Johnson, John Mizulo, Tom Robins, Roy Mueller, Al Van Gilse, Les Richards, Jim Wilson, Bill Failing and Mark Briggs.

Crew

Although crew is not classed as a regular sport at Oregon State as is the case at most of the other major institutions of higher learning on the Pacific coast, the rowing sport has been growing in popularity during the past few years until serious thought has been given to arranging for Oregon State crews to enter outside competition. In past years unofficial races have been held with Portland crews but as yet the Orange rowers have never matched strokes with another college.

Crew was given an intramural ranking recently and is being closely followed by rowing enthusiasts on the campus. The main attractions for the year are the annual class races between picked crews during Campus weekend. Interest in this event rises to a high point and each class makes every effort to come through with the winning colors.

Early in the spring each year crew aspirants are summoned and directed to the Willamette river, whose broad expanse serves as the field of endeavors for the husky strokeers. Long afternoons are spent in the training barge and only late in the year are the men allowed to uncover the shells for time trials.

When the time arrives for the huskies to turn their attention from the long training in the big rowing barge, class teams are picked from this group to represent each class in the late spring races. These groups then spend long hours of work getting into perfect synchronization in order that they may better uphold the honor of their classes. Amid the general festivities of Campus weekend the crews are sent to the posts of their mile and 5-16 course to be ready for the long pull ahead. The course is so constructed that the winning crew flashes under the Willamette bridge where the rowers may be able to hear the plaudits of the enthusiastic onlookers.

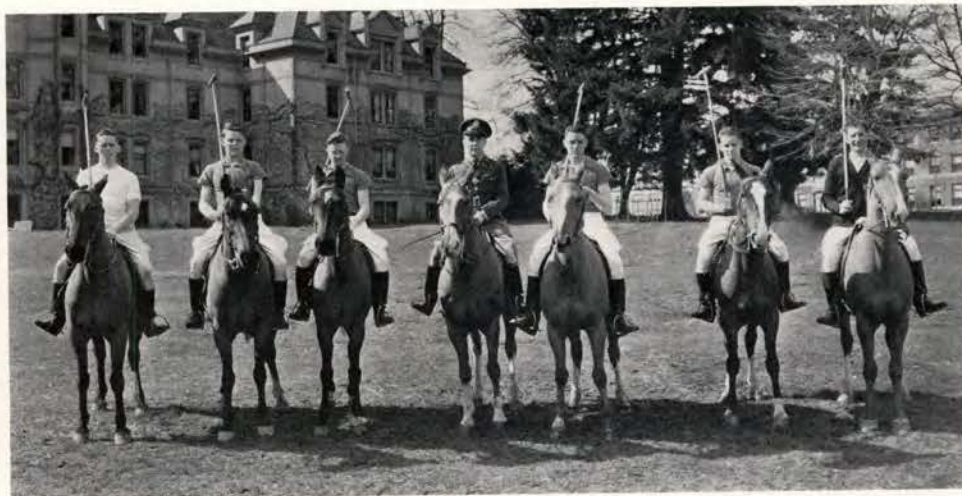

Howard Bullard, Club President

For the first time in several years the rook crew stroked itself smoothly over the waters of the Willamette and nosed out the seniors at the finish line to carry away the laurels with a speedy time of nine minutes flat. The seniors led nearly all the way but the last-lap spurt by the rooks was unstoppable and the last-year men watched their advantage slowly overtaken and then lost.

As a special feature and an added climax to the freshman's crew winning the race, William Gilbert, coxwain of the victorious shell, was tossed into the river in keeping with the custom which was inaugurated here some years ago. In the extremely keen competition for third place the husky crewmen of the junior class swept through to win and to have the consoling thought that they were able to nose out the sophomores for the dubious honor of finishing in last place.

Polo Club Mounted for Action

Polo

By winning seven games and losing five contests the 1932 Oregon State polo team wound up one of its most successful seasons. Perhaps the greatest accomplishment of the year was taking two out of three games from Vancouver Barracks in an outdoor series on the soldiers' home grounds, a feat which is rarely accomplished. The Orange mallet swingers won five and lost two games in indoor competition and won two and lost three in outdoor play.

Under the able tutelage of Major F. W. Bowley, the Orangemen swept through their indoor season in fine style running up five straight victories. The season was started with three triumphs over Portland Hunt club by scores of 18 to 10, 22½ to 16 and 26¼ to 6½. The first two games were played in the armory and the last was played in Portland. After these one-sided wins the Beaver stick wielders turned their attention to a game with Vancouver Barracks which boasted a first-class indoor trio. Uncovering a driving offense from the start the Orange riders galloped through the seven chukkers to an overwhelming 26 to 5 victory. The indoor home season was completed with a 23 to 8 win from an all-star team from Seattle. Over the spring vacation the Oregon State trio journeyed to Seattle and dropped two hard fought contests to the Seattle all-stars by scores of 6 to 6½ and 6 to 7½.

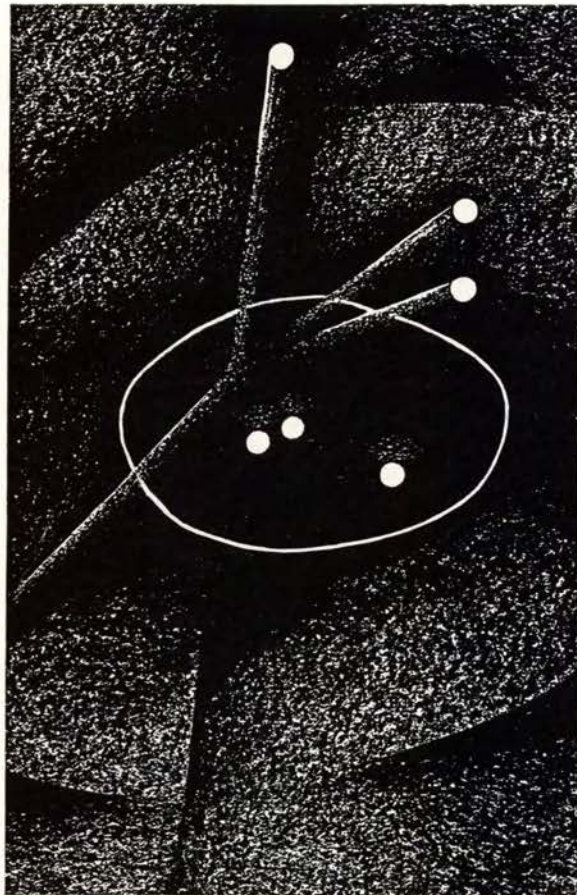

With the return of good weather and better playing conditions the Beavers turned to outdoor polo and began pointing for the annual series with Vancouver Barracks. The Vancouver men had been having little difficulty in defeating the Orangemen each year but Major Bowley took a veteran four to Portland with him with high hopes of upsetting the soldiers. In the opening game Vancouver ran rough-shod over Oregon State to run up a 12 to 7 win. The Orangemen were not to be repelled in the second contest and the Barracks four went down to a 11 to 10 loss. With the final game at stake the Oregon State riders staved off a last chukker drive by the Vancouver men and captured the series honors by scoring a 10 to 9 victory.

Oregon State wound up its polo season in Palo Alto where Stanford turned back the Orangemen twice. In the first contest Oregon State could not get started and lost by a score of 7 to 1. Although the Orange four led nearly all the way in the second game, a last-chukker rally by Stanford netted the southern team a 10 to 4 victory. During the season the Orangemen ran up 141 points to opponents 81. Ken Price took individual high point honors by scoring 26 markers. Frank O'Connor was not far behind with 23.

With Price, O'Connor, Brady Dirker, Glen Bohannon and A. J. Penney on the graduating list, Bowley will have to build an entirely new team for 1933.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

THE B E A V E R .

Intramural Baseball Games in the Spring

Intramural Department

Oregon State's intramural department under the direction of Ralph O. Coleman is at the present time one of the largest departments of its kind in the country. Its popularity on the campus is shown by the fact that 85 percent of the men exclusive of varsity athletes and those barred from competition on account of health participate in some kind of intramural sport during the year.

The department has received wide recognition and has been copied by many other colleges as a model in intramural organization. Coleman has developed the department from a few sports in 1919 when he became director until now 24 different sport events are held each year. For this work the department has numerous facilities available. The swimming tank, handball rooms, wrestling and boxing room and gymnasium are all in use during the winter months, while in the fall and spring intramural competition is held on the large intramural field and the stadium.

The college is divided into two major groups for intramural competition consisting of fraternities in one group and clubs, dormitories and downtown divisions in the other. Each of the major groups decide their champion in each sport and these winners meet for the school championship. Trophies are presented to the winners of each group and rotating cups are presented to the all-school winners. An unusually fine collection of trophies were presented this year which made competition unusually keen. If an organization wins a trophy three times they obtain permanent possession.

Speedball, basketball, football, golf, turkey run, cross country and ping pong form the intramural program for fall term. Touch football was a new sport added last fall and was very enthusiastically received. It is fast and requires a lot of team work and accurate passing. Two hundred seventy-four men participated in this new sport which will become a regular part of the fall program. Ping pong also was first tried out and will become a part of the program. Coleman is constantly trying to offer new sports and substitute those which are less interesting. A turkey is presented to the winners of the turkey run which is held just before Thanksgiving.

In the winter term foul throwing, handball, swimming, volley ball, wrestling and boxing occupy the program, while in the spring baseball, horseshoes, track, tennis and Sigma Delta Psi are the major events. Before a student can participate in any of the events he must have a health certificate from the college physician. No one is required to enter intramural events as they are extra-curricular and no credit in physical education is given.

Ralph O. Coleman, Director

Ramsey Strong Fosberg Bronson Jones Fisher Medley Coleman

Intramural Managers

The office duties of the intramural department have become so great that a large group of student managers are necessary to take charge of the sports and keep the office records. Eugene Fisher and Charles Medley were senior intramural managers this year, and did an excellent job of keeping the department organized and functioning in an efficient manner. Since 1929 a complete intramural record has been kept of all individuals and groups in college, the number of sports in which they participated and the amount of participation. Fisher and Medley were directly in charge of this duty besides being responsible for all scheduled contests and taking direct charge of specific sport events.

The senior managers are assisted by men from the junior, sophomore and freshman classes. Bob Ramsey and Crans Fosberg were junior managers this year; Ed Strong, Dave Brownson and Warren Gibson, sophomore men, and Bill Morse was freshman manager. These men must receive a great amount of experience in the department as the senior managers are chosen from this group. The student managerial staff volunteer their services as the work comes under the classification of extra-curricular activities.

At the end of the year the junior managers are awarded silver loving cups at an intramural managers' banquet for their many hours of work. At this same banquet the names of the two senior managers for the next year are announced. Appointments are made by Ralph Coleman and the two present senior managers. The first term of their senior year the two senior men are awarded manager's sweaters, the same worn by varsity sport managers.

Complete records are kept each day of the number of men participating and the number of sports each man participates in. These are recorded as the events are run off and at the end of the season these records are transferred to a large permanent record card. From these cards all participation percentages are figured. Other records kept include the points on the all-school trophy and a record of the number of men, fraternity, club and total, participating in each sport. The number of leagues, teams, games or matches played, games or matches forfeited in each sport and finally the fraternity, club and all-school winners are recorded. Practically all the above work is done by assistant managers and checked by the seniors.

Sigma Nu, Speedball Champs
Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Delta Psi Winners

Speedball

Sigma Nu speedball team won from the Beta Theta Pi men in the final playoff of the fall schedule. The Beta's were last year's champions and gave the Sigma Nu men a fast game before they won by a one-sided score of 10 to 1. The final tilt was played twice before a decision was reached concerning the winning team. In the first game the Beta's won after three overtime periods by a score of 4 to 2, but the Sigma Nu's protested to the referee about a technical point concerning the out-of-bounds rule. Ralph Coleman, director of intramural athletics, decided in favor of the Sigma Nu team and called another game to be played before the final championship crown would be awarded. In the second game the clever passing and kicking by Larson, Sigma Nu player, gave a big advantage to his team and after the final whistle was blown the championship honors went to the Sigma Nu team. Although there had been some misunderstanding concerning the merits of the first game the final score was fairly won and the Beta's gave up the crown they held for the past year.

Sigma Delta Psi

Sigma Delta Psi, national athletic honorary for men, holds tryouts throughout the year and the men qualifying in all the events listed are eligible for membership. The events and the difficulty of each were arranged by the charter members when the chapter was started on this campus. The qualifying records in each event are not difficult and any man that has all-round athletic ability can pass the tests during the four years at college. Interest in this athletic group has been growing in the past few years and the number of men trying out for this event is larger than for any one sport on the campus. Points are given to the living group that has men entered in this activity. At the end of the year the intramural office makes a final inventory and the fraternity or independent group that has the largest number of points is rewarded with a trophy in the same manner as any other sport. During the past year Taylor Reedy, Roland Rose, Dudley Nelson, John Tomlin and Owen Davis qualified. Lambda Chi Alpha won the trophy with 104 points followed by Delta Upsilon with 100 points.

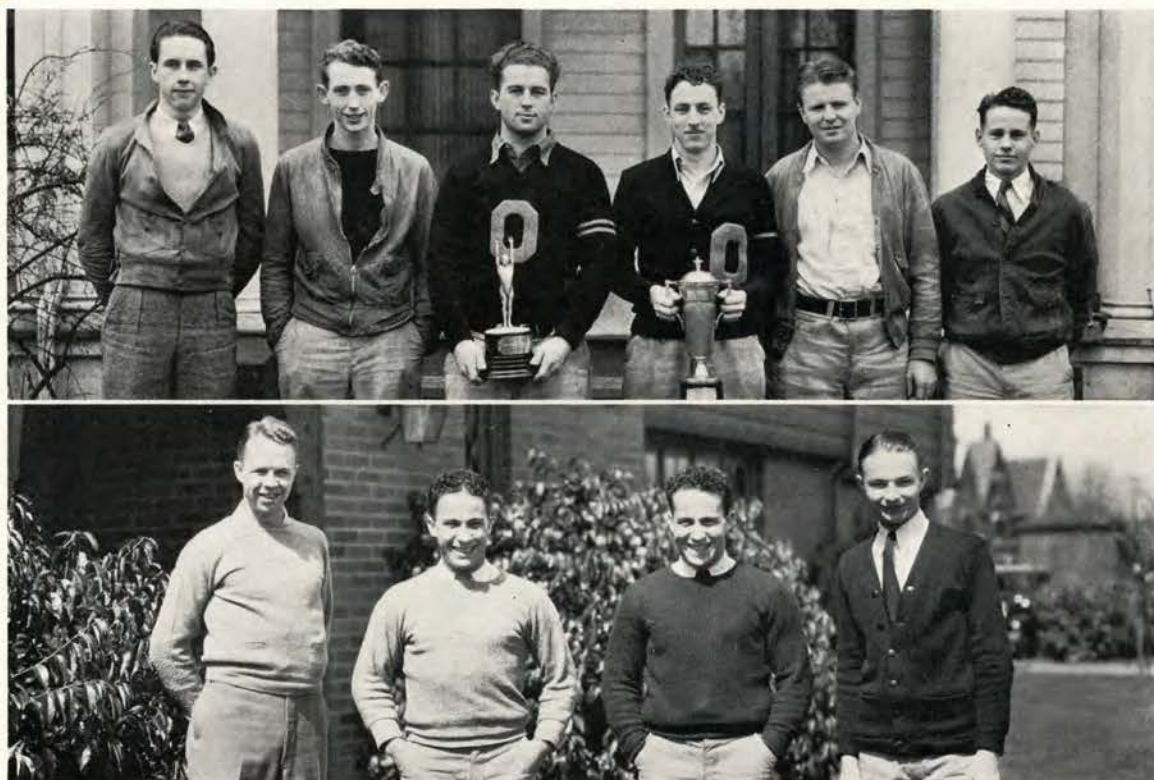

Delta Upsilon, All-College Track
Sigma Nu, Basketball Champs

All-College Track

Delta Upsilon's track team easily won the all-school track and field meet on Bell field which has become an annual event. Winning the meet with 47 points with their nearest competitor, Cauthorn hall, having $18\frac{3}{4}$ points. Delta Upsilon team took five first places and five third places also winning the relay. Head, for the D. U.'s, led the field with $12\frac{1}{4}$ points, closely followed by Gleason with 12 counters. None of the men entered had been out for varsity or rook track this season and the results made were better than was expected. The century was the best race of the meet as three men hit the tape at the same time with the fourth only one yard behind. It took the officials some time to pick the places and they finally decided that Bill Head and Ned Gleason had tied for first place and Willard Jarvis took third. Phi Delta Theta placed third in the meet with $18\frac{1}{2}$ points. Sigma Chi took fourth with 17 counters followed by Theta Chi and Lambda Chi Alpha tying for fifth position with $13\frac{1}{4}$ points.

Basketball

Sigma Nu quintet won over the Phi Delta Theta basketball team to win the fraternity league championship and the right to meet the Hesperian club for the all-school crown. Palmberg, flashy Sigma Nu player, was high scorer of the league and was the big factor in the team's winning. Although the Phi Delts had a fast combination and gave the champions a tough fight they failed to guard the clever shooting of Palmberg. When the Sigma Nu team met the independent winners they had little difficulty in winning the all-college crown. The Hesperian club had several tough tilts before taking the club championship as the interest taken by the independent clubs concerning basketball is greater than in any other sport. Like the Phi Delt's in the fraternity league the Tri-V's took second honors in the independent league. Interest in the basketball tournament in intramural athletics has taken a greater amount of interest during the past few years than has any other intramural competition. This interest may be laid to the fact that ball requires so few men to make a good team.

Lambda Chi Alpha, Dual Swimming
Phi Delta Theta, Track Relays

Dual Swimming

Lambda Chi Alpha, champions of the fraternity division of the intramural dual swimming, easily annexed the all-college championship when they overcame the Buxton hall team, independent champions, by a score of 26 to 15. In the fraternity league the Lambda Chi mermen smoothly won the right to the swimming crown by taking the strong Phi Gamma Delta team by a one-sided score of 22 to 12. The strong point in the Lambda Chi team was the general ability of every man and on the usual good playing of one man supported by weaker swimmers. When the meet first started the Buxton men took an early lead when Chuck Prah! swam away with the 100-foot free style race giving his team five points. Both teams were strong in the 100-foot swims and the final score rested on the results of the 400-foot relay and the medley relay which the Lambda Chi Alpha team won easily to cinch the all-school crown. Buxton hall outclassed other independent swimming teams, so had little difficulty in winning the club swimming crown and made a fine showing in the playoff.

Track Relays

Phi Delta Theta easily defeated Cauthorn hall, club champions, to win the all-school intramural track relays last spring. The Phi Delt team led by the fleet-footed speedster, Charles Fyock, set a new all-school record by turning in the fast time of $1:32\frac{2}{10}$. William Patrick, Bob Patrick, Charles Fyock and John Edgar made up the winning combination that set the new record. Cauthorn hall got the chance to meet the fraternity champions by winning from Prokyon club with the slow time of 1:39. Delta Upsilon and Alpha Tau Omega met Phi Delta Theta for the fraternity championship; however, neither team was able to stand the pace set by the Phi Delt boys. Delta Upsilon and Alpha Tau Omega tied for second place in the finals. The winning combination maintained the lead throughout the race and Fyock had a 100-yard lead when he broke the tape.

A total of 19 teams entered the event. This was considered a good representation for track relays as not all houses are able to get a four-man combination that is able to turn in fast time.

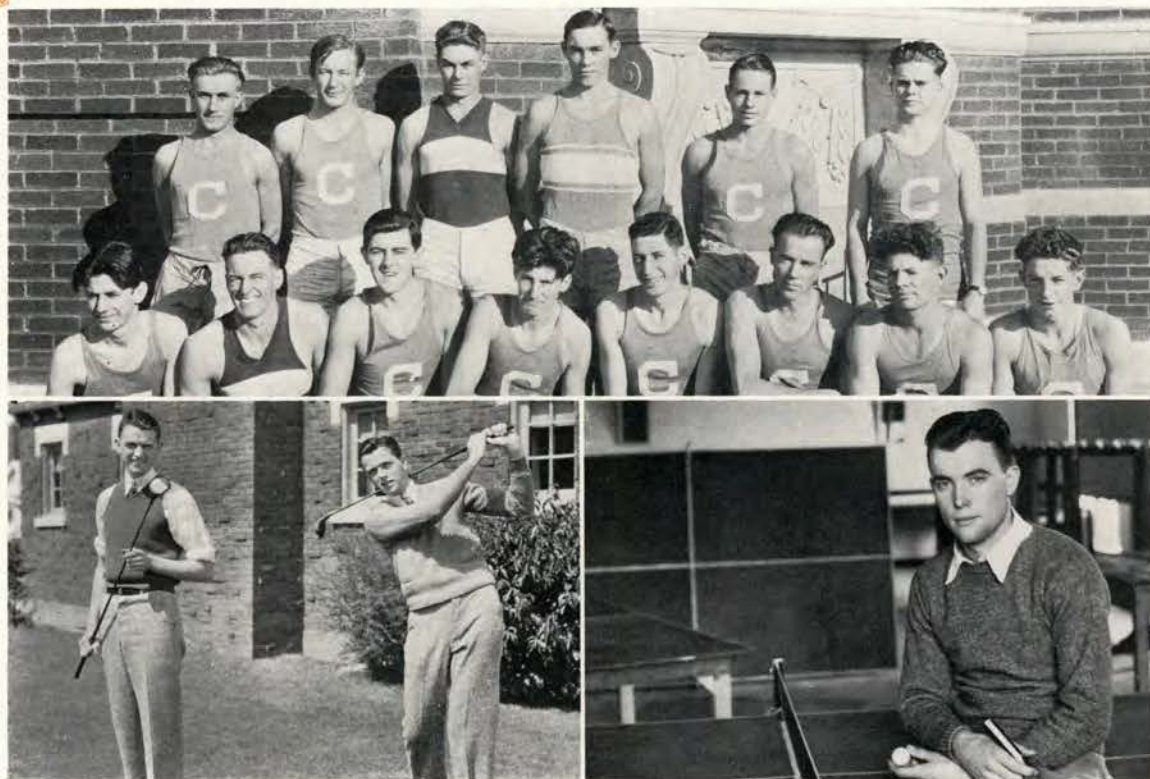

Beta Theta Pi, Football Champs
Cauthorn, Cross-Country Winners

Touch Football

Beta Theta Pi won from Sigma Phi Sigma in a close tilt that ended the first season of the sport on this campus. Although the game was close it was not the most spectacular of the season as was the semi-final game with the Delta Upsilon team which ended in a one-sided score of 27 to 0. Both teams in the semifinal tilt were playing fine ball and the outcome was undecided at the end of the regular time period. After playing four and one-half overtime periods the breaks fell into the hands of the Beta's. In the last five minutes of the fifth overtime period the Beta team ran the score up for 27 points with hardly a play being completed without a touchdown. With almost impossible luck the Beta's intercepted passes and ran back punts making the final score a vastly one-sided affair. The living groups lacked the equipment to play football but the arrangement for this new sport patterned after football made it possible for more living groups to participate in this fall sport. Ralph Coleman, director of intramural athletics, outlined the rules for this new sport on the campus.

Cross Country

Cauthorn hall was the crowned cross country champion fall term in the intramural cross country contest which was active for five weeks before the winners were finally decided. Cauthorn won by 12 points over their nearest rival, Theta Xi. In the independent group the two leading organizations were Cauthorn hall with 364 points and Orion club, 261; in the fraternities Theta Xi had 352 and Alpha Gamma Rho, 276. Delbert Turner was the outstanding man in cross country this season as he made 111 points for Kappa Delta Rho. Cauthorn hall has been consistently in the winning in cross-country jaunts, as they won last year in this event and also took honors in the turkey run. Other men who made high scores are Nicholson, 97 points, for Weatherford, Waldo Pettersen and Emil Pettersen with 81 points for Theta Xi, John Bieler, 76 for Cauthorn. This sport has been on the intramural program for some time and as a general rule the all-school championship has gone to an independent group, although the fraternity scores have sometimes been high as in the case of Theta Xi.

Phi Gamma Delta, Champion Golfers

Cauthorn Club, Turkey Run Winners
Merritt Nash, Ping Pong Expert

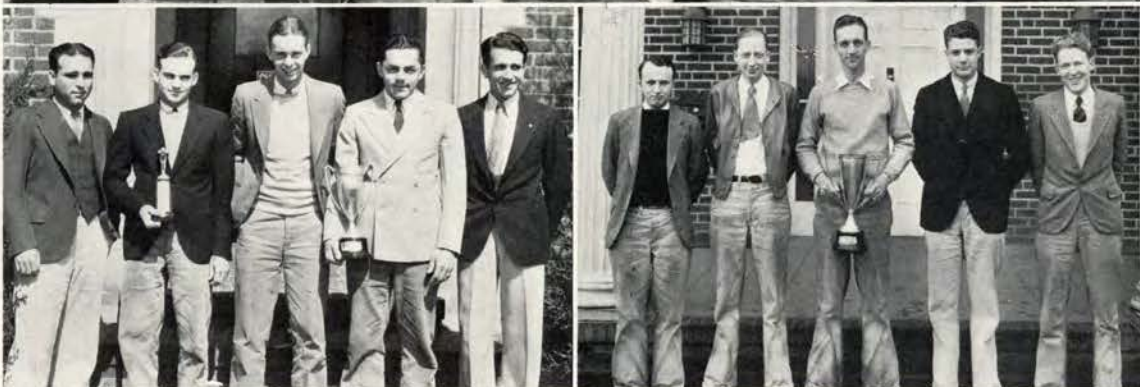

Turkey Run Cauthorn club placed enough men to cop the annual Turkey run this year and walk off with the prized gobblers and the cup given to the winner of the event. The club team garnered 324 points for a comfortable margin over their nearest opponent Theta Xi with 288 points. Alpha Gamma Rho took third place with 256 markers to their credit and Lambda Chi Alpha pulled up in fourth place with 146 points chalked up. Harold Turner, Kappa Delta Rho, and Hugh Nicholson, Weatherford hall, provided the thrill of the meet with a red hot battle for first place honors. With a great last minute spurt Turner pulled away from Nicholson to cross the line as winner. A new all-time record was set for the Turkey run by Turner who ran the distance in ten minutes flat.

Golf Phi Gamma Delta represented by the Brandes twins, Duane and Henry, pulled out of the pack of mashie wielders to win the fraternity golf championship. Both the Brandes boys displayed par golf throughout the tournament and their steadiness helped them to get through the stiff competition offered by the Delta Tau Delta, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Chi teams. The matches were played at either the Corvallis Country club golf links or the Albany course and the teams arranged their dates to play and the score cards were turned into the intramural office by the contestants.

Ping Pong Merritt Nash won the right to wear the crown for the championship of Ping Pong, the baby sport on the intramural program, by winning from Taylor Reedy 3 to 1 sets in the finals. The championship match was closely contested to the last stroke of the paddle. Both men started the match cautiously each waiting for a break in his opponent's game. Nash finally stroked out a victory in the first set to put himself in the lead. Reedy came back strong to take the second set and then both boys settled down to battle for the crucial game and the crown. Nash finally won out by playing the more aggressive ping pong and outstaidied his opponent. This new sport proved to be a crowd pleaser and the intramural department will schedule it as a regular part of next year's program.

Sigma Phi Sigma, Wrestling Champions
Chi Phi, Swimming Relay Champs

Sigma Phi Epsilon, Foul Throwing

Wrestling Sigma Phi Sigma with three men reaching the semi-finals and one man winning a class championship piled up sufficient points to win the fraternity wrestling title. John Biancone, John Herbert and Chuck Bartos waded through their opponents with little trouble until the semi-finals when Herbert and Bartos were dropped from the running and left only Biancone to try for the championship of the middleweight class. Biancone downed Bill Patrick, Phi Delta Theta, in a great match to win the middleweight crown in the all-school tourney. Lambda Chi Alpha was runner-up for the fraternity championship but could not place enough men in the semi-finals and finals of the all-school to overcome the lead piled up by Sigma Phi Sigma.

Swim Relays The Chi Phi natators were forced to establish a new mark in winning the all-school swimming relays championship from the Lambda Chi Alpha mermen who finished close behind the winners. The time which has been accepted as the all-school record was 1:29.2 and is expected to stand a long time. Mahlon Gove, Gordon Miles, Calvin Atterbury, Fred Witherell and Bob Gravier swimming for the Chi Phi team jumped into an early lead and held their advantage throughout the race. This makes the second year that the Chi Phi mermen have won the relay championship.

Foul Throwing Sigma Phi Epsilon took the foul throwing championship for the fourth consecutive year by tossing in a few more buckets than the Phi Delta Theta team in the throw-off made necessary when the Phi Delts pulled an upset and tied with the S. P. E.'s in the regular finals. The winners dropped 175 points out of a possible 250 and led the Phi Delts by 19 points in the throw-off. Members of the Sig Ep team and their scores are Bryan Miller 39, Will Campbell 37, Bib Johnson 36, Bob Tabke 34 and Del Ball 29. This is an average of 35 points per man. These members had some real competition among their teammates with three of last year's members eliminated in the first throwing because of the stiff competition put up by the other men on the squad.

Kappa Sigma, Handball Champs

Cauthorn Club, Volleyball Winners
Sigma Phi Epsilon, Tennis

Volleyball Volleyball made its appearance this year as a regular sport on the intramural calendar. Last year the game was tried out among the living groups in a bracket form of league. The game proved popular and it is now listed on the intramural schedule. Cauthorn hall, the club champion, defeated Kappa Sigma, the fraternity winners, to win the all-school honors for volleyball. The championship games were hard fought and after the fraternity champs had taken the first game by the score of 16 to 14, the Cauthorn team came back to take the last two games 15 to 7 and 15 to 13. The Kappa Sigma team seemed to wilt from the fast game of the clubmen when they came back for the second and third games.

Handball Jimmie Clark and Don Potter, Kappa Sigma handball duo, after coming out of a three-way tie with Kappa Delta Rho and Sigma Alpha Epsilon teams for the league championship had a comparatively easy time in going on to win first the fraternity title and then the all-school crown. The Kappa Sig team had little difficulty knocking over Lambda Chi Alpha, to win in the fraternity section, defeating them 21 to 1 and 21 to 2. They then tangled with the strong Mizanian club team of Lyle Hurt and Lynn McCann and defeated them in two hard fought games 21 to 4 and 21 to 18. Both Clark and Potter played brilliant handball all through the season. Clark's speed on all sides of the court and Potter's consistent work off the back walls was disconcerting to the rival teams and a good many of them cracked before the strong offensive drive of the Kappa Sigs.

Tennis Sigma Phi Epsilon won the tennis championship from Phi Gamma Delta last year by taking two out of three fast sets from the fighting Fiji players. Fast court play and sensational tries kept the crowd watching the championship match biting their finger nails through most of the contest. Taylor Reedy and Byron Miller playing for the winning team featured their play last season with dependable and steady tennis and always gave the crowd a great run for its money. When the warm sun comes out tennis takes its place among the leading sports and the crowds of fans following this pastime last year demonstrated the popularity of this intramural sport.

Prokyon Club, Baseball Champions
All-School Boxing Champs

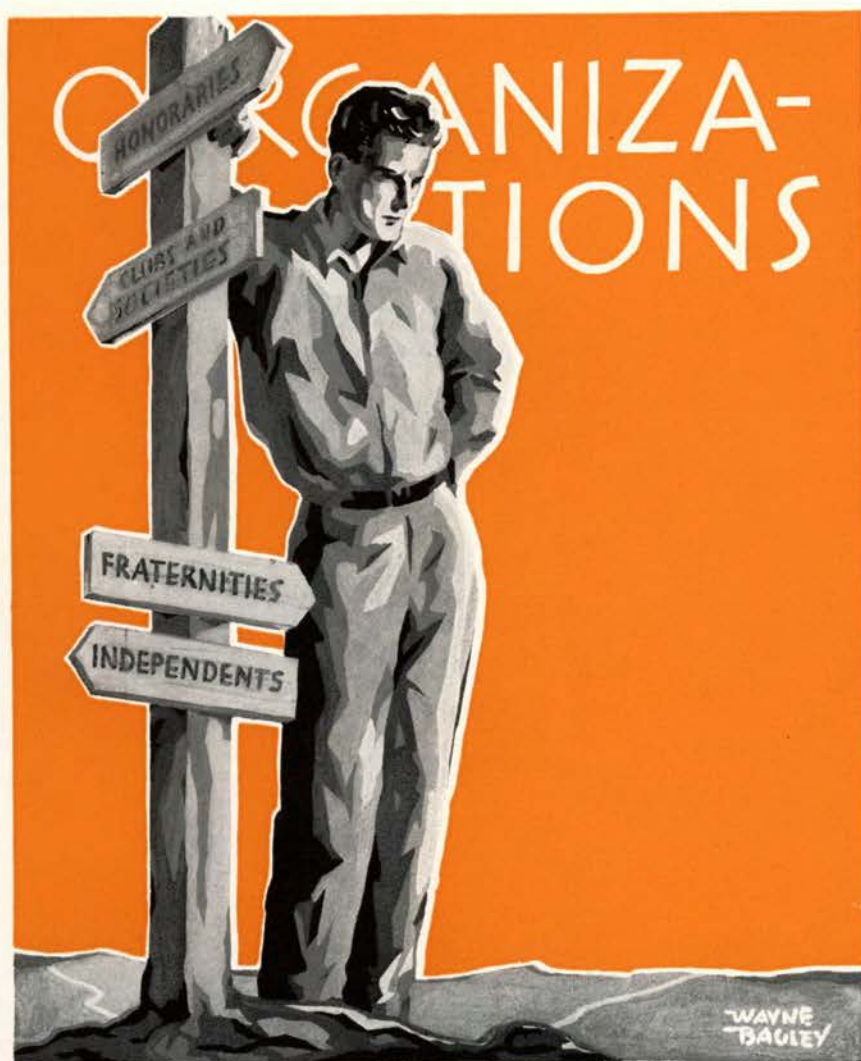

Chi Phi, All-School Swimming

Baseball By trouncing Tau Kappa Epsilon 5 to 4, the Delta Upsilon team won the fraternity playground ball title and in an easy contest the Prokyon club battered the Cauthorn club team to the tune of 12 to 2 for the club title. That left two heavy hitting teams in the running for the all-school championship and the title game proved to be a slugfest with the Prokyon crew piling up 16 runs to the D. U.'s 7 when Ted Herman pitcher for the fraternity titleholders experienced trouble in getting the ball over the plate. Prokyon garnered eight runs before the Delta Upsilon team could push a counter across. Delta Upsilon scored all of their runs in the fourth and seventh cantos.

Boxing Frank Little defeated Ade Schwammel to take the heavy weight championship in the all-school boxing and wrestling meet. The first round of the bout was even but in the second and third rounds Little rallied and piled up sufficient points to get the decision. In the scrappiest bout of the tournament Dave Perkins lifted the lightweight crown from the brow of Eddie King. Both boys went at it from the sound of the first gong and kept the crowd howling throughout the three rounds. Bill Hanley after dropping the first round to Dick Miller came back in the second and third rounds to pound out a hard-fought victory in the middleweight class. Maurice Shephard had a comparatively easy time defeating Renee Smith in the light heavyweight class and Floyd Acarrequi outpointed John Copeland in the 147 pound class. Hugh Stewart retained his 125 pound crown by defeating Rich Warrington in a fast bout.

Swimming Meet Splashing the water for three first places, two second places and a third place for a total of twenty-three points the Chi Phi mermen dripped out of the college tank with the all-college swimming title. Phi Gamma Delta placed second in the tournament with a total of 13 points and Lambda Chi Alpha was close behind the Fiji swimmers with 12 points and third place chalked up for them. Buxton hall and Pi Kappa Phi tied for fourth place with seven points. Doug Davidson, Phi Gamma Delta, was high point man for the tourney taking first in the 100-foot free style and the 300-foot swim. No new records were hung up by the teams this year although the races were close.

Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity, was established in 1926. Its members are elected from the managers of the various campus publications, the advertising managers, or from those who are majoring in advertising and selling. The fraternity sponsors meetings with men who are actively engaged in advertising throughout the state and is well represented by many of the prominent advertising men of Oregon.

Eta Kappa Nu is a national honor fraternity in electrical engineering and has chapters in twenty-two of the largest electrical engineering schools in the country. Its purpose is for closer cooperation among, and mutual benefit to students and others in the profession, who by their attainments in college or in practice, manifest exceptional interest and marked ability in electrical engineering.

The Oregon State chapter was installed in 1921.

Phi Kappa Phi is a national all-college scholastic honor society corresponding to Phi Beta Kappa in liberal arts colleges. Its primary objects are to emphasize scholarship in the minds of college students, and to stimulate mental achievement by the prize of selection to membership. This society stands for the unity and democracy of learning. It is not the aim of the organization to interfere or compete with any other honor society but to work harmoniously with all.

Greater Halls Council is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, freshman representative and general councilman of the women's halls on the campus. This year the representatives have been those of Waldo Hall and Margaret Snell Hall. A regular meeting, preceded by a dinner, is held the first Monday of each month at alternating dormitories.

The purpose of Greater Halls Council is to promote close relationship, better understanding, and higher social development between the women's dormitories. Also, problems arising within one of the groups but common to all groups are discussed and solved. The most outstanding event sponsored by Greater Halls during the year was the traditional formal tea, given the first Sunday afternoon of winter term. This year it was held at Margaret Snell Hall. Members of the faculty and representatives from all living groups on the campus attended. A Greater Halls dance was given spring term.

Temenids

Temenids, national social organization of Eastern Star women on college campus, was founded at Oregon State college and the University of Oregon, May 20, 1922. Its membership is limited to Eastern Star women registered in college at the time they apply for membership.

Temenids means "Daughters of the Temple" and has for its aim, the banding together of Eastern Star women who are away from their home chapters during their college experience.

The annual state convention of Temenids was held in Corvallis, April 8 in the Masonic Temple. Maxine Peterson, state president, presided. Shirley Brownson was secretary-treasurer, and Dorothy Rea, editor-historian. Miss Rea was editor of "From the Portals", official organ of the state body. This was the first issue during ten years of organization.

Twelve members became members of Aleph chapter at a formal initiation November 11 in the Masonic Temple. A formal banquet followed initiation and Mrs. W. J. Kerr and Dean Kate W. Jameson gave short talks.

Formal initiation winter term was held Sunday morning, February 19, when five women were initiated. After the ceremony the group went to the First Methodist church where Dr. James E. Milligan spoke on the "Star of Hope".

Temenids invited Eastern Star women on the campus to be guests at several functions this year including an informal tea October 18 at the home of Dean Jameson, a pot-luck dinner January 18 at the home of Mrs. Bess McCoy, and a theater party.

Dean Jameson invited Temenids to her home December 10 for a Kensington. Mrs. Sigurd H. Peterson, advisor, entertained with a bridge party at her home December 12.

Dairy Club
4-H Club

Dairy Club

OFFICERS

Kenneth Carl	President
Harold Finegan	Vice-president
Roy Thomsen	Secretary
Edgar Grimes	Treasurer

Membership in the Dairy club is held by students majoring in dairy husbandry, dairy manufacturing and special students working in the technical field. The principal activity of the club is sending judging teams to the Pacific International Livestock exposition in Portland and to the National Dairy show in the East.

Two teams were sent to the Pacific International in Portland this year where they placed high in competition with five other college teams. The dairy cattle judging team won the sweepstakes cup and took two trophies for first places. Harold Finegan was high man for all divisions and individual scorings. The dairy products judging team placed first in one product and took several individual honors. Money for the trips is raised by the sale of ice cream bars.

4-H Club

OFFICERS

Wather Ott	President
Leila Johnston	Vice-president
Oscar Mikesell	Secretary
Gilbert Ridder	Treasurer
Viva Smith	Historian

Interest in 4-H club work is stimulated at Oregon State through this organization of students who were club members prior to registration in college. Active membership is required for eligibility to Mu Beta Beta, national honor fraternity in 4-H club work. Leadership training is fostered through committees which conduct special radio programs over KOAC and entertain 4-H clubbers visiting this campus.

The greatest number of Union Pacific scholarship winners yet recorded at Oregon State attended this year. Winners of the $500 International Harvester 4-H club scholarships, Clifford Conrad, Stanley Green, Randall Grimes and John Welbes of Oregon and Andrew Petersen of California were registered as freshmen in agriculture this year.

Forestry Club at Arboretum
Officers of Pharmaceutical Association

Forestry Club

OFFICERS

Conrad Wessela	President
Carlos Brown	Secretary
Kermit Linstedt	Treasurer

The object of this club is to build up a better group fellowship and interest in forestry between the students and faculty in the forestry school. All men registered in this school are automatically members of the club. The organization sponsors several events during the year one of the most important of which is the annual Arboretum Day held each term at the Peavy arboretum, where students get the practical side of their education with direct contact with the various trees in the arboretum tract.

Also each year the club sponsors the Forest club banquet to which leading forestry men from Oregon and Washington are invited. At this get-together both faculty, students and visiting foresters take an active part.

Pharmaceutical Association

OFFICERS

Miles Drake	President
Lloyd Irvine	Vice-president
Earl Whitehouse	Treasurer
Dorothy Hess	Secretary
Dean Adolph Zieffe	Faculty advisor

Upon registration all students in the school of pharmacy automatically become members of the Pharmaceutical Association which has as its aim the promotion of a closer contact between students and faculty in the school. Outstanding men in the field of pharmacy are featured at the meeting as are films of topics of interest to members. Meetings are held periodically to which these men lead active discussions relating the work done by the students with the actual practice in various lines of pharmacy work.

General pharmaceutical activities are promoted during the year by the group with the object of building up a stronger interest in professional attainment.

A.S.M.E.

OFFICERS

Lester Moe	President
William Turnbull	Vice-president
Willard Lazarus	Secretary
Walter Morrison	Treasurer
C. J. Halseth	Sergeant-at-arms
R. E. Summers	Advisor

The aim of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is to promote a feeling of friendship and cooperation between the practicing and student engineers. An annual joint meeting and banquet is held with the State section, which is a part of the national organization, where visiting engineers discuss problems and advancement of mechanical engineering of current interest. An annual convention with representatives from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana is held each year in order to make special field trips to industrial plants and form closer contact with the student engineers from other schools. Meetings have been well attended this year, and considerable interest was shown in the society.

A.S.C.E.

OFFICERS

Adolf Benscheidt	President
Eldon Carter	Vice-president
Robert Tidball	Secretary-treasurer
James McAllister	Publicity
J. R. Griffith	Faculty advisor

The American Society of Civil Engineers, founded in 1852, is the oldest professional engineers' organization in existence. The Oregon State student chapter was established on the campus in 1925, and under the guidance of Prof. J. R. Griffith since 1929 the organization has become very active in engineering functions. A prominent engineer of the northwest who is outstanding as a state or consulting engineer is a guest at each regular monthly meeting. He discusses some engineering enterprise in a technical or non-technical manner according to the nature of the subject matter. Once each quarter the society holds a Sunday morning breakfast at which time general educational topics are discussed by a prominent member of the college faculty or an engineer.

Charles Rohrman	Secretary
Edwin Palmrose	Treasurer
Harold Whiting	Sergeant-at-arms
Dr. C. S. Keevil	Advisor

The main purpose of the Oregon State chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, organized in 1932, is to provide both social and professional contact between students and members of the chemical engineering profession. At monthly meetings outstanding faculty members and chemical engineers are guest speakers. Different phases in the far-reaching importance of chemical engineering are discussed. Last year a prize was awarded to the most outstanding freshman in chemical engineering by the organization. The recipient of the scholarship was Merwin Miller. Honorable mention went to Vern Kauffman and Lloyd Van Blaricom. Dr. C. S. Keevil was advisor this year and was of great assistance to the society.

A.I.E.E.

OFFICERS

Richard Mather	President
Robert Blasen	Vice-president
Howard Sargent	Secretary
George Manke	Treasurer
E. C. Starr	Counsellor

The Oregon State chapter of the A. I. E. E. is a student branch of the national organization. Membership entitles the students to a subscription to the monthly magazine, "Electrical Engineering", and other privileges. The branch holds regular meetings approximately once a month and frequently invites out-of-town men to speak before the group on various subjects related to electrical engineering. In addition students are encouraged to write papers and are given the opportunity of presenting them before the group. All meetings are informal and student members are given the opportunity of making personal contacts with speakers who are practical engineers in the electrical field. Every spring student papers are presented for competition in a national A.I.E.E. contest.

Bernard Daly Club

Bernard Daly Club

OFFICERS

Louis Withers	President
Viola Crump	Vice-president
Josie Daly	Secretary
Woodrow Morris	Treasurer
Dr. F. W. Parr	Educational advisor
Dr. W. M. Atwood	Financial advisor

As a result of Dr. Bernard Daly's foresight and generosity 35 students from Lake county, comprising the Bernard Daly club, attend Oregon State college under the benefits of the Daly fund. Each of the students receives necessary college expenses to a maximum of $600 each year under the terms governing the administration of the fund. The organization was formed on this campus to increase the interest in Oregon State college and to further the interest in the development of Lake county. The Daly club has been particularly active this year under the leadership of Dr. F. W. Parr, professor of education, and Dr. W. M. Atwood, professor of plant physiology.

'Meet You at Lipman's College Shop

Some of the gang are always there . . . a chance to sit in on a game of bridge . . . plot big doings for vacation . . . have a cigarette . . . and, if there's time, to look through the smart new fashion shops on the same floor.

THE CLASS OF '33:

- ¶ We have grown together — your perseverance and success is reflected in us.
- ¶ You're leaving — an irresistible feeling of regret can be partially subdued only by those pleasant memories of our association with you.

THE printing quality and character of detail in our halftone plates is well demonstrated in this outstanding volume of the Beaver. Beyond the mechanics of perfect reproduction comes the sincere effort to faithfully serve and assist in planning a year-book that has long been recognized a leader among American colleges and universities.

IN the printing of annuals for both colleges and high schools, James, Kerns & Abbott Company offers the latest in type faces and page designs, the most up-to-date equipment for both printing and binding, and a willingness to go down the line with the staff to settle the problems which confront it.

¶ This issue of "The Beaver" is printed in a modern German type face, "Kabel," which is now very popular in this country because of its fine purity of line and clean appearance.

"There IS Distinction in Wearing Chumley Clothes"

Hit That Stag-Line for a Goal!

A stag-line is an All-American formation of men that yields ground stubbornly. Chumley frocks have a reputation of breaking thru' more stag lines and scoring more all time records for cut-ins, etc., than any frocks made. That's why smart college girls prefer them.

APPRECIATION

The completion of Volume XXVII Beaver has required the assembling and organization of a vast amount of material. For the valuable suggestions, cooperation and excellence of workmanship I wish to offer my appreciation to the Beaver Engraving Co., James, Kerns & Abbott Co., printers, Ball's Studio of Photographic Art and to Wayne Bagley, artist.

It has been a privilege and a pleasure to work with Allan Rinehart and Don Abbott of the Portland firms and with Mr. W. M. and Robert Ball, photographers.
