Through 19 years Strand heads Oregon State

On October 15, 1942—a big day for you, President Strand and a big day for the students—you began your nineteen years of service to Oregon State during which you have inspired many advancements, some of which you see on these pages.

You have seen our campus grow, not only the student enrollment and number of buildings, but also the scope and quality of the curriculum. Early in your administration the School of Business and Technology was added, later the physical education department in the School of Education; a natural resources department and an oceanography department in the School of Science. The later addition is the School of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Over fifteen buildings have been added to the campus since you became president. Enrollment has increased by almost 4,000 students. Sixty percent of Oregon State's 34,855 graduates have received their diplomas during this time.

Your constant effort to bring higher education to more people has brought quality as well as quantity to Oregon State. We have developed one of the nation's leading research programs with the establishment of research institutes in science, forest experimentation, transportation and water resources, and the expansion of research in agriculture, engineering and home economics.

All of these achievements have prompted the Oregon State legislature to change our name to Oregon State University.

"His record reveals his capabilities and experiences as an educator and a man of determination and proficiency," said the Daily Barometer. A credit to you and to your university.

The "New Horizons" you have spearheaded at Oregon State insure a bright future. In appreciation we dedicate this 1961 Beaver to you, Dr. Strand.

From beginning to end, sorority rush is an exciting experience as this first college activity results in lasting friendships and affiliations.

Everybody helps Sis come to college.

The first week at Oregon State is full of activity and excitement for the new student. First he is tested, then he is orientated by the upperclassmen and faculty. Confusion reigns for a few days, but soon the new student and his new friends are blended with the campus.

"Picking up paw paws, put them in your pocket . . ."

Both old and new students are plagued with lines and forms during registration.

Old students return to the campus at the end of the first week and join the new students as they register for classes. New students can be seen looking for their section cards, and old students can be seen trying to change majors. Finally, when registration is completed and fees have been paid, the weary student takes time out for a cup of coffee with friends. The school year has begun.

"I believe in Oregon State . . ."

"New Horizons" for 1960

A major pause in the fall term study schedule came with Homecoming. In 1960 "New Horizons" was the optimistic theme chosen; Ardis Henry was crowned queen. The Kappa Sigma house sign took sweepstakes honors again and the noise parade, rook bonfire, midnight show and alumnae barbecue built spirit for the Beaver-Duck gridiron encounter.

Fall Term brings Dances, Candidates, Santa

Men's living groups are awarded prizes for the best attendance at the AWS-sponsored Nickel Hops which are held the first of Fall Term.

Election year brought both local, state, and national candidates to the Oregon State campus. Young Republican and Young Democratic organizations were active in trying to win votes for their favorite candidates.

Winter relaxation

During the winter term rainy days, the students seek warmth that can be found in front of a fireplace and seclusion where one can study. They meet their friends in the Commons for a coke or a cup of coffee to discuss classes, read the Barometer, or talk about last night's date.

Sally Elden crowns Darrell Horn King of Mortar Board.

The King and I

The annual Mortar Board ball was a treat for all fellows. Girls picked up their fellows, paid all bills, and extended all courtesies on this night when Darrell Horn was chosen King. Unique corsages were made for the fellows by their dates.

Steak dinners were the prizes for the best corsage.

Winter term fun

Winter term is the time for many costume house dances. The Embalmers Ball, the Barbary Coast, the Bottle Fatique, the Flapper Fling.

"The United Nations—its crisis, its work, our hope," was the theme of international week sponsored by Y-Roundtable. Its purpose is of world problems through student participation in discussions, and other events.

Annual Dads visit livens campus

Fathers arrive on the campus early during the weekend. First they register and take time out to look over the program for the weekend. Basketball games were well-attended. Many fathers were seen in the commons with their son or daughter drinking coffee as all Oregon Staters do. A box luncheon was served in the coliseum, after which a musical concert was presented. Dads also had an opportunity to visit the deans, watch the wrestling team, swimming team and the crew team in action.

Outdoor activities are spring favorites

Spring term social whirl includes the annual Rook-Sophomore picnic and Ag Weekend. Three fields of competition among the two classes include the tug of war, the beard growing contest and the bathing beauty contest. A flair for shaving males is essential for the coed who is chosen to de-whisker the fuzzy candidates.

ADMINISTRATION

President A. L. Strand.

President Strand coordinates policies

As leader of Oregon State, President A. L. Strand works with students and faculty in co-ordinating educational policies. The president represents the college at various educational and business affairs. Through working with the Chancellor and State Board of Higher Education, he sees that the program of Oregon State is in harmony with the objectives of the state system of higher education.

Dean Milosh Popovich.

Dean of Administration

The dean of administration is the chief administrative officer of the college under the president, to whom he is directly responsible. As the president's representative he attends all meetings of the faculty, councils, and committees. Through his responsibility of coordinating the several schools and divisions of the college, he works with the administrative, curriculum, and personnel councils and with the president defines the scope of each.

Hatfield interested in education

Mark O. Hatfield, governor of Oregon, continues to exhibit a great interest in the higher education of Oregon. An educator himself, Governor Hatfield was a professor and the dean of students at Willamette University. His leadership has brought him recognition on a national level as one of the country's foremost young political figures.

Governor Mark O. Hatfield.

State Board governs system

Governing body of the Oregon State System of Higher Education is the State Board of Higher Education. The task of co-ordinating activities of the state-supported institutions of higher education falls to this Board. This governing group of the state system consists of nine members appointed by the Governor for a term of six years.

Administrators formulate policies

D. T. Ordeman, registrar; G. M. Robertson, business manager, and Dallas Norton, acting director of admissions and personnel, and their staffs handle the academic and financial policies of Oregon State.

The registrar is in charge of student academic standing and registration.

The business manager is responsible for keeping the books. All income and expenditures are handled through his office.

The director of admissions and personnel works with high school and college students. He is in charge of admissions and any academic deficiencies of the students.

Deans advise students

Helen S. Moor, dean of women, and Dan W. Poling, dean of men, have contributed greatly in forming the standards of student life at Oregon State. The Dean of Women's office helps coordinate the social and activity programs and assists with employment of coeds. Dean Poling works closely with student organizations, encouraging better participation and leadership in student groups. He is also well known for his knowledge of the campus and its workings and for his counseling policies.

Dan W. Poling, dean of men, and Helen S. Moor, dean of women.

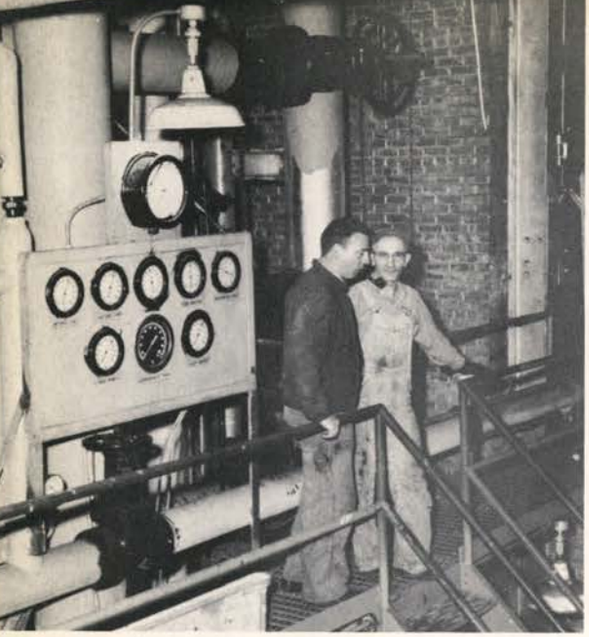
Miss Rosemary Scott, assistant dean of women.

The assistant deans work closely with Oregon State students in advising many of the college organizations and also provide invaluable personal counseling. Miss Scott is director of the dormitory sponsor program; Mr. Richards heads dormitory housing and Mr. Pahre, fraternities. In addition to student activities, they also serve on many faculty committees.

Richard E. Pahre, assistant dean of men.

Ivan F. Richards, assistant dean of men.

Campus services are varied



Oregon State physical plant provides invaluable service.

The Physical Plant, under the direction of Richard T. Adams, provides steam heat for all college buildings. They also supply janitorial service and maintain repair crews for the campus. The plant office works with contractors and the State Department in planning new Oregon State buildings.

The Foreign Students Service office offers many aids to foreign students—counseling, housing, employment opportunities, and tours and visits. The service also provides a speaker bureau for campus organizations wishing foreign student speakers.

The Campus Police Service provides student security through campus-traffic control. Introduced this year were the traffic control stands which serve to alternate cross-campus traffic and provide information to Oregon State visitors. The Campus Police are on duty around the clock, patroling the college, checking buildings, and chaperoning campus functions.

A new wing to the Student Health Service was opened this year, increasing the bed capacity to 40. Twenty-four hour service is offered to Oregon State students with over $11,000 of free medicine distributed last year.

COLLEGES

Outstanding Professors Chosen

Marian C. Aikin, assistant professor of family life; Robert D. Brown, assistant professor of English, and Lester B. Strickler, associate professor of business administration, were selected outstanding professors for the year 1959-1960. The announcement was made by Oregon State alumi president John Fenner at a luncheon given in their honor. Each outstanding professor received an engraved plaque presented by President A. L. Strand.

Professor Aikin was born in Ord, Nebraska. She received her B.S. from the University of Nebraska with highest distinction. She later received her M.S. from Iowa State. She taught at the Nursery School Laboratory at Utah University and the University of Minnesota, before teaching at Oregon State in 1954. Mrs. Aikin enjoys cooking exotic foods and making most of her own clothes from special fabrics.

Professor Strickler was born in Connelsville, Pennsylvania. He received his B.A. and M.A. at Pennsylvania State. Professor Strickler taught at Clarkson college of technology 1949-50 and Indiana university the summer of 1953 before he started teaching at Oregon State in 1954 as an assistant professor. He became an associate professor fall term of 1959. Professor Strickler plays golf and bowls. He is an adviser of Theta Chi fraternity and of the student chapter of American Finance association.

Professor Brown was born in Whiting, Indiana. He attended Indiana university receiving his B.A. He received his M.A. at Magdalen college and his Ph.D. at Oxford university. He began teaching at Oregon State in 1952. Professor Brown is interested in local Democratic politics. He enjoys fishing, his favorite spot being Luckiamute River. He also enjoys playing tennis.

Agriculture calls for good foundation

Many programs of study in agriculture today are concerned with the financing, processing, marketing, sales, and services related to the production of foods and fibers. To those intimately acquainted with agriculture at Oregon State, the curriculum calls for a good foundation in the sciences: mathematics, chemistry, botany, entomology, bacteriology, zoology, and physics. This background, together with courses in agriculture, social sciences, business administration, and humanities, equips the agriculture student to ably apply himself in farming, industry, teaching, research, and education.

Something less than 17 per cent of the graduates of the School of Agriculture engage in farming. Most of the other graduates are working in sciences and industries closely associated with agriculture. Opportunities for young men and women with education and training in agricultural science, business, and technology can be readily appreciated when it is understood that there are well over 100 classified occupations in which their employment is eagerly sought. A shortage of well qualified graduates in agriculture exists.

Frederick Earl Prince, since 1950 dean and director of agriculture at Oregon State was himself a graduate of the college in 1922. Prior to 1950 he served as extension specialist in soils and agriculture engineering, professor of agriculture engineering and research agriculture engineer, acting head of the department of agricultural engineering and assistant to the dean of agriculture. He has served as agricultural consultant in Brazil and Thailand, is a member of various agricultural advisory committees throughout Oregon, and is chairman of several boards of directors. Affiliations with fraternal orders includes; Alpha Zeta, agricultural honorary society; Sigma Xi, graduate research honorary; Phi Gamma Delta, social fraternity, and the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Dean Price spends what leisure time he has hunting deer. He lists as his favorite spot south-eastern Oregon around Burns.

Alpha Zeta supports agriculture program

Alpha Zeta, national honor society for agriculture students, bases its student selection on scholarship, activities and character. Its members comprise the top two-fifths of the school of agriculture. AZ has an annual banquet, provides ushers for Beaver Preview and this year is sponsoring a student evaluation for the new proposed agriculture curriculum.

Farm Crops Club offers student activity

Oregon State's Farm Crops club assembles the students interested in crop science to facilitate acquaintanceships and the exchange of ideas. The club is active in sponsoring field trips on which farm crops students travel throughout the Northwest. Films and guest speakers contribute interest and information to the club's business meetings. Recreation is also a part of Farm Crops club activities. Student-faculty competition in bowling as well as a spring picnic and baseball game promote the spirit and effectiveness of the members.

Fin and Antler encourages good sportsmanship

Conservation of our wildlife resources is the organizational objective of the Fin and Antler club. Its membership includes fish and game department students and other interested persons. The club meeting programs provide current information of new developments in the field of conservation and are valuable in supplementing the fish and game class work. In studying recreational areas the Fin and Antler Club also makes use of these facilities as part of its activity program.

The Oregon State Dairy Club promotes fellowship and cooperation with the dairy industry of Oregon. Teams representing Oregon State at regional and national dairy cattle and products judging contests receive financial support through the Dairy Club's sales of "Nutty Buddy" ice cream novelties. This revenue also facilitates an expense-paid spring field trip for club members to industrial dairy operations.

Withycombe Club centers on livestock

The Withycombe Club serves and promotes interest in animal husbandry activities taking place on the Oregon State campus. Club activities include feeding steers and lambs for show and sale, sponsoring the meat and livestock judging teams, serving luncheons at campus field days, and barbecuing the meat for the homecoming barbecue. Each Spring Withycombe Club members take a field trip to ranches and other points of interest within the state.

Food Technology Club presses soft cider

Students who make food technology their major or minor field of study form the Food Technology Club. Discussion topics at meetings center around the recent processing developments in the food industry. Providing information that supplements classroom instruction is one of the club's objectives. Food Tech cider, the principal product of the club, provides tasty refreshment at many meetings and dances each fall term.

Hort Club open to majors

A steak fry, coastal crabbing and fishing trips are some of the activities of the Horticulture Club. Majors and other students interested in horticulture are invited to join. The purpose of the group is to promote further interest in the field, provide opportunities for student participation and leadership experience.

Poultry Club promotes management practices

The Poultry club prides itself in having few members but extensive activities. The club members serve the campus and the poultry industry by providing barbecued chicken meals for school and state poultry association meetings. Experiments of the Oregon State Poultry experiment station are documented in a Poultry club annual publication entitled "The Quill." The Dean of Agriculture's activity trophy has been awarded to the Poultry Club for the past two years in recognition of the zeal and enthusiasm of its members.

Ag. Exc. council coordinates activities

The Agriculture Executive council represents each of the thirteen clubs in the School of Agriculture and coordinates their activities. Every fall term the council assumes responsibility for the Aggie-Variety show, consisting of entertaining talent from each of the clubs. The School of Agriculture Awards banquet during winter term recognizes the achievements of the outstanding students throughout the past year. The coming of spring and customary outdoor agricultural activity provides the setting for the Ag. Weekend festivities, sponsored by the Ag. Exec. council.

The Agricultural Economics Club members seek a greater understanding of the economic problems facing agriculture in our nation and world. Professional economists are consulted for information and advice concerning the opportunities open in their fields. Practical application of economic training by the club members to problems of Oregon farm industries stimulates their interest in practical research

The Collegiate Future Farmers of America provides a media through which prospective vocational agriculture instructors can gain experience in cooperation and leadership. The chapter takes an active part in the School of Agriculture activities such as Aggie Variety, Ag-Weekend, and the Agriculture Awards banquet. The members also produce a fifteen-minute radio program every two weeks. In addition to a regular monthly business meeting, the Collegiate F.F.A. members also hold a second meeting each month for professional training in fields not covered in class work.

B&T founded in 1943

The School of Business and Technology has a rich heritage. Originally organized as the School of Commerce, the school was one of the first founded at Oregon State. In 1943, the present school of Business and Technology was founded, and had at that time, the most advanced curriculum in the nation. Last year, the school received accreditation from the American Association of Business Colleges and Universities, an honor accorded to the top 95 universities offering business degrees.

Majors in business administration, business education, and secretarial science are offered. The purpose of the school is twofold, to produce efficient, capable personnel for the world of business, and to give the student the necessary knowledge to function effectively in our democratic society.

Clifford E. Maser came to Oregon State in 1942 as an assistant professor of business administration. In 1943, he was promoted to professor and dean of the School of Business and Technology. The years preceding Dean Maser's coming to Oregon State were eventful. He received his A.B. from Swarthmore college, Pennsylvania, in 1934, and his Ph.D. from the University of Cologne in 1936. After receiving his doctorate, Dean Maser served for four years as the executive assistant of Carobronze Limited in Vienna, Austria and London, England. Upon returning to the United States in 1940, Dean Maser spent that year as assistant professor of business administration at Rollins college, Winter Park, Florida. The following year he was the controller and secretary of Van Reekum Paper Company of New York City. The next year was the year Dean Maser came to Oregon State.

Dean Maser is married and has two grown children. He presently is serving as president of the Western Economic Association. Included in his varied interests is his membership in the European Association for Research on World Refugee Problems.

Dean Franklin R. Zeran.

Education Dean here since 1947

Dean Franklin R. Zeran was born in Chicago, Illinois. Dean Zeran received his B.A. at the University of Wisconsin in political science. He also acquired his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in education, psychology and political science.

Dean Zeran was the assistant dean of College of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin from 1930 to 1932. He was a teacher, counselor, and city director of testing and guidance at Manitowoc, Wisconsin from 1932 to 1940. During 1940 to 1946 he was a consultant at the University of New Mexico. Dean Zeran became dean of the School of Education at Oregon State in 1947. He also is the director of the Summer Session.

One of his favorite pastimes is fishing; he has a large collection of special flies. Besides fishing, Dean Zeran writes books.

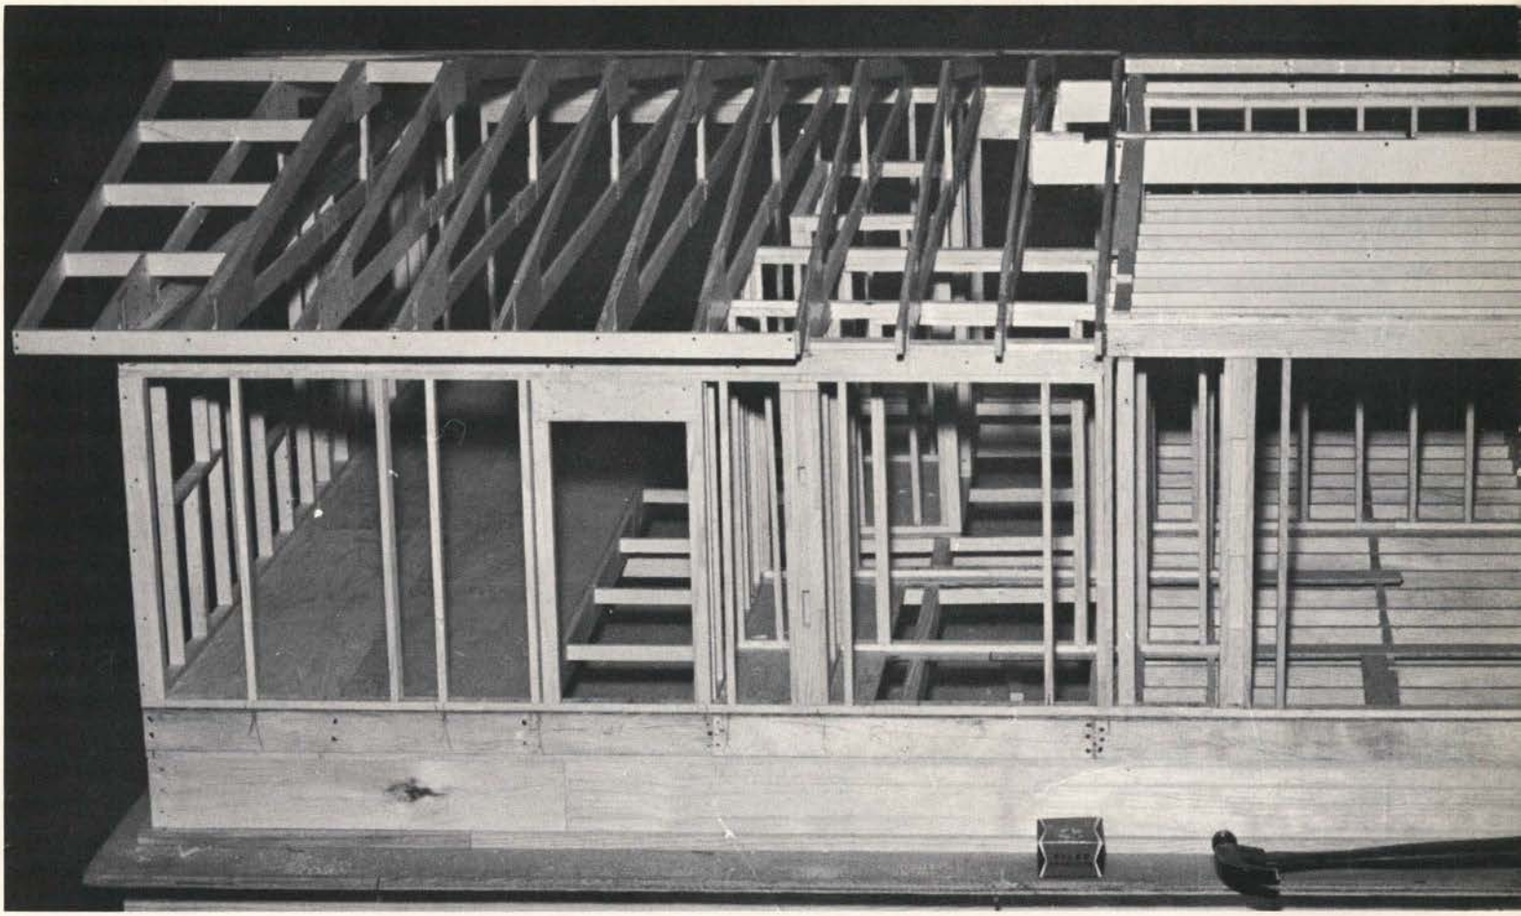
1300 Students enrolled in Education

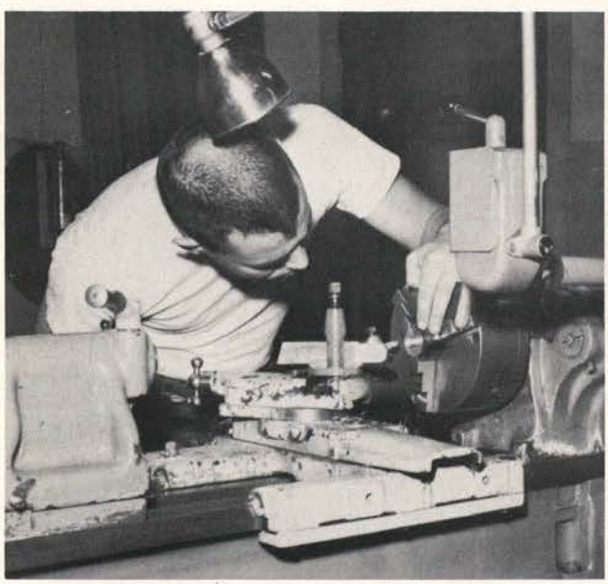
The School of Education at Oregon State offers undergraduate work in elementary education, undergraduate and graduate work in secondary education, and graduate work in higher education. It offers majors in agriculture, business, home economics, science, and trade and industry. During this year approximately 1113 students enrolled in the School of Education and 210 students enrolled in other education majors such as business, home economics, and agriculture.

The School of Education has conducted three institutes throughout the school year, one for science and mathematics teachers, one for reading in the elementary and secondary schools, and one in guidance. Also during the academic year of 1960-61 the School of Education conducted an in-service institute in science for elementary school teachers. This program was financed by a grant from the National Science Foundation for thirty-five school personnel.



Engineering principles are put to use in the construction of scale models.

Drafting skills are fundamental to all engineers.



Precise measurements are a must.

Engineering is largest school

As the largest school at Oregon State, the School of Engineering has made many advancements in the last year. Two new majors are now offered in this field, engineering-physics, and general engineering and production technology. The remaining majors include agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, and industrial engineering.

The old physics building has been added to the engineering campus, and is now used for personal interviews for students in math, science, and engineering. One of the busiest buildings on campus, it is the scene of approximately 3500 interviews given by various companies throughout the nation. According to Dean Gleeson, 70 per cent of the openings in engineering over the nation are filled by Oregon State students.

Dean Gleeson spends many hours working to develop the engineering departments. Born in Granite, Oregon, he came to Oregon State in 1929 as an instructor in mechanics and materials. He was assistant professor in chemical engineering in 1932 and in 1937 was assistant dean of engineering. He was appointed dean of engineering in 1945.

Fishing on the lakes and streams in Oregon is Dean Gleeson's favorite pastime. In the summer he takes week excursions to the mountains and to the coast.

Dean George W. Gleeson.

Sigma Tau is a national engineering honorary that considers all outstanding engineers for membership regardless of branch. The honorary gives various awards in recognition of outstanding achievement in engineering. Sigma Tau sponsors speakers who speak on subjects of general interest to engineers. They also counsel freshmen engineers, and conduct help sessions for them.

Pi Tau Sigma honors Junior and Senior mechanical engineers

Pi Tau Sigma is a mechanical engineering honorary that encourages scholastic achievement among undergraduate mechanical engineers, and honors practicing engineers for distinguished work in their field. Membership is limited to Juniors and Seniors in the top of their classes. Faculty and graduates are chosen on the basis of their distinguished endeavor in mechanical engineering. New members are honored at a yearly banquet.

Tau Beta Pi is a national engineering honor society which was founded in 1885 to honor undergraduates, graduate students and alumni who have exhibited distinguished scholarship and exemplary character. Various awards are given by the society in recognition of the attainment of their ideals. The chapter seeks to promote high scholarship, integrity, and character among engineering students.

Eta Kappa Nu serves engineering department

Eta Kappa Nu is an Engineering honorary which has as its purpose the recognition of outstanding students in Electrical Engineering. The group performs many service functions for the Electrical Engineering department.

Aeronautical Engineers Boost Flight Theories

The Institute of Aeronautical Sciences is a national organization to further the advancement of the theories and practices of the aeronautical sciences. They include as activities, field trips, guest speakers, picnics and a club banquet. They also hold a student technical paper contest. The best of these papers is sent to a regional banquet for presentation.

Automotive Engineers sponsor auto rally

The Society of Automotive Engineers holds meetings at which practicing engineers and others in industry speak. They also sponsor various field trips, the major one being to California. On the lighter side, the society sponsors an annual auto rally during spring term. Because they won the Engineer's Bust skit contest, the society was able to award a scholarship to one of its members.

Any student in either vocational or professional curriculums of agriculture engineering is invited to join the student chapter of the American Society of Agriculture Engineers. The group's knowledge is broadened by frequent guest speakers and field trips.

Meteorologists forecast weather

The Oregon State chapter of the American Meteoroligical Society was formed by students interested in the study of weather forecasting and climates. Their main project is to interest other students in the study of meteorolgy and its related subjects. Another of their projects is to furnish the Barometer with accurate weater forecasts. They also lend help and information to other local groups such as the Civil Air Patrol.

Industrial Engineers promotes interest in industry

The Oregon State chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers promotes interest and scholarship among engineers with special emphasis on industrial applications of the engineering principles. The chapter holds monthly meeting with a guest speaker. They also sponsored a refresher course for Engineers in training during winter and spring terms.

Other activities include field trips including a trip to San Francisco, and an annual picnic for the members.

Chemical Engineers apply chemistry to industry

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers' goals are the constant improvement of chemical engineering and the professional development of its members. The institute holds regular meetings with guest speakers who emphasize these goals.

Activities of the Chemical Engineers include a joint meeting with its parent organization, the Oregon Chemical Engineering Club, an annual picnic, a student published newspaper, and social functions such as the "Unit OP Hop" a chapter sponsored dance.

The American Foundrymen's Society is an organization open to any engineering student interested in the foundry industry, metal casting or other allied fields. The society seeks to promote interest in these fields by featuring guest speakers at their meetings, and by plant tours. The members also take part in the AFS convention.

Tool Engineers develop manufacturing skills

The activities of the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers encompass all phases of engineering related to manufacturing. Any student registered in engineering is eligible for membership. The meetings are designed to advance the knowledge of its members in current practices in industry. Special emphasis is placed on the means and methods of applying such knowledge in practice and education.

The American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air-Conditioning Engineers is composed of students who are interested in supplementing their knowledge of their particular field by meeting with practicing engineers at their meetings. The group also took field trips to sites where they could observe their knowledge being put to practical work.

Electrical Engineers stress theory and practice

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is a national organization of electrical engineers which has student branches at most colleges where electrical engineering degrees are granted.

The activities of the student branch include arrangement of meetings at which topics of interest to electrical engineers are presented by qualified persons in that field.

Also student participation in national and district papers competitions are encouraged and sponsored by the student branch.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers is composed of students in mechanical engineering who are interested in keeping abreast of the current developments in their field. They accomplish this by taking field trips to actually see these developments, and by hearing of them from guest speakers and national publications. Student paper contests also stimulate interest in learning about various facets of their branch of engineering.

Radio Engineers stress electronics

The Institute of Radio Engineers is a student branch of a large professional society whose basic purpose is to gather men from the field of communications engineering and related fields together for the advancement of electrical sciences. Its activities include frequent meetings, open to all interested, and promotion of professional interest in electrical engineering among students.

Civil engineers further profession

The American Society of Civil Engineers is open to any student enrolled in the department of civil engineering. They seek to develop engineering consciousness, and an interest in furthering the profession of civil engineering. They sponsor speakers and numerous films of interest to their members. They also maintain a reading room and organize several field trips. The ASCE sponsor a banquet for their members and a picnic is included in their list of social functions.

The Engineering Student Council is the co-ordination board of the engineering senator, the presidents of the various engineering societies on campus, and a president, secretary and treasurer which are elected from the membership of the engineering societies. The council is in charge of the organization for the Engineers Ball, a senior banquet, and the more or less yearly Engineers Bust.

Military engineers study military and civilian projects

The Society of American Military Engineers is open to any ROTC cadet in the field of engineering or science. Their main purpose is to create an interest in large scale military and civilian engineering projects. Members are able to see the recent developments in engineering through movies and numerous field trips. They sponsor both prominent military and civilian speakers at their meetings.

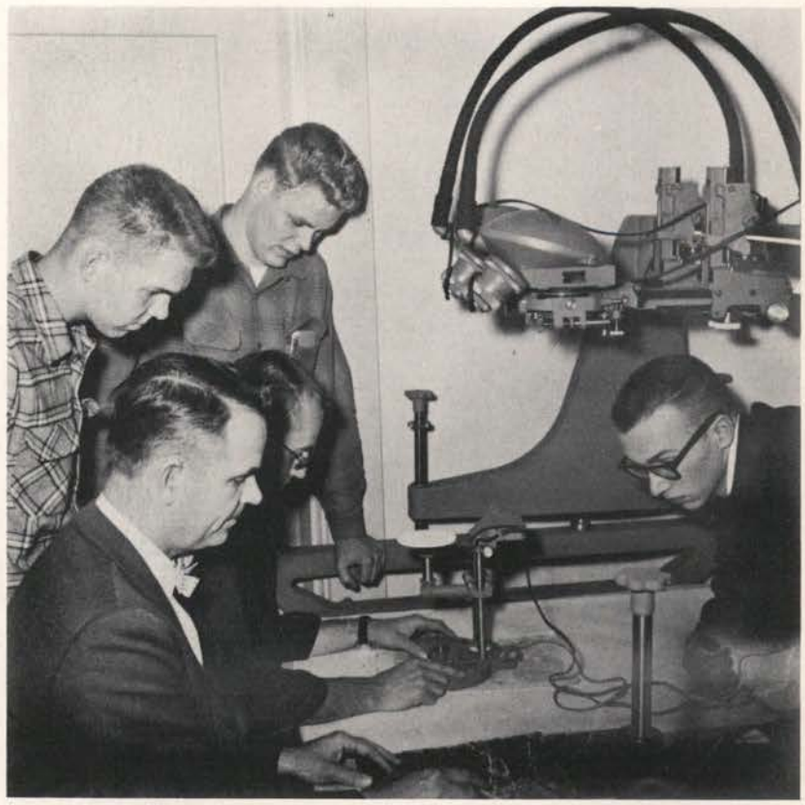
School of Forestry has three branches

Forestry at Oregon State is a highly admired and respected field. Within the school a student may attain degrees in any one of three branches: forest management, forest engineering or forest products.

During the student's undergraduate days course work encompasses forestry in its broader aspects. As upper division work he is encouraged to specialize in one or more of the major branches. Upon graduation these students will enter into the field of forestry as the best qualified and trained men in the field, and are entrusted with our nation's most valuable resources.



Photogrammetry requires practice.

Dean W. F. McCulloch

Basic skills are important.

Dean W. F. McCulloch received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of British Columbia, a M.S. in the college of forestry at Syracuse university, and an Ed. D. at the University of Oregon. He taught at Michigan State before coming to Oregon State in 1937. He became Dean of Forestry on January 1, 1955.

Dean McCulloch occupies his leisure hours with photography and high fidelity music.

Recognition of outstanding students in forestry is the goal of Xi Sigma Pi. Last year their project was the repair of the roof of Peavy cabin in McDonald forest. Their spring banquet is an annual event. Members are expected to provide leadership in forestry activities and on campus.

Forestry club fosters woodsmen activities

The Forestry Club meets to promote fellowship and broaden the professional background of its members. Guest speakers provide entertainment and information at meetings which are held on the campus or at the club cabin in McDonald forest. The club sponsors the Spring Thaw, McDonald Forest day in the fall, and the varsity football team-forestry club Tug-O-War. The Hi-Lead, a periodical, and the Annual Cruise Yearbook are published by the Foresters to relate the activities and stimulate the interest of the School of Forestry members.

Omicron Nu furthers home economics training

Omicron Nu, national professional home economist's honorary, was organized to promote scholarship, and research in home economics. Omicron Nu selects its members from juniors, seniors, and graduate students majoring in home economics, who have maintained superior scholarship and shown promise of further achievement. A Silver Tea is sponsored jointly by Omicron Nu and Home Economics Club each year to raise funds for a foreign college home economics library.

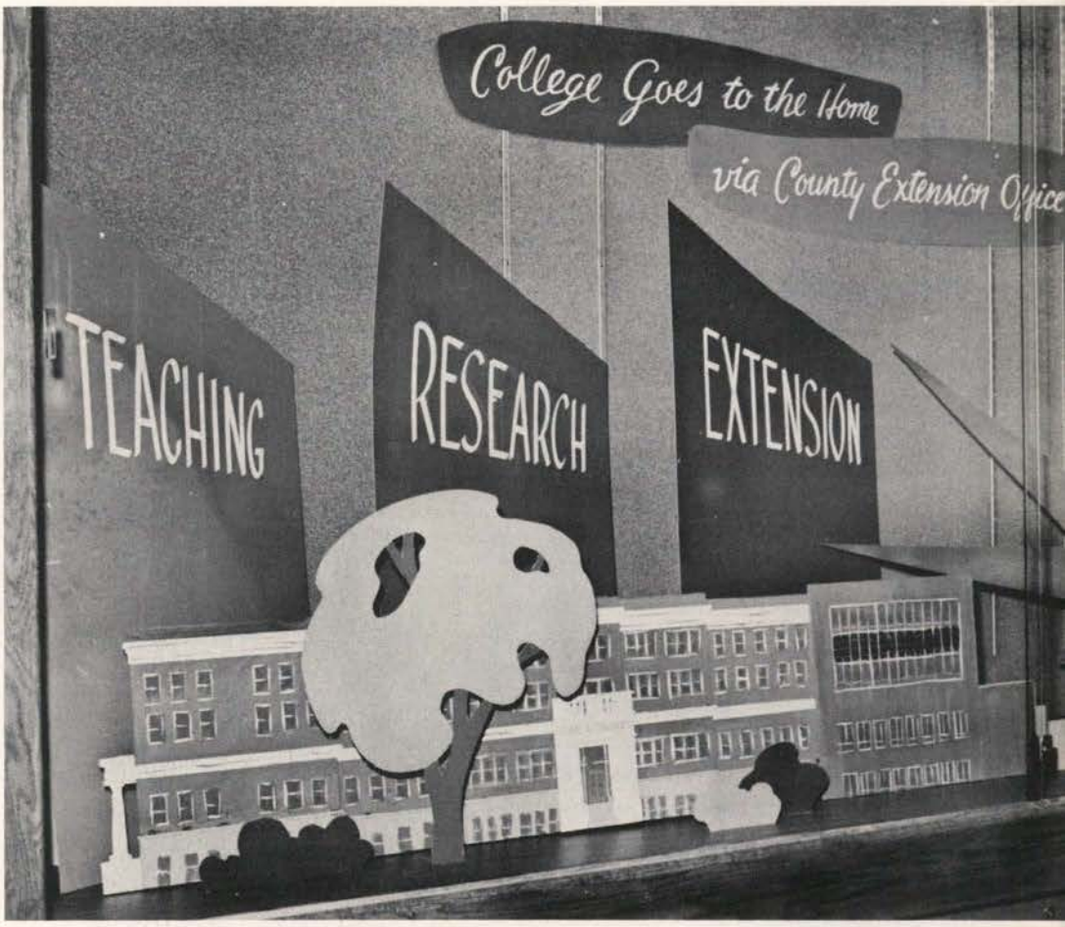
Service projects are performed by the club members in practicing the techniques their major study. The Home Economics club sponsors the Silver Tea and the New Student Tea and assists with the Gracias Party.

Dean Miriam G. Scholl.

Miriam G. Scholl came to Oregon State in 1954 to be made the dean of the School of Home Economics. Prior to this, Dean Scholl was an associate professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota. Dean Scholl received her degrees from the University of Washington and Columbia university.

Dean Scholl stated that there have been more graduate and undergraduate students in the School of Home Economics every year since 1954. Fall quarter of 1960 represents a 15 per cent increase in undergraduates and a 62 per cent increcse in graduates over 1954. The new technical minors in textiles and foods and nutrition for students in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences provide a source of further growth for the School of Home Economics. The home economics program here occupies a highly respected status locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally.



Instruction on household appliances is essential.

Selection of clothing and it's construction is a skill anyone can use.

Home Economics offers varied courses

Graduates in the home economics field at Oregon State continue to prove themselves qualified at their chosen vocation. These jobs are more diversified than might be expected, including opportunities with international agencies, public health, education, and others.

Undergraduate students are instructed in the general scope of home economics and are offered undergraduate degree programs. Advanced students are allowed a schedule which is flexible and allows individuals a choice enabling them to adapt to changing times.

Facilities for home economics education are complete in all phases, being contained in the home economics building. Also provided are home management houses and nursery schools, which provide excellent opportunities for the actual practice of skills acquired in the classroom.

Radio has its place too.

Humanities and Social Sciences is Newest Addition

The new School of Humanities and Social Sciences, which replaces the old lower division, fulfills a need which has long been recognized at Oregon State. At the beginning of the 1960-61 academic year the new school enrolled for the first time juniors and seniors as candidates for degrees in the liberal arts.

A divisional major in humanities and a divisional major in general social science leading to baccalaureate degrees. are offered by this new school. A divisional major is comprised of a group of courses in several closely related departments.

The new school continues the important role of lower division in providing lower and upper-division service courses in the humanities and social sciences for students majoring in other schools. It also offers the first two years of professional curricula in art, architecture, landscape architecture, music, and journalism.

An important new development is the offering of a teaching major in either the area of English and language arts or history and social studies. Taken with courses in education, these lead to teacher certification.

Art students display their creative talents.

Its time for a coffee break in the art department.

Dean Ralph Colby.

Originally from Minnesota, Dean Ralph Colby came to Oregon State in 1929, serving as a professor in Humanities and Social Sciences. He became dean of the school in 1949. Dean Colby attended college at Minnesota receiving his B.A. there in 1916 and his M.A. in 1917. In 1928 he attended Illinois where he acquired his Ph.D. degree.

Dean Colby lists music as his hobby, and has been an active member of the college symphony orchestra since 1935. He plays his viola at home and in other musical organizations.

Theta Sigma Phi sponsors matrix table

Campus and community are brought closer together when Theta Sigma Phi national professional fraternity for women in journalism, sponsors the annual Matrix Table dinner. Women of achievement for campus and Corvallis are announced at this time. Theta Sig also sponsors a journalism open house, a publicity clinic and sells mums at Homecoming. Members are chosen from women who have a 3.00 in two or more journalism courses, and a 2.5 all-school grade average.

Outstanding speaking sought by Delta Sigma Rho

Delta Sigma Rho is an honorary to recognize outstanding achievement in public speaking and to promote forensic activity on campus. It is the oldest forensic honorary in the United States and was the first one in Oregon, coming to this campus in 1922. Delta Sigma Rho sponsors the Intersectional Extempore Speaking contest each term, and with the Forensic division, jointly sponsors the Forensics Mix each fall.

Masque and Dagger focuses on dramatics

Masque and Dagger is a local honor group for students in dramatics. Each member has worked on some phase of a stage play, either acting or backstage. Projects of the group center around the dramatic activity on campus. The annual dramatics awards night is given at the end of each play season to honor outstanding productions and players. Trips to other theaters are also on the activity list.

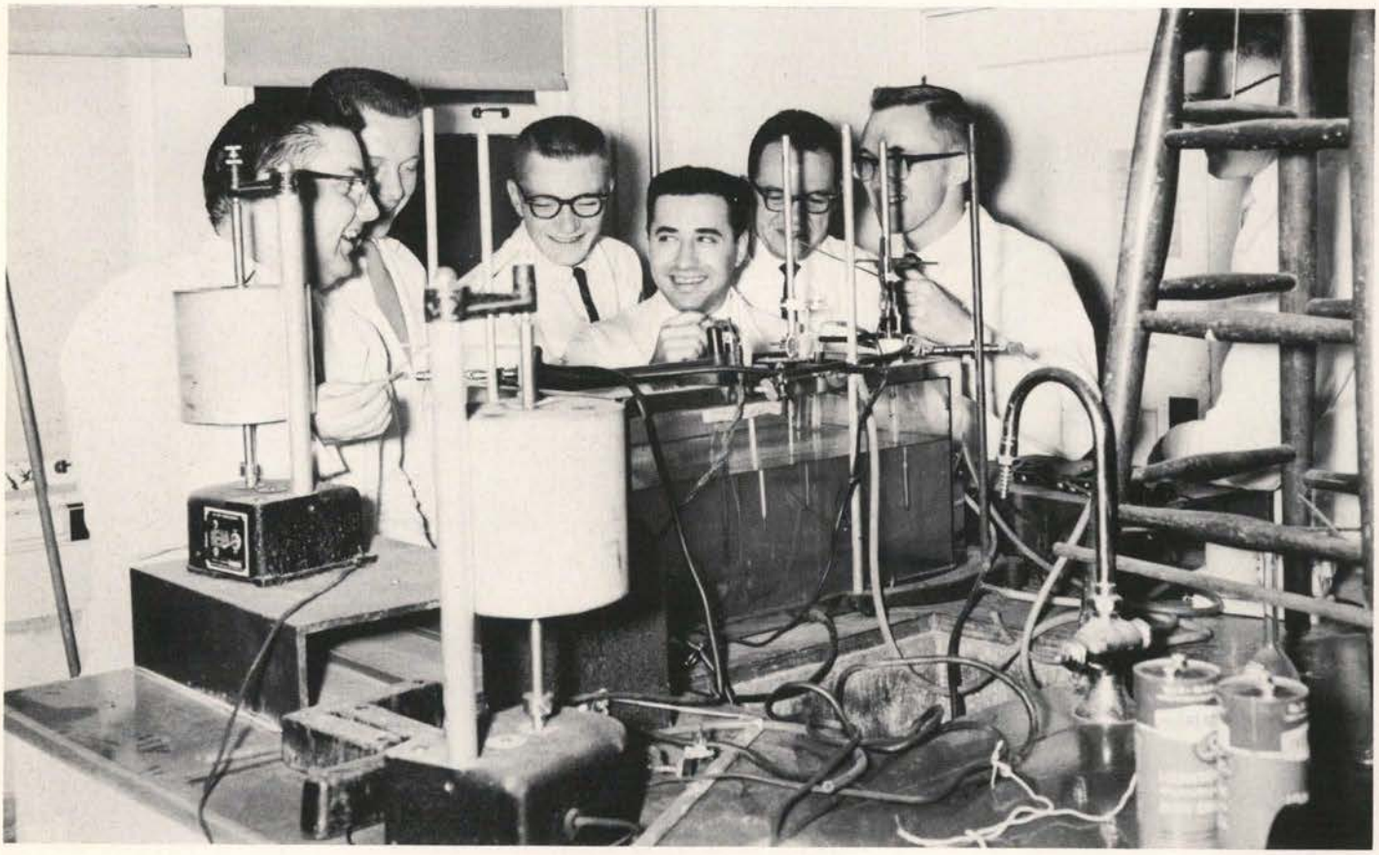
Dean Charles O. Wilson.

Dean Charles O. Wilson was born in Bothell, Washington. He received his B.S. in pharmacy, his M.S. in pharmaceutical bacteriology, and his Ph.D. in pharmaceutical organic chemistry. Dean Wilson taught at George Washington university as an assistant professor from 1938 to 1940, at the University of Minnesota as an assistant professor and associate professor from 1940 to 1948, and at the University of Texas as a professor from 1948 to 1959 before becoming Dean of Pharmacy at Oregon State.

Even lab work can be fun in pharmacy.



Pharmacy has Five Year Program

The School of Pharmacy at Oregon State is on a five-year minimum program, as is every school or college of pharmacy in the United States. The first year is a pre-professional one, spent in preparation for the last four years in the professional program. Oregon State's is one of the seventy-five accredited pharmacy schools in the United States.

In sixty-two years, 1694 students have graduated. Of these students, 169 graduated from the five-year program which was started in 1951. The enrollment has increased considerably since the start of the school to its present enrollment of 320 students. Currently 650 alumni are in pharmacy positions in Oregon.

The pharmacy program is composed of five different departments: Pharmaceutical, chemical; pharmacology, physical; pharmocognosy, botanical; pharmaceutical science, technical; and pharmacy administration, economic.

Rho Chi's activities include promoting graduate work in pharmacy by lectures in different areas of graduate study, sponsoring a welcoming committee for homecoming pharmacy alumni, and holding an annual honors banquet for graduating seniors in the spring.

Kappa Psi has 50th anniversary

Kappa Psi, men's pharmaceutical professional fraternity, selects its members from the junior and senior classes on the basis of grades, activities and services. Activities this year included a special dinner and Apothecary Ball for all pharmacy students, marking the 50th Anniversary of the chapter, presentation of bulletin boards to the pharmacy school and offering its service to other pharmaceutical activities.

Pharmacists sponsor professional activities

The Oregon-American Pharmaceutical association is open to all students in pharmacy. Members belong to both the state and national pharmacy associations. Guest speakers from other associations and pharmaceutical manufacturing houses are featured at regular meetings. Other activities include the annual publication of the "PharmOcist," various pharmaceutical projects, and an annual spring picnic. Every two years the pharmacy senior students take a ten day tour of the Eastern pharmaceutical companies.

Dean F. A. Gilfillan received his bachelor of science and pharmaceutical chemist degrees from Oregon State in 1918. He taught high school in Washington and Oregon before he entered Yale University where he received his doctorate in 1921. Dean Gilfillan returned to Oregon State in 1922 as an assistant professor of chemistry. In 1925, he served as professor of pharmacy at the University of Florida. He was at the University of Florida until 1927 and then he returned to Oregon State to be professor of chemistry. He was made dean of the School of Science in 1938 and has served in this capacity since then. During the years of 1941 and 1942, he was the acting president of the college.

Dean Gilfillan has been the chairman of the Corvallis school board, general manager of the Oregon Institute of Marine Biology and a member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools. He is now serving as vice-president of Scientists of Tomorrow and as secretary and organizer of the Oregon Academy of Science. He also contributes articles to scientific journals.

Scientific research is extensive

In order to encourage and stimulate the students' wants, education of excellent quality must be provided. Oregon State, as the center of scientific learning in this state, realizes this need and maintains the highest possible criterion in regard to scientific education. An outstanding program of research is carried on by the School of Science.

Graduating students in science will again this year find employment opportunities in abundance. In preparing students at Oregon State, the School of Science offers a varied choice of courses. In addition to providing students of other majors the necessary service courses, the school maintains divisions of general science, pre-dental and dental hygiene, pre-medical, pre-veterinary, pre-nursing and medical technology. The school makes available liberal arts courses with majors in science leading to either B.A. or B.S. degrees. Graduate study is also provided with courses of one to three years of study.

Three branches of Military Science offered

Instruction in defense education can be taken in any of three fields at Oregon State. Included are naval science, air science, and military science and tactics. The ROTC program strives to instill within it's students an awareness of the opportunities available for those who desire to follow a military career.

Students at Oregon State who have elected to further their education by the advanced ROTC programs are given a choice upon graduation. Military science and tactics students have an alternative between four combat branches of the army, with either regular or reserve commissions; students of the air science branch receive a second lieutenant's commission and enter either the flight or research duties in the air force, midshipmen of the naval program receive ensign commission in the navy or a second lieutenant's commission with the marine corps.

Navy emphasizes quality

The Naval ROTC unit consists of officers and enlisted personnel of Navy and Marine corps and midshipmen commanded by Captain K. L. Nutting. The program includes a summer training course between the sophomore and junior year.

Pershing Rifles boosts Army Strength

The National Society for Pershing Rifles is a drill honorary founded by the General of the Armies, John J. Pershing, to promote leadership qualities and drill proficiency for students in basic and advanced ROTC.

The 11th Regimented Headquarters is located at Oregon State and is the command post for the Pacific Northwest. The regimental headquarters is responsible for administration and coordination of activities of the other companies in the 11th Regiment which are located at the University of Oregon, and Montana State university.

Silver Wings shows Air Force best

Order of Silver Wings is an honorary drill organization established to develop leadership and drill proficiency in AFROTC cadets. These objectives are obtained by maintaining a precision drill team and a number of training units, which prepare the cadets for eventual participation on the drill team itself. Throughout the year, the drill team participates in a number of exhibitions and competitions along the West Coast.

Physical Education offers wide choice

Students desiring either a major or minor in the field of physical education offered through the School of Education and Science will find a wide choice at Oregon State. This allows the student his choice of specialties ranging from teaching and coaching to hygiene or physical therapy.

The division also maintains an excellent program of intramural sports along with free use of the gym and locker facilities for all students. This enables students in other major fields to increase special skills and make better use of their leisure time.

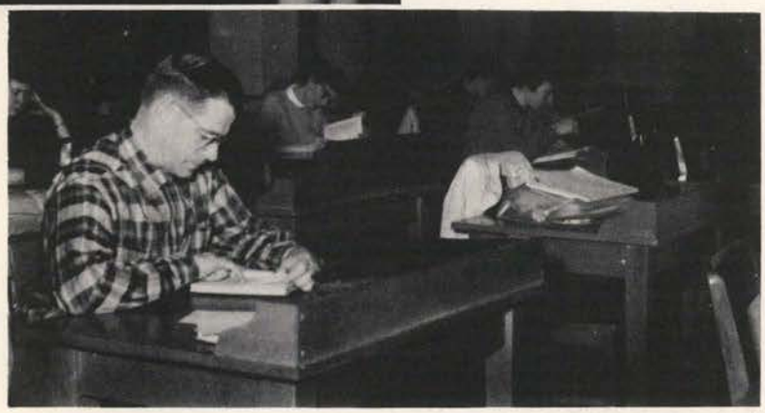
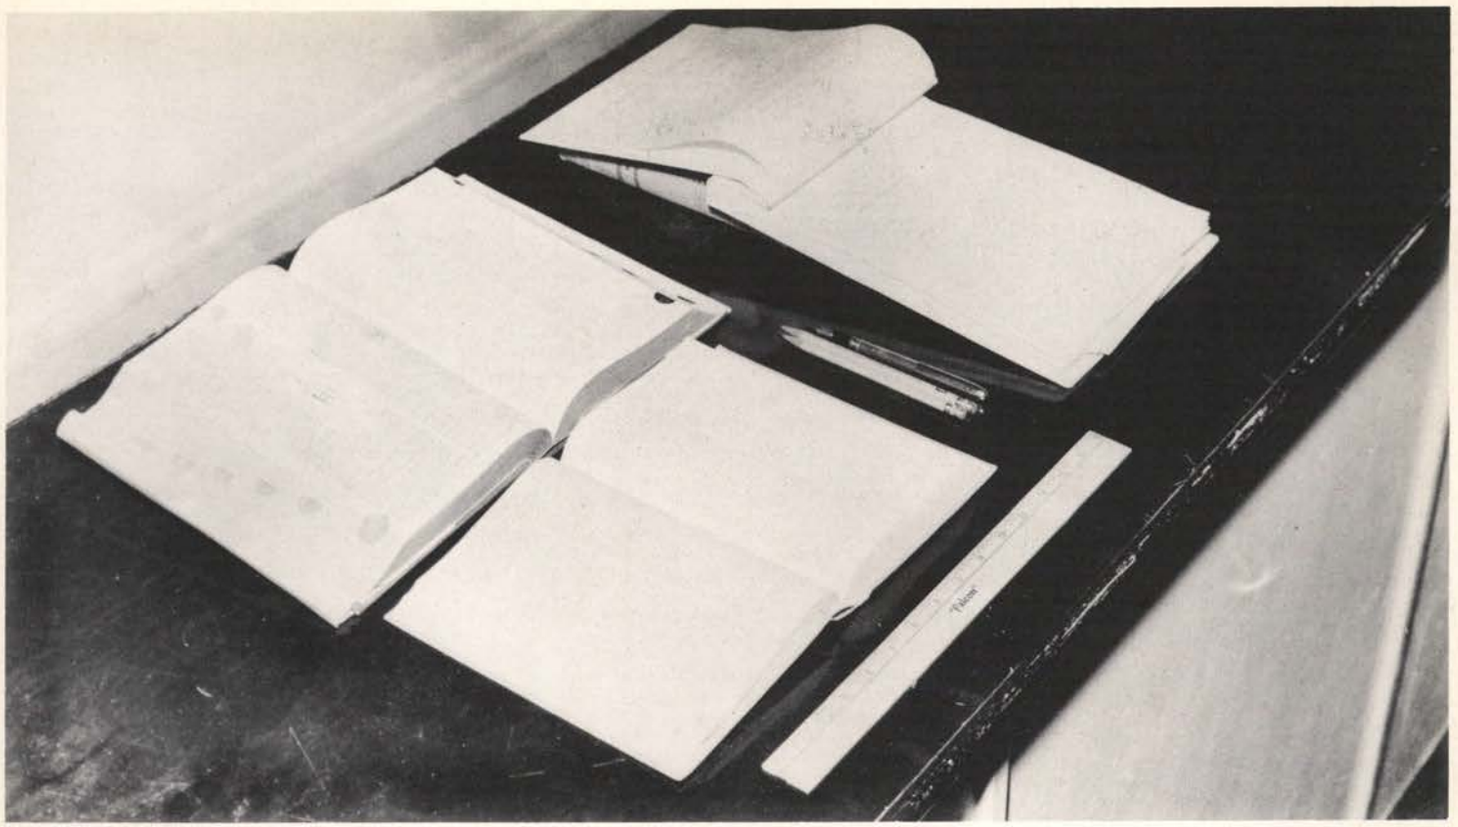
Mr. William H. Carlson, director of libraries, and Dr. Walter Kraft examine model of new Oregon State library.

New library to be built

Oregon State will erect a new library within the new fiscal year. The first unit to be constructed will be four stories high, house one-half million books and have facilities for 1600 readers. The new building will be constructed in the area in front of the present library.

Mr. Rodney Waldron, assistant librarian, also serves as director of library student employment. His position includes interviewing applicants and co-ordinating the work of more than one hundred student employees.





The key to advanced degrees lies in efficient study.

Graduate School increases annually

Oregon State's Graduate School meets the needs of the increasing number of college graduates who are finding that a four-year course is not sufficient preparation for many occupations. The graduate department was created for the purpose of administering and developing programs of advanced study and research for graduate students in all branches of the institution. At the present nearly all schools are authorized to offer graduate programs leading to advanced degrees.

Graduate study provides qualified students an opportunity to work closely with distinguished scholars and to develop a maturity of thought and attitude which will enhance their professional and cultural lives. The Graduate School has grown substantially in the past years but the emphasis is still upon individual study under competent supervision.

Talons and Thanes enhance campus life

Talons and Thanes are sophomore honoraries for men and women which offer service to Oregon State. Talons has a representative from each women's living group, and Thanes, a representative from each men's living group. Talons and Thanes help in new student week, registration, class and student body elections, Homecoming, Mothers' and Dads' weekends, Beaver Preview, blood drives and other campus events. An informal get-together with their University of Oregon counterparts, Kwama and Skull and Dagger was sponsored by the honoraries.

BITE encourages Beaver interests

Organized as a university public relations committee on the student level, Beaver Invitation to Education works to promote a better understanding and closer relationship between high school students and Oregon State.

The committee's main interest is to encourage high school student leaders and top scholars to attend Oregon State. This goal is carried out through personal correspondence, college discussion meetings during vacations, and the work of college students in their own high schools.

The Beaver Invitation to Education program is made up of a planning committee, district chairmen for twenty-one districts in the state of Oregon, and some 170 high school chairmen who work directly with their schools.

Senior Class terminates four years

The Class of 1961, lead by Dick Roy has completed its fourth year at Oregon State. However, Oregon State has not seen the last of this group that entered in the fall of 1957, several will return for their fifth year to continue the leadership so characteristic of this class.

Various issues and events can be recalled by the class members. Such things as apathy, Party for Parties, Mickey Mouse, and Go Collegiate have been heard from the electioneers over the past four years. Such campus issues as raids, closing hours, calling hours, emphasis on grades, Carillon Bells, railroad signals, rhinos, campus parking, and apathy have arisen. Athletes have garnered championships, co-championships, plus a few losses to keep our feet on the ground. Through all this the rally girls , rally boys, tail-flappers and pep band have worked to maintain student interest.

A great number have attained high scholastic honors, many of whom have been responsible for the success gained by the senior class.

The class of 1961 passes into the alumni circle as the last from OSC and the first from OSU, behind are many conquests and before new horizons.

Mortar Board chooses top women

Mortar Board members are chosen from the top women in the junior class with selection based on leadership, scholarship and service. Weekly Mortar Board meetings feature speakers on popular topics—world, national and campus problems. The main project for the group is the Mortar Board ball, the proceeds from which go toward scholarships.

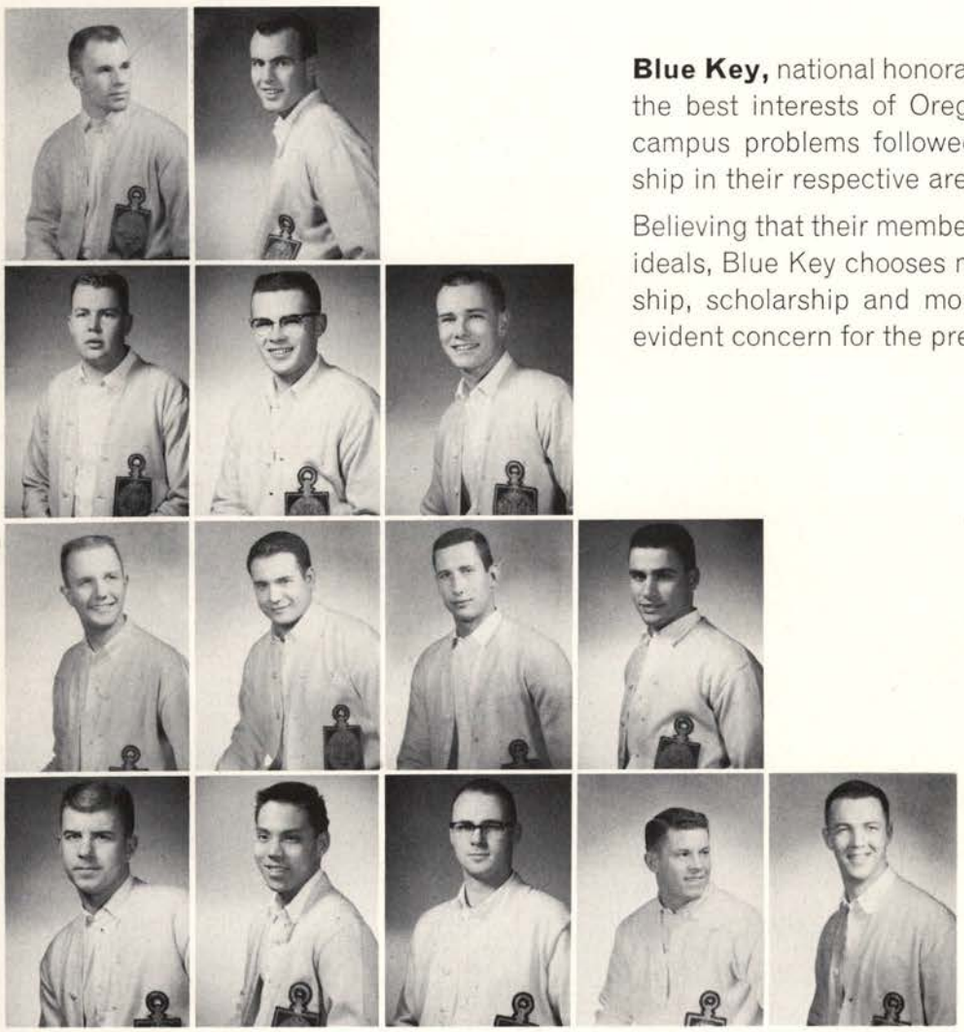
The "Key Men" discussing campus problems.

Blue Key cultivates leadership



Blue Key, national honorary for senior men, strives to serve the best interests of Oregon State through discussion of campus problems followed by behind the scenes leadership in their respective areas.

Believing that their membership should embody the highest ideals, Blue Key chooses men showing outstanding leadership, scholarship and moral character combined with an evident concern for the present and future of Oregon State.

ACTIVITIES

Dick Seideman, ASOSC president.

Seideman heads student government

This year the ASOSU worked with the opportunities of the students both in the curricular and extra-curricular fields. While they sponsored many of the social activities and special weekends, they had a definite role in determining with the faculty and administration the policies and regulations which govern the students. Their philosophy was to do as much as they could, and then lay groundwork for action by their successors.

Class of '62 sponsors Prom

The annual Junior-Senior Prom in April climaxed the year's activities. A Representative Council organized with a member from each living group was active in planning class functions. The Juniors were successful in capturing first place from the Class of '61 in the M.U. Christmas tree contest. A fall term get acquainted social hour and the annual spaghetti feed were also held.

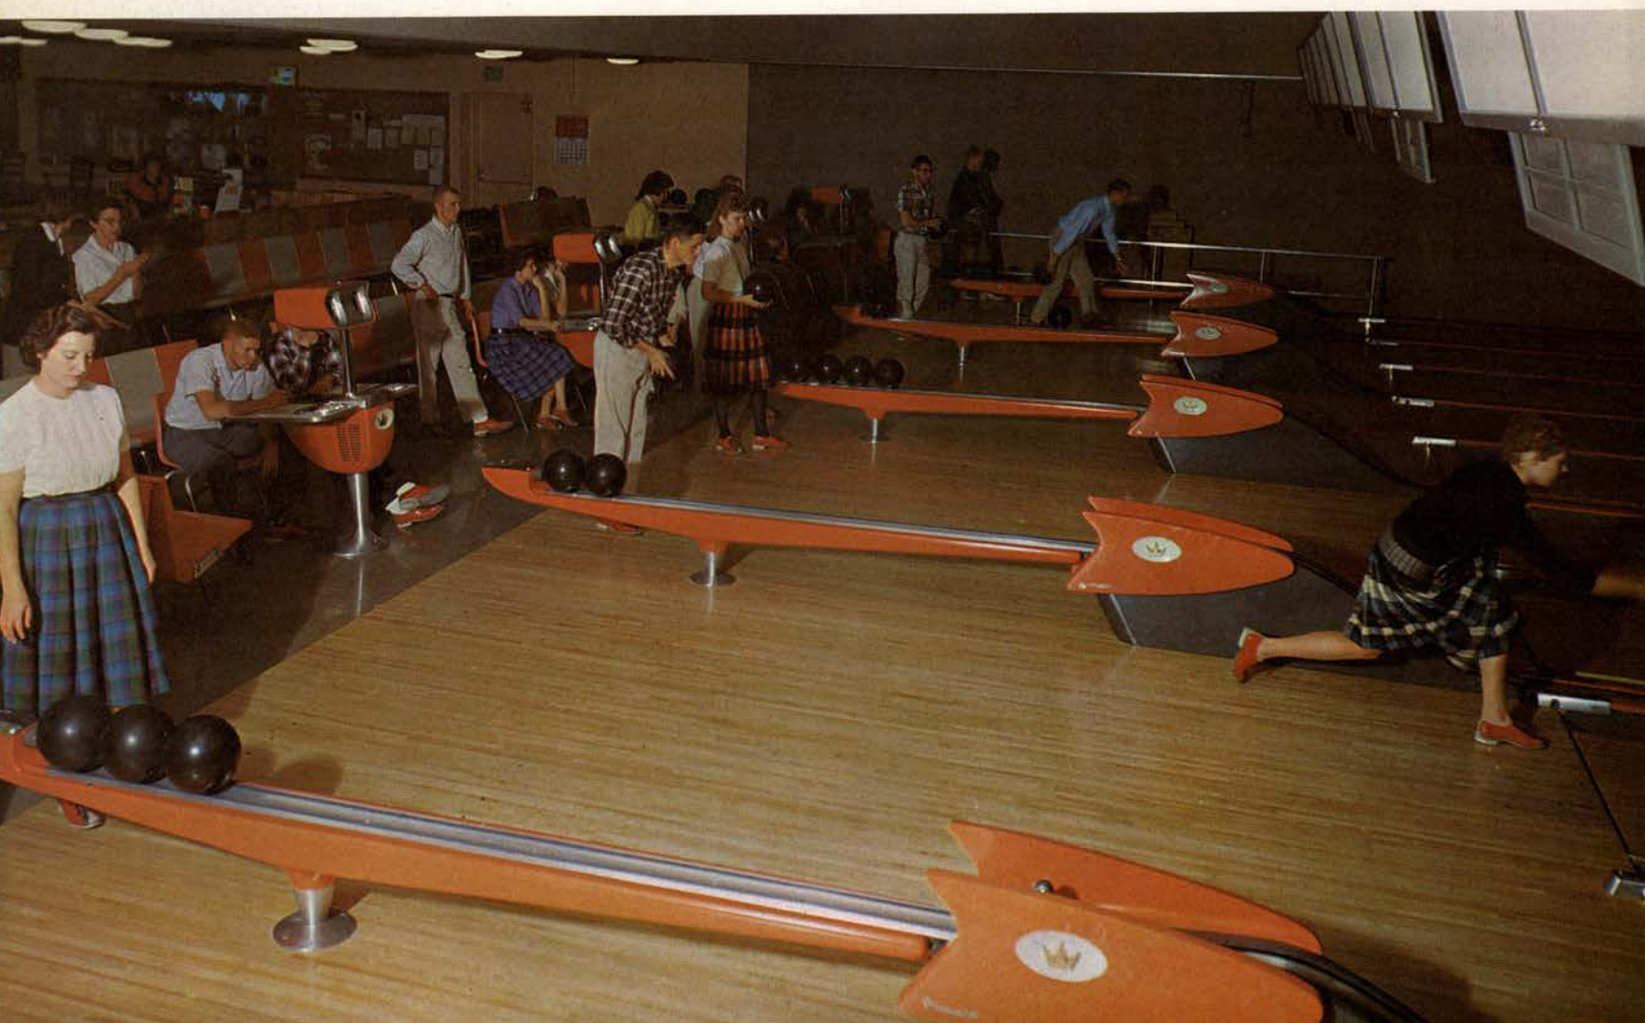
Major Edward C. Allworth, general manager and secretary of the Memorial Union, has held this position longer than the MU itself has been on campus. The major was hired to manage the proposed MU building in 1925 although it was not officially opened until 1928.

His college days were spent on the Oregon State campus, and he was a business graduate in 1916. For the next five years, he served with the United States Army and then he worked for a furniture store in Portland for several years before coming back to Oregon State as MU general manager.

Major Allworth explains that the Memorial Union is a memorial to all Oregon Staters who have given their lives for their country. It is financed completely by student fees and contributions.

Concerning the new additions, the Major states the construction cost $1,310,000. He feels it will be another 20 to 25 years before further construction is undertaken on the Memorial Union.



Memorial Union expands facilities

Extensive expansion of the Memorial Union building made this ageless tradition even more the hub of student life at Oregon State.

The bowling alleys and game rooms have added to the recreational possibilities offered by the MU. Student shoppers find the increased space of the Coop Bookstore a source of convenience. Relaxation is the most popular pastime in the Commons.

Gary Edelbrock, MU president

Memorial Union is hub of student activities

The Memorial Union provides a philosophical and educational guidance to the students in activities. Though these means it is hoped that mature, serious minded, responsible leaders are developed. In doing so it provides an opportunity for self-expression and self-directed activity.

Every woman student is member of AWS

The AWS officers and various committee members were kept busy during the year to fulfill their purpose to serve the women students. Reorganization of the membership program eliminated the paying of dues and made every enrolled coed at Oregon State a voting member and eligible to hold office.

The Publications committee, composed of students and faculty, has general supervision over all student publications issued under the authority of the Associated Students. The selection of editors and business managers of student publications is handled by this committee.

Students elected to Co-op Board of Directors

The Co-op Bookstore Board of Directors is the policy making body of the co-op. This group is composed of three seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores, which enables the Board to have a wide representation from the student body. From this group, elected by the Co-op Bookstore stock holders, is chosen a president and a secretary who work together with the other five members of the board as the administrative body of the co-op.

Alumni association promotes Oregon State

The Alumni association underwent an important change this year in its membership program to include the Oregon State Fund. The handling of homecoming activities, the class reunions of '40, '50, and '55, of which the '50 reunion was the largest ever held on campus, and the co-sponsorship of the Outstanding Teacher Awards were among this year's activities.

The alumni magazine, The Oregon Stater, and newsletters kept all alumni informed of the progress and policies of Oregon State.

Barometer gives campus complete news coverage

The Barometer editorial staff has worked together to publish a newspaper that gives complete news coverage to the campus. Student interest in the Barometer has increased over the year since the editorial staff has used higher standard editorials and more modern news services. Evaluation of student government, campus traffic, and liberal arts education problems have been discussed in Barometer editorials during the last year. New teletypesetter equipment and connection with the Associated Press wire service have both helped to give the Daily Barometer better news coverage. Another milestone in the Barometer's fifty year history was the publication of a sixteen page edition at the beginning of the 1960-61 school year.

Barometer publicizes Oregon State

The Barometer business staff set a new circulation record for the number of Barometers being sent to persons other than students. During the past year the business staff has sold advertisements to merchants all over the Corvallis area. The money from these advertisements plus limited financial aid from Educational Activities serves as the income required to meet the publication expenses for the Barometer. The business staff is in charge of delivering the Barometers to the various living groups.

Directory serves as information guide

The OSC Student Directory serves as the complete information guide for the campus. The book contains listings of the college staff and students plus its own yellow page section. Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi national professional journalistic fraternities combine annually with Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity and the Associated Students of Oregon State to publish the directory. Publication expenses are met through directory sales and advertisements.

Young and Growing

The Spindrift in its second year of publication is rapidly increasing in circulation and student popularity. It is published once each fall, winter, and spring term. The basic purpose of the Spindrift is to recognize and encourage literary and artistic efforts of the Oregon State students. The magazine is primarily concerned with short stories, poems, and drawings. The magazine may be easily recognized by its colorful and artistic cover.

Beaver preserves priceless memories

The 1961 Beaver staff has used judgment and inspiration to produce another nationally recognized yearbook. The Beaver strives to give a true and comprehensive picture of life on the Oregon State campus. It tells the human history of the social and academic occurrences of the 1960-61 school year. As a student publication, the Beaver provides educational training to its student staff members.

Another successful year

The Beaver business staff has completed another successful year with a record number of 1961 yearbooks being sold. The staff was responsible for the sale and distribution of this year's Beaver. All of the bookkeeping and secretarial tasks concerning the financial condition of the 1961 Beaver were handled by Ron Perkins and his staff. They were also in charge of selling pages to the various living groups and organizations represented on the Oregon State campus.

FINE ARTS

Fine Arts

The fine arts are those arts whose purpose is to express the feeling of beauty. They consist of sculpture, painting, music, literature, drama, and dance. The fine arts have two major qualities—spirituality and universality. The creation brings out the spirituality of the subject. The fine arts have universality because they appeal to men of all periods.

Greek mythology has a group of godesses called the Muses, one for each of the arts. Greek artists prayed to them for inspiration. Many artists today speak of drawing on their souls for help in creation. The fine arts in turn stir the spirits of their audience.

The Importance of Being Earnest

"The Importance of Being Earnest" is a satire on the Victorian double standard. In both the plot and dialogue there are elements of satire; however, they are not related. The characters do not say what they think; what they say has little connection with what they do. The plot is one that turns upon the discovery of the long-lost heir and the restoration of the long-lost brother. It kept the audience interested throughout the entire play.

Mister Roberts

"Mr. Roberts," a two-act comedy by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan takes place aboard the U.S. Navy cargo ship, AK 601 during the second world war. Lieutenant (JG) Roberts, who expects to fight for his country, finds himself on the AK 601 which has never seen action during the war. He and the other men of the ship spend their time waging an increasing guerilla warfare against the captain. The pig-headed captain makes a perfect target for this obsessional pastime. When they are not waging war against the captain, the crew is thinking up something to combat the boredom. The audience never stopped laughing until the final curtain was brought down.

Kismet

"Kismet" was put on by the associated independent students under the student direction of George Hinkel and produced by Ron Wachter. Kismet, meaning fate, is the story of a dame in life and of a beggar in Baghdad. Songs and tales show how the beggar goes from rags to riches and back to rags all in a day's time. Intermingled in the plot is two love affairs, one between Lalume and the Poet and one between Caliph and Marsinah. Kismet is a musical comedy which keeps the audience in happy anticipation.

The Seed and the Thorn

The play, the story of a faith healer, is concerned with the problems that arise in a society in which religion is sold in the same manner as candy. Byron Edwards, a young minister discovers that he has the power to heal. Doc Martin, a press agent and publicity man, approaches the young preacher and offers him a chance to become a revivalist. Byron accepts the offer, and as the play unfolds he is confronted with a struggle between his principles and his healing power. "The Seed and the Thorn," tells the story of this conflict.

"The Great Diamond Robbery" is a melodrama. This type of production was developed in France in the nineteenth century. Everyone knows the outcome of the play, but the thrill lies in watching the villain endanger the heroine while the hero is unaware of her plight. The hero never arrives too early or too late. The play has a very simple moral. Villainy must always be punished and virtue always receives its reward. The audience enjoyed hissing the villain and cheering the hero throughout the melodrama.

"The Girls In 509" is a comedy for Republicans, Democrats, and Independents—in fact for any voter who wants a laugh. When a fashionable hotel in New York is being remodeled, a pair of hermit ladies are discovered in one of the back suites. They have been there ever since that black night in November of 1932, when Herbert Hoover lost the election. Mimsy and Aunt Hettie are put in disgrace by their actions, but by the final curtain everything has worked out for them. The audience was kept in an uproar throughout the play.

Separate Tables

"Separate Tables" takes place at a shabby, waterfront hotel in Bournemouth, England. The play features thirteen actors, who all play important parts. It deals more with how people with various personalities react to different situations in life. The spirit of the play is symbolized by the individuality of the players. The hotel manager, Miss Cooper is the heroine of the story because of her constant effort to mend peoples' differences.

Choralaires practice for a coming concert.

The TV camera is ready for action.

Choralaires

Choralaires is a combined group of Oregon State men and women under the direction of Robert Wall. They have performed at many Oregon State functions throughout the year. Their fall concert, Christmas program, winter concert, Dad's weekend spring concert, and Mother's weekend has shown the versatility of the group. A high point in their year was a TV program at Christmas time on KOAC.

Madrigal composed of eighty women

Karl Moltmann, director.

Madrigal, which is open to women of Oregon State campus, is directed by Karl Moltmann. The chorus is composed of eighty women. Concerts have kept them busy throughout the year. They gave their annual Christmas program which was followed in the winter term by a concert given at the Future Homemakers of America convention and a winter concert which was in conjunction with the concert band. Madrigal presents a dignified, beautiful group in their flowing princess style blue gowns.

Karl Moltmann, director.

Men's Glee, directed by Karl Moltmann, is open to all men on the Oregon State campus. They have had a busy schedule throughout the year. An annual Christmas concert with the Choralaires started the year, followed by the home economics convention, the FHA convention, the spring concert, and the Baccalaureate Service. The Men's Glee combined with Madrigal this year for some of their concerts. The combined groups have over 140 voices blending together.

Marching band lends game color

After a struggle to get enough members to form an Oregon State marching band, they gave excellent half-time entertainment. The band was under the direction of Ted Mesang and the drum major was Gene Ginther. Outstanding performances were given during half-time adding color and pageantry. The band played in conjunction with Oregon State card stunts.

Forensics squad is active

Oregon State Forensic Squad enters at least six tournaments. Annual tournaments are Oregon Forensic tournament at Eugene, Inland Empire Debate tournament at Washington state and the Western Speech Association at Oregon State. Besides the tournaments, the forensic squad participates in restricted contest. The Inter-collegiate Forensic League consists of nine Oregon schools. One representative from each school enters the respective contests of the tournament such as oratory, extemporary, and debate. In all tournaments trophies are awarded and in the restricted contests trophies and cash awards are given.

Readings from Literature

The Readings from Literature series, now in its second year, was established by members of the English Department in recognition of the new School of Humanities and Social Science. Programs in the series are held four times a quarter on Tuesdays in the McDonald Room of the library and consist of a member of the English department faculty reading aloud to an audience of students, faculty and townspeople.

The purpose of the readings is to give not only the new humanities students but all Oregon State students, a chance to hear read aloud some of the literature of our civilization. An attempt is made in these readings to represent as many aspects of literature as possible.

The readings from Literature series is designed primarily for the students and is meant to be an extracurricular activity in the highest sense, that is to offer relaxation from the daily round of classes and at the same time to stimulate new and intellectual interests in the student.

Friends of Music

In the fall of 1959, an annual series of chamber music concerts was inaugurated on campus by Friends of Music organization. In the course of two seasons, half a dozen outstanding string quartets have played in the home economics auditorium before enthusiastic audiences. Some of these have been famous European ensembles such as the Hungarian Quartet and the Amadeus Quartet. Some have been brilliant American groups such as the Fine Arts Quartet and the Claremont Quartet. All these programs brought much enjoyment to the audience.

The University Trio from Eugene plays at one of the concerts.

Athletic Board oversees sports

The Intercollegiate Athletic Board is made up of the president of the Associated Students of Oregon State, the editor of the Daily Barometer, the manager of the Oregon State Business office, the secretary of the Alumni Association and a faculty representative. Six additional persons interested in athletic activities are appointed to the board by the president of Oregon State, at least one of whom shall be a member of the faculty at Oregon State.

This board approves budgets, athletic awards and acts as an advisory and counselling body to the athletic director.

James G. Barratt, Jr., athletic business manager, and John H. Eggers, sports publicity director, carry out the policies of the athletic board. Their offices are in the coliseum where tickets for the various athletic events can be purchased. News articles, pamphlets and other information is distributed to promote athletics at Oregon State.

Coach Tommy Prothro's single wing attack proved the experts' 1-9 prediction to be wrong as he guided the Beavers to a 6-3-1 season. The great drive and ability of a young team was demonstrated throughout the year, but especially against Rose Bowl champion Washington during a heart-breaking 30-29 loss. Key injuries kept the season from becoming an almost perfect one. Early in the season the mighty Trojans fell. Iowa was hard-pressed to win against the onslaught of the Orangemen. Coach Prothro has guided the Beavers to a 36-21-2 record during the last six years.

Beavers dump USC

OREGON STATE 14 USC 0

A mighty giant was toppled by Prothro's Beavers and their new "hot rod" single wing. It took the Orange only eight plays to score with Kasso going 16 yards to score. Vicious blocking by fullback Rivera let Kasso gain 52 yards on four plays. The Orange defense held USC scoreless to lead 7-0 at the half. Following the second half kickoff tailback Baker's passing moved the Beavers 71 yards in 10 plays to a TD. Alert defensive play held the Trojans helpless and OSC was threatening to score again when the final gun sounded. The 14-0 victory pointed to the strength and ability of the young Oregon State squad.

The powerful Iowa Hawkeyes handed Oregon State its first defeat of the young season. The first quarter Iowa was unstopable and led 9-0. In the second period the Orange defense tightened to stop Iowa's drives and hold the score 9-0 at the half. At the beginning of the second half the Beavers marched 48 yards to close the margin 9-6. Don Kasso raced the final 9 yards to score after Kirby's line slashes, and Youngquists 25 yard run around end. An onside kick hurt the Beavers and Iowa scored again to lead 16-6. Late in the third period Baker's running and passing set up a TD by Kirby to move OSC within four points 16-12. Iowa scored again to lead 22-12; then the fired-up Beaver offensive moved to meet the challenge, but was twice stopped by 15-yard penalties.

Beavers Outscore Texans

OREGON STATE 29 HOUSTON 20

Don Kasso played one of the finest games of his career as he led the Orange to a 29-20 victory over Houston's Cougars. The Beavers struck early with two first quarter scores. A Cougar fumble was changed into a 78 yard touchdown drive with Chuck Marshall diving through for paydirt. The Cougars again fumbled and four plays later a Terry Baker pass to Fred Jones gave the Orange their second quick touchdown. A third TD was called back as the Beavers lost their first-half drive and also end Aaron Thomas. Houston closed the margin to 16-6 at the half. A third period score by Houston made the score a close 16-14, but a 56 yard run for a TD by Chuck Marshall put the Beavers comfortably ahead again 22-14. Houston's next score and the injury of Don Kasso, who had gained 162 yards, left the Orange in a bad position. Terry Baker put the game on ice with a 26-yard touchdown pass to Gene Hilliard for a 29-20 win.

Orange Humbles Indiana

OREGON STATE 20 INDIANA 6

Orange State ruined Indiana's homecoming as they defeated the Hoosiers 20-6. Don Kasso engineered a second quarter drive scoring the 6 points himself on a 2 yard plunge. The conversion was good to leave the halftime score at 7-0. Indiana came back to score in the third period, but failed to add the extra point. The Orange scored twice in the fourth quarter, with Chuck Marshall capping a 62 yard drive with a 1 yard plunge, and a 67 yard march with a 12 yard run.

Tailback Terry Baker races through Vandal line for a good gain.

Tailback Terry Baker, carrying the entire load because of Don Kasso's injury, led Oregon State to victory with a total offense of 284 yards. After an exchange of punts, the Orange marched 89 yards with Baker running for the TD and adding the 2 pointer to give the Beavers a 8-0 lead. The Beavers stopped a second quarter Vandal scoring drive on the 9 yard line, and went 91 yards in 8 plays to score. Hilliard scored on a 23 yard reverse to put Oregon State ahead 14-0. Idaho dominated the third period and scored their only touchdown. In the final period Baker passed to Hilliard to run the score up to 20-8. An Idaho fumble, a 17 yard reverse by Hilliard, and a 2 yard plunge by Kirby scored the Orange's last TD. Baker passed for 2 points and the game ended 28-8.

Terry Baker played a game that will be hard to equal as he passed and ran for 302 yards against Washington's Huskies. A Huskie fumble and powerful sweep plays led the Beavers to their first TD, Baker making the final yard. Early in the second period Oregon State drove 48 yards and scored on an 11 yard Baker to Rivera pass. Failing to make the 2 point conversion, the Orange led 12-0. The Huskies then quickly struck for their first TD, and the Beavers retaliated with an aerial barrage by Baker ending in a field goal by Amos Marsh. Late in the half the Black Bandits started a drive on their own 21 yard line that ended in a 3 yard TD plunge by Fullback Chuck Marshall. Halftime score was a comfortable 22-7 Orange lead. In the second half, Marsh scored another TD to compensate for an early Husky score for a third period lead 29-15. Injuries and weariness defeated the Orange as the Huskies rolled for 15 more points and a narrow one point victory 30-29.

A fired-up California team surprised everyone as they upset the Beavers 14-6. Oregon State was unable to capitalize on early Bear mistakes, but late in the first quarter Terry Baker scored on a sensational 83 yard run twisting and hurdling away from tacklers and sprinting down the side lines. The halftime score stood at 6-0. The Bears drove to a third period TD to lead 7-6, and scored again early in the final quarter to lead 14-6. Baker's passing and running led the Beavers to the Cal 24 yard line but failed to score again.

Oregon State went to the Palouse Hills as a battle weary team. At the end of the first quarter they trailed by 10 points as the Cougars easily ripped through the Orange defense. The game seemed hopeless for the Beavers when Baker threw a 53 yard pass to Hilliard to the 4 yard line. Kirby scored to make it 10-6 WSU at the half. From the 2nd quarter on the Beaver defense toughened. The deepest Cougar penetration was to the 32 yard line. Oregon State then came back in the 3rd quarter with Kasso and Baker combining talents to score with Marshall going over for the TD. The Beavers put the game on ice in the final period with a 58 yard reverse by Hilliard and a 2-point conversion by Baker to win by a 20-10 margin.

OREGON STATE 25 STANFORD 21

A fired-up Stanford eleven nearly upset the Orangemen at Palo Alto. Terry Baker scored on a 9 yard run and Marsh kicked the extra point, but Stanford scored in a few plays to tie at 7-7. Stanford intercepted a Baker aerial to go into the lead 14-7, but Hilliard scored on a 29 yard reverse to make the score 14-13 at the half. Stanford scored early in the 3rd quarter to lead 21-13. Kasso then spearheaded a drive scoring on a 12 yard run to make the score 21-19. Norman fumbled and Kasso drove down and scored on a 16 yard run. A last minute Indian TD was nullified by a penalty and Oregon State won 25-21.

Penalties hampered Oregon State's effort in the Civil War with the Webfoots. An Oregon fumble recovered by Leon Criner was turned into the Beavers' first score. Don Kasso twice ran deep through the Ducks and scored on a one yard smash. Kasso cut over right guard on the same play for 2 points and an 8-0 lead. Despite Orange domination the Ducks scored 6 points on a pass interception. The third period was a defensive battle with Oregon State saving its offense by punting on third down. Mason intercepted a Grosz pass and in four plays Kasso and Rivera hit paydirt. Kasso scored running through three Duck defenders. Penalties gave the Ducks 40 yards and a touchdown in the fourth period. A two point conversion tied the score at 14-14. Late in the fourth quarter the Orange marched the length of the field and with 19 seconds left Tim Ankerson failed to make a last-ditch field goal.

Rooks display spirit

The Rook football team had a disappointing season as they lost all four of their games. Coach Bruce Hake developed a fine spirited young team, but a lack of manpower foiled any victory attempt. Despite the losing season, many things pointed to the potential that the team had, and undoubtedly next year's varsity will benefit from members of this team.

Beavers win 14

Amory (Slats) Gill, head coach.

The Oregon State Beavers, coached by Slats Gill, had a successful season with a 14 to 12 record, even though they lost several heart-breakers to Oregon in deciding the possession of the Chancellor's Trophy.

The Beavers started the season slow and after four games had a 1 to 3 record, but they came bouncing back strong and were in the top contenders for a bid to the NCAA Regionals.

Coach Gill's defensive attack consisted of a hustling, man to man defense which usually tied up the opponent's offense fairly well. The Beavers used a driving offense which was built around Karl Anderson and Jay Carty, who were the leading scorers with 264 and 262 points respectfully.

The Beavers will lose seniors Karl Anderson, Jim Woodland, Bill Wold, and Ernie Johnson. Each of these Beaver hoopsters saw a lot of action during the season and contributed much to the success of the team.

Ducks win series

For the first time in nine straight seasons, the Beavers lost possession of the Chancellor's Trophy to the Ducks, who slipped past the Beavers four times this season.

In their first two games, the Ducks squeezed by the Beavers in a thrill filled overtime, 58-55. The next evening saw Oregon on their home court beat a cold shooting Oregon State team 71-58.

The last two games between the two teams were very close, but the Ducks came out on top 54-52 and 63-57.

The second game, played at home, the Beaver hoop contingent, never threatened, defeated the Portland Pilots 58-48.

Jim Woodland paced the Beavers in their triumph by connecting on his 30-foot jump shot for 32 points.

Oregon State took three victories out of four games from the fast and aggressive Washington State Team. In the first two games played at Pullman, the Cougars managed their only win, 72-61. The Oregon Staters nosed out the Cougars in the other three games 76-66, 72-47, and 53-52.

During the first two games played, Terry Baker started his first college basketball game and showed his ability to drive through the best of them and drop 29 counters in the two games.

Highlighting the Beavers 72-47 victory, Jim Woodland hit his long jump shot consistently to net 24 points and also put the Beavers in contending spot for one of the NCAA Regional berths.

The closing game of the Cougars series was a low scoring, defensive battle, which the Beavers won by a 53-52 margin.

Oregon State vs Idaho series: 3-2

The first win for the Beavers was in the Far West Classic in which the final score tallied at 63-53 in favor of the Beavers. The next two games were played on the Beaver's home court and were highlighted by the fine performance of Karl Anderson and the playmaking of Terry Baker who together helped to post two victories for Oregon State, 67-52 and 55-49.

The closing two games of the Idaho series were played in Moscow. In the first game, the upsurging Idaho squad took advantage of the Beavers, after they got off to a bad start, to defeat the Orangemen 62-57. The following evening the much improved Vandals slipped past the Beavers 54-47, after the game had changed hands at several points.

U.S.C. and Arizona State are tough opponents

The Oregon Staters wound up splitting their series with U.S.C. In a hard fought battle, the Beavers upset a highly ranked Trojan ball club. The Beavers played a brilliant defensive game, thus eliminating the high scoring potential of the Trojans.

The following evening in a hotly contested battle the Trojans squeezed by the Beavers with a score of 74-68.

An early season game saw Arizona State upset Oregon State 79-77 down on Arizona's home court. The second game, played in Corvallis, proved the offensive ability of the Beavers by whipping Arizona 65-54.

Wrestling team has another big year

This year Coach Dale Thomas directed his Beaver Matmen to their third consecutive Pacific Coast Intercollegiate wrestling championship. Since Thomas started here in 1957, his teams have won 4 PCI championships in 5 years, and numerous individual stars have won PCI crowns and National and Olympic honors.

The Oregon State team has added great prestige to Beaver Athletics this year by producing an Olympic Team member, Fritz Fivian; several PCI champions, Tobe Zweygardt, Don Conway, Jerry Perez, Fritz Fivian, and Ron Finley; plus PCI runner-ups Jack Berger, Darrell Kauffman, and Ernie Parker.

Conway takes first

For the first time in Oregon State history, a NCAA wrestling championship has been won by a member of the Beaver wrestling team. Don Conway, graduating senior on Coach Dale Thomas's varsity squad, garnered first place from Oklahoma State's Campbell in the 167 pound class. Not since John Witte won second place in 1957 has anyone gone so far in the NCAA Tournament. Another Beaver Matman, Ron Finley, narrowly missed another first place in the final round of the 137 pound class by losing to Michigan State's Young in the last few seconds of the match. Finley will have another chance at the title next year as he returns to Oregon State.

Oregon State came in fourth in the nation behind Oklahoma State, University of Oklahoma and Iowa State. This is also the first year that Oregon State has come within the top five teams in the nation. The NCAA tournament was held in Gill Coliseum the 23rd, 24th, and 25th of March with about 80 different schools represented.

Rifle Team wins National Competition

The Oregon State Beaver riflemen won the 1960 National Intercollegiate Championship. They set a national record score of 1159 after edging out West Virginia with a score of 1157. Over 290 teams competed for the national honors. Two of the team members, Mike Griggs (team captain) and Coe Barnard were named to the 1960 All-American second team. This is the first time in the history of the school the team has won such an honor.

The varsity team also won the Pacific Northwest Sectional Championships for the third straight year. They were undefeated in team competition.

Second place won by Coleman's men

Ralph Coleman's team completed the season with a respectable 17-5 won and loss mark. The Washington State Cougars were officially the 1960 Northern Division champions while Oregon State finished in second place with a league record of 7 wins and 5 losses for a .583 percentage. Oregon State's record was remarkable when one stops to consider the number of injuries received by key players and the poor weather which dominated throughout the season. Grimm Mason missed the entire season due to a knee injury and Leon Criner missed half of the season with a similar injury. At the conclusion of the season, Coach Coleman received a giant-sized umbrella from the Beaver squad in order to protect himself from the spring monsoons which frequent Western Oregon.

Recipient of the Victor Brown Jr. trophy was Jerry Droscher, team captain and outstanding senior outfielder. In addition to this award, Droscher was also selected to the Western Regional NCAA all-stars. Bill Oerding received the Bill Cloyes award, a wrist watch for the top pitcher on the squad, as he finished the season with a perfect 7-0 record. This is the second season in which Oerding has not lost a game and his record now stands at 10-0. The Northern Division batting crown was awarded to Larry Peterson as he completed the season with a .420 percentage mark. Peterson was also named to an outfield position on the all-American college baseball team. The only other player from the Pacific Coast area was Bruce Gardner from Southern California. Bill Wagner led the team in number of runs batted in with a total of 22 for the season.

Fortunately, a good percentage of this year's squad will not graduate and it is probable that several upcoming sophomores will fill in the vacancies in next year's squad which will be led by Grimm Mason and Bill Wagner.

Trackmen have successful season

John O'Conner strains as he throws discus in Washington meet.

The 1960 track season turned out to be one of the most successful in many years. Under the experienced direction of Sam Bell, the squad replaced many old records. The Oregon State track team won five dual meets and lost three. Victories were scored at the expense of Arizona State, Fresno State, Washington State, University of Washington and Idaho while Arizona, California, and Oregon outscored the Beavers.

A record javelin throw of 260 feet 4½ inches was recorded by Gary Stenlund. This outstanding performance was the second longest toss throughout the nation last spring. The broad jump was consistently won by Darrell Horn, squad captain, and his best mark of 25 feet 5½ inches ranked third in the United States. Amos Marsh, another outstanding track man, scored many points in the 100 yard dash which he ran twice in :09.5. Records also were smashed by miler Norm Hoffman and discus thrower Don Martin. Hoffman's time was 4:11.2 while Martin threw the plate 167 feet 3 inches. Neil Plumley also smashed a shot put record with a 54 foot 7½ inch heave.

Many outstanding Oregon State performers were recorded at the Northern Division Track meet as the Beavers worked tirelessly for their second place position. Oregon State won six first places at this meet, more than any other school. In addition the 1960 track squad scored more points in Northern Division meet than any previous O.S.C. team. The Beavers also placed fourth in the NCAA meet at Berkeley.

Tennis team captures ND title

Irwin Harris presents the Northern Division tennis trophy to team captain Dick Stafford as the other team members look on.

Oregon State's well-balanced 1960 varsity tennis team, coached by Irwin Harris, won the Northern Division championship for the first time since 1938 by overwhelming the other northern schools in a two-day tournament on the Corvallis court. Gordon Brynildsen, sophomore, No. 1 man for the Beavers, defeated his own teammate, Dick Stafford, for the singles crown. OSC's second doubles combination of Dave Clements and Roy Stangeby won the double's title by defeating the Oregon Webfoots in the finals.

Brynildsen, Stafford and Clements represented OSC at the NCAA national tournament at Seattle in June where Brynildsen reached the semi-finals of the consolation singles before losing to Stanford's Jim Jeffries. In a rain-abbreviated dual meet season the Beavers won three out of four conference matches and finished with a 7-4 overall mark.

Golf team places second

Oregon State finished second in the Northern Division golf tournament, behind the University of Oregon, but only after a blazing finish fell short by three strokes. Oregon State's brilliant sophomore, Stew Schroeder from Medford, was the tournaments' best golfer with rounds of 73 and 67 on the par 71 course of Corvallis Country Club.

Coach Vern Martin's Beavers finished the dual season with five wins and seven losses. Lettering for the Beavers were three juniors and three sophomores, which include Bill Aubry, Tom Carter, Alan Jensen, Jack Mattison, Gary Parrish and Stew Schroeder.

The Rooks, coached by Jim Barratt, won six, lost seven and tied one match in 1960 golf action. Best overall job was done by John Kerr, freshman from Eugene, who won seven matches, lost four and tied two. Close behind were Dave Mather, Fred Heidt and Russ Swanson, all of whom will be varsity prospects in 1961.

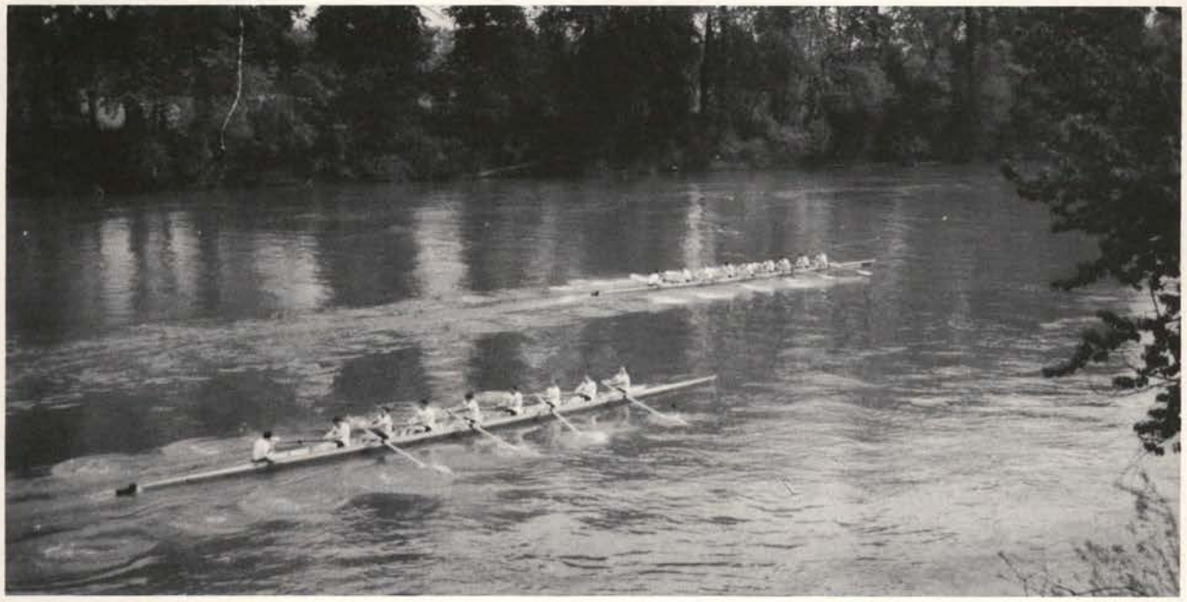
Oregon State crew expands operations



Beaver oarsmen reduce distance between themselves and Washington with a "big ten."

The JV crew pulls away from the dock for an exhibition race.

Coach Karl Drlica.

Beaver crew has successful season

After opening the season with a loss to the University of British Columbia, the Beavers went on to their most successful season. It was the longest season in many years for the oarsmen with four home races and four away. Oregon State defeated Stanford and UCLA while losing to Washington and USC. The season ended with the Western Sprint Regatta at Long Beach, where the Beavers took a second, a third, and a seventh place. Prospects for the next season look encouraging as many of the experienced oarsmen will be returning.

The Oregon State rowing program was considerably enlarged with the acquisition of several shells from the Portland rowing club. A campaign is now underway for the acquisition of a third racing shell.

Oregon State and Washington crews approach the half-way mark on the 2000 meter course.

Sigma Chi's and Beta's dominate fall intramurals

Flag football, the mainstay of fall intramurals, was again a repeat of last year's championship battle between the Phi Delt's and the Beta's. Both teams were evenly matched, but the Beta's managed to slip through the Phi Delt backfield for one touchdown, leaving the final score at 7-0.

In tennis, Jeff Woodside of Beta Theta Pi defeated last year's singles tennis champion, Russ Wickwire, in their final match to take the singles tennis competition.

Rodger Mink of Acacia won the individual free throw contest by sinking a phenomenal ninety-three shots out of one-hundred tries.

Handball, which seems to lack in popularity at Oregon State with only thirteen men participating, was won by Duane Lee of Phi Delta Theta.

Winter Intramurals feature many close contests

Delta Upsilon won the dual swimming competition and the all-college swim meet for the third year in a row. In dual swimming, the DU's edged the Sigma Chi's by one point 19-18 for the trophy.

The winter term wrestling finals were held in Gill Coliseum to benefit a larger crowd. The winners of the different weight divisions are as follows: 125-lb. Kenneth Simon, Davenport; 135-lb. Fred Miller, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; 145-lb. Raymond Enquist, Campus Club; 155-lb. Bob Baker, Kaun Eis; 165-lb. Dave Moser, Phi Kappa Sigma; 175-lb. Mike Harrington, Davenport; 185-lb. Rod Graves, Sigma Nu; Heavyweight Nick Lamprose, Phi Delta Theta.

In basketball, the Fiji's paced by superior outside shooting outscored Gar Tyr 49 to 37 in the all college basketball championship.

Frank Greminger and Dutch Notenboom of Gar Ilix won the all-school Paddleball Championship by outclassing Delta Upsilon, 2 to 0. The Gar Ilix combination had little trouble in defeating the DU duo of Dave Clements and Ken Boone by the score of 21 to 12 and 21 to 4.

The totals of the participation points up to winter term for the all-year trophy gave Beta Theta Pi a 75 point lead over Sigma Chi.

Excess energy is worked off in Spring Intramurals

This spring term, 1,900 men participated in intramural sports with softball having the largest single entry of nearly 900 individuals sponsored by 58 organizations.

The Phi Delts led the way by winning the softball championship, the dual track competition, and the all college track meet.

The sports of softball, tennis, riflery, horseshoes, track, and golf are included in the spring intramurals program to provide areas for all aspired athletes to compete.

Sigma Delta Psi, which is a collective test of the all-around athletic skill of an individual, was won this year by the SAE's. Individually these tests are not difficult, but collectively they offer a real test of one's skill.

The term was brought to a close with the all college track meet which was held at the end of spring term because Bell Field was available directly after the Oregon State high school meet. The field was well marked and in top condition for the competitors.

Members of WRA elect the executive council which is headed by Janice Baer. The council establishes the standards, plans, and co-ordinates the Women's Recreation Association activities.

Intramural managers stimulate interest in WRA

Each women's living group is represented on the intramural managers council. The council encourages interest in the women's intramural activities and co-ordinates the intramural events with the intramural manager, Marilyn Gilmore. Intramural program includes volleyball, swimming, badminton, basketball, ping pong, softball, tennis, bowling, and archery.

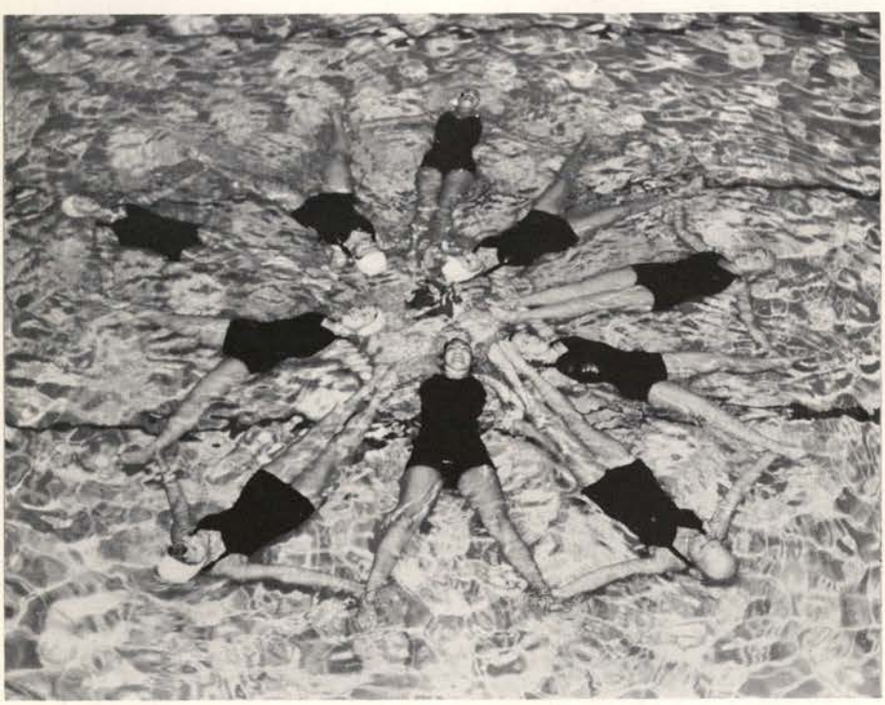
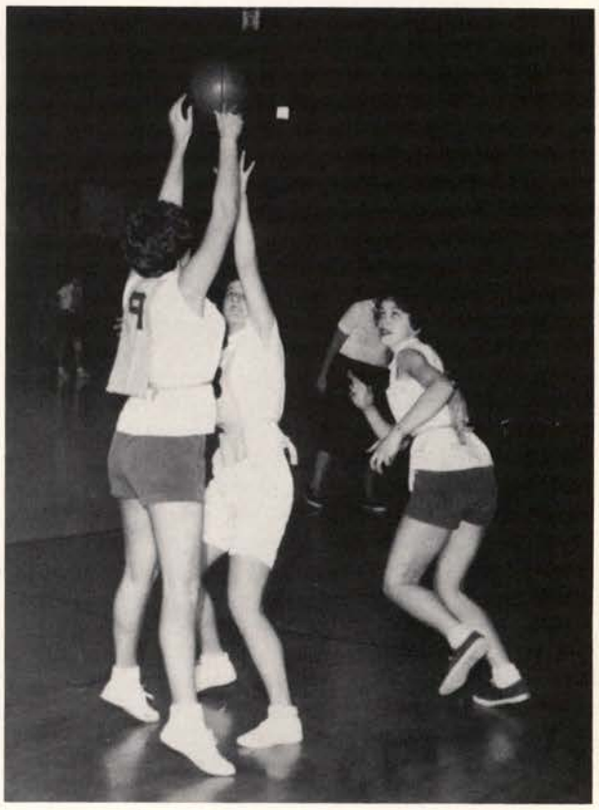
Seahorses is synchronized swimming group



"Down the Waterway Trail" was the theme of the Seahorses annual water show. The synchronized swimmers also performed for Mother's weekend. Members are selected in the fall and initiated in the spring. Sue Peck served as president of the thirty-five member group this year.

Women sponsor hoop day



"Lets Hoop It Up" was the theme of the basketball sports day sponsored by the WRA February 18. The sports day is not a tournament, but it provides an excellent opportunity for competition. Eleven schools participated this year.

Intramural program is varied

This year the women's intramurals offered many thrilling moments such as the finals of the swimming competition between the Kappas and the Chi O's. Each term a sportsmanship trophy is given in the team sport activities. WRA intramurals offer fun times and good competition.

Cooperative Students' Council serves in the advancement of cooperative living at Oregon State, and acts as the representative tie between the cooperative students and ASOSC Senate.

Presidents and representatives from each of the 11 cooperative living groups meet for discussion and legislation on problems of concern to cooperative students. In addition, CSC committees are working in the areas of housing and building with Terry Copley, chairman; publicity, headed by Bill Looney; and planning, with Tom Clevenger as chairman.

Inter-Dorm Council

Inter-Dorm Council, composed of the club presidents from each floor of the men's dormitories and the hall presidents, had a very active year coordinating men's dormitory activities.

Leading the council was Dick Bodyfelt, president, and Ray Girod represented IDC on the ASOSC Senate. Committees set up by the council included activity, elections, scholarship, Mom-Dad's weekends, budget and sound system.

No grass grew under the feet of Alpha Gamma Delta girls this year as they took part and won honors in various campus activities.

Chris Nilson served as president of Theta Sigma Phi. Tapped for Alpha Lambda Delta were Barbara Luton, Margaret Pugh and Sharon Long. Florence Holzmeyer and Susan Peterson were selected for Phi Chi Theta. Penny Lee was chosen for Kappa Pi and Rose Ellen Hope was a member of Lambda Kappa Sigma.

Serving on the editorial board of the Beaver were Joan Swart and Florence Holzmeyer. Circulation manager of the Barometer was Kathy Anderson and Sandy Grimm acted as AWS sergeant of arms.

Social life wasn't forgotten as the Alpha Gam's captured first place in the sale of Nickel Hop tickets. The fall term house dance, Princess Ball, honored the pledge class. The annual picnic for the WCTU Farm Home children was held and the International Reunion Day with alums and undergraduates in Oregon highlighted the year's activities.

AOΠ

Activity was the by-word of the Alpha Omicron Pi house this year as members exhibited leadership qualities in many campus activities.

Linda Streamer, a member of Mortar Board and Iota Sigma Pi, was editor of the Beaver. Gloria Gonyer was junior class secretary and a member of Phi Chi Theta. Barbara Talus was tapped for Alpha Lambda Delta.

Panhellenic leaders were Judy Phibbs, president, who also served on the ASOSC Senate, and Diana Klippel, vice president and Beaver living groups editor. Karen Rajnus and Barbara Walter were Talons and Barb, secretary of Interhall council. Members of Euterpe were Bev Gardner and Karen Rajnus; Claudia Ogren captured the ping pong championship.

The AOPi's won second place in Nickel Hop decorations and were guest performers at the IFC sing. A Marlboro contest netted the house a new stereo record player.

Fun, excitement, and activities filled the Alpha Xi Delta calendar this year, beginning with a beach trip honoring the pledges.

The housemother was feted at a tea and the annual Homecoming dinner honored visiting alums.

The traditional "Grecian Gardens" fall house dance was held as was the annual Christmas party for pledges and actives. The pledges surprised members at the Halloween walk-in.

As a service project, the Alpha Xi's captured an award in the annual campus blood drive.

Coed Cottage

The women of Coed Cottage started the year out right as winners of the Nickel Hop decorations award.

On campus, active members included Marjorie Stimson, house presidents' council secretary; Beth Gessford, co-op students' council secretary; Judy Irwin, AIS treasurer; Margaret Gates, Alpha Lambda Delta and Euterpe members; and Sandra Buxton, Iota Sigma Pi member.

Azalea House

Janet Stellmacher, president

News of the selection of Ardis Henry as 1960-61 Homecoming Queen created untold excitement at Azalea House.

Bonney Shields, Mortar Board member, found time for many other campus activities including president of Interhall Council, member of ASOSC senate, student life committee, and AWS scholarship chairman. Elizabeth McEntire was Co-Resident Council president and an ASOSC senator. WRA officers were Joanne Davenport, vice president, and Joan Stellmacher, extramural manager.

An ICA exchange student from Ghana living at Azalea this year was Esther Opuku.

Traditional house activities were fall term formal, Azalea Ball, the Christmas Breakfast and the winter term costume dance. Winding up social activities were a beach party and senior farewell breakfast.

ΔZ

The women of Delta Zeta can look back with satisfaction on a year of colorful events and numerous achievements.

House activities started off well with "Portrait in Rose," the fall house dance honoring the pledges. A special trip was made to Silver Creek Falls, also feting the pledges.

Individually, the DZ's were not to be outdone as far as activities went. Janet Kirk served as Junior class vice president and Maralyn Lewis was vice president of the Home Ec club and also served in that capacity for the state club.

Honoraries claimed Carol King Nelson, treasurer of Lambda Kappa Sigma, and member of Theta Sigma Phi. Laurie Cropsey Keller was chosen for Euterpe and Orchesis; Linda Walker, Omicron Nu; Shirley Wright Youngman, Phi Chi Theta; Susan Anderson, Euterpe; and Margaret Schadler, Orange "O."

Individually, the women of Kappa Delta went above and beyond the "call of duty" this year.

Sally Rohrback represented the KD's as a Talon. Honoraries claimed their share with Elaine Becker in Omicron Nu and Euterpe; Betty Knight, Kappa Delta Pi; Anne Shirley, Phi Kappa Phi; Sally Mayers and Eileen Paget, Orange "O" and Gail Doty and Joan Williams, Phi Chi Theta.

Elaine Becker, president

The annual costume pledge dance was titled "Spook Stomp" this year and took place in a traditional haunted house. The spring formal honored graduating seniors.

On the philanthropic side, the sisters worked to support the Crippled Children's Hospital in Virginia.

Linda Serrurier, president

Kappa Alpha Theta took top grade honors fall term in fulfilling their pledge of active participation in campus scholastic and social activities.

Fall term saw the pledge class feted in the "Alice in Thetaland" dance. Winter term the annual ski dance was presented.

Theta's exemplified activity-plus with such campus leaders as Karen Johnson, AWS president, and Judy Coleman, Home Ec club president.

Patti McQuaid was Senate secretary and on Varsity rally was Mary Laurhammer. Karen Forsyth was Talon representative.

Keeping the books for AWS was Jenny Bartells, treasurer, and Susie Baumgartner, Beaver office manager, served on Student Board of Reference.

Beauty and personality were not unrecognized, as Kathy Crawford was named "Little Colonel," Nancy Grizzle was tapped for Daughters of Minerva and Carla Fraser was selected as "Orchid" of Sigma Pi.

Among the honorary members were Penny Miller, Alpha Lambda Delta, and Mortar Board members, Judy Coleman, Karen Johnson, and Barbara Ronald.

Phrateres is a social service organization open to all interested women. Its purpose is to give all women students of Oregon State an opportunity to take part in some campus activity.

Service projects for the year included visiting an old folks home, writing letters to Cuba, and helping AWS with Thanksgiving baskets.

The extracurricular activities consisted of a bowling party followed by a chili feed, a Christmas brunch, the annual Mother's brunch held Mother's Weekend, and a retreat to the coast. Officers for the year were Lucille Lane, president; Juanita Kearney, vice president; Judy Herbison, secretary; and Nancy Kletzer, treasurer.

The year 1960-61 was an eventful one for the women of The Pines. Fall term alums were honored at a dinner. The girls helped with the Co-Hop dance winter term.

Activity-wise, three of the members served as officers of Co-Resident women—Jan Jaross, vice-president; Lurlyn McKenney, acting secretary; and Bobbie Sisson, social chairman. Betty Judd was a member of Seahorses and Judy McDole and Sharon Oukrop played on the girls' field hockey team.

ΠΒΦ

Kay Manning, president

Pi Beta Phi girls maintained a busy schedule this year in scholastic, service and social activities. They copped the blood drive award three consecutive terms and held a chapter founder's dinner.

Bridge won "hands down" as the most popular house activity, but the annual house dances were not forgotten. Preceding the Christmas holidays, a cook-houseboy party was held.

Activity wise, Kay Manning was president of House Presidents' council, Miss OSC finalist, Mortar Board and a member of Co-op Board of Directors. Donna Biggs was sophomore class secretary and "Rose" of Pi Kappa Phi.

Talon representative and sophomore class vice president was Shirley Small. Pat Warner was Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Girl and Forest Fraulein.

In the "pep" department, Nancy Johnson served on Varsity rally and Pat Huffschmidt was member of Rook Rally.

The girls of Sigma Kappa opened the holiday season by presenting the 21st annual smorgasbord for the campus faculty. Mrs. Tracy Johnson, MU program consultant, was made an honorary Sigma Kappa alumna initiate. The pledge class gave a tea honoring the other campus pledge classes.

In the beauty department, Kay Parker was a finalist for Betty Coed and a member of Varsity rally squad; Cherie Pirtle was a finalist for Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Girl.

Members were also active in campus honoraries, publications and activities. Pat Pearce was editor of the Student Directory, Barometer exchange editor and a member of Theta Sigma Phi. Omicron Nu and Mu Beta selected Mary Klock. Omicron Nu was also one of Susan Todd's honors, as well as Mortar Board, Pi Delta Pi and AWS Student Board of Reference.

Sandy Molstrom was AWS publicity chairman and served as a member of Theta Sigma Phi and Orange O. Alice Thomas was president of Young Republicans and Lori Connarn headed the AWS scholarship committee and Homecoming button sale.

ZTA

Strains from a newly received record drifted from an upstairs window of the Zeta Tau Alpha house over a group of ambitious girls working in the yard.

Working together as a group, the Zeta's participated in campus events including Homecoming, Dad's Weekend, and Mother's Weekend. The members also held term dances and the region-wide, White Violet Ball.

Personally active were Linda Davis, Talon representative, and a member of Seahorses; Ginger Snapp, riflery club; Joyce Preston, Madrigals and Jane Whitcomb, play cast.

Around and around and around go the crepe paper streamers as the ZTA's decorate for a house dance.

Acacia

Delbert Remington, president

As planned, the activities of Acacia fraternity were characterized by typical enthusiasm and hard work for which this non-Greek fraternity has become known.

House functions included the fall Pajama Dance, and the Sweetheart Dance where a crippled girl is traditionally crowned queen. "Night on the Nile," the national dance was one of the highlights of the year.

Prominent in campus events were George Abed, Junior Class president and MU Board of Directors member; Paul Ingram, president of Men's Glee Club, Beaver staff member, and Ag senator; and Del Remington, chairman of the IFC Banquet. Terry Freund and Curtis Mikkelsen were outstanding freshman cadets in ROTC, and Chancey Ball was a member of the varsity wrestling team.

ΑΓΡ

Another full year of socials and studies was placed in the Alpha Gamma Rho memory book as they again proved that fun and scholastics do mix favorably.

"The Upper Cellar" was the theme for the fall house dance, followed by the "Foresters' Ball," and the spring "Pink Rose Formal." A tea was given fall term, honoring the new housemother.

Tom White, ASOSC 1st vice-president, was selected as a member of Blue Key, and served as "head man" in the Navy ROTC. The AGR's proved to be real campus leaders with Bob Elden as president of Alpha Zeta and Ag. senator; Ken Marx, Tau Beta Pi president; and Larry Knudson, president of Mu Beta Beta.

This year will not be easily forgotten by the men of Beta Theta Pi. A look at their individual honors and group activities will explain why.

Brains and brawn apparently went well together since the Beta's made their usual good showing gradewise, besides participating in the field of sports. Doug Bashor, football captain and Varsity-O president, was selected as a member of Blue Key.

Marne Palmateer and Mike Younquist saw action on the gridiron, and Steve Flynn represented the Beta's in basketball. Baseball, tennis, track, and swimming were actively participated in also.

Beaver Lodge

Ralph Beesley, president

The calendar of Beaver Lodge was crammed with social, athletic and scholastic events this year with members participating in many house and campus activities.

The fall term costume dance began their social life and was followed by the Christmas party, Co-Hop dance and spring term semi-formal. Athletics were not ignored, as the house copped the intramural all-school horseshoe championship last spring and fall term they were runners-up for the independent football championship.

Beaver Lodge was well represented on Cooperative Students' Council with Don Brockway, representative; Herschel Pendell, publicity committee; and Earl Horton, student affairs committee. Barry Willis was on Varsity crew and Hugh Eddy was a member of Xi Sigma Phi.

Quorth Logar boasts a top group of active men this year and a look at individual achievements will explain why.

Mike Griggs was selected as a member of Blue Key and was a member of the All-American rifle team. Bill Janz represented Quorth Logar as a Thane and Bill Haugen received his Army commission of 2nd lieutenant.

Athletically, George Stein won second place in tennis singles as an independent, Gary Casey played Varsity football and Tom Halley was on the Rook football team.

Highlight of the year socially was the "Beatnik" fireside fall term.

"Get Healthy Week" launched by the men of Thorn Tyr turned out to be a campus-wide observance. Together with the publication of the "Badfly" and a Get Healthy fireside, the members did their best to improve the general campus constitution.

On the athletic scene, the men made a successful showing by winning their football league and qualifying for the semi-finals in intramural bowling.

Several exchanges and firesides provided more fun for a group of active men.

Tyr Ilix Gar

John Winquist,
president

The second year for the men of Tyr Ilix Gar proved to be filled with even more fun and activities than the first.

President John Winquist led the group and also served capably as treasurer of IDC. Other leaders were Jim Heater, Cauthorn Hall president, and Cliff Hunter, advisor. Cliff was also chosen for membership in Tau Beta Pi, Pi Tau Sigma, and Sigma Tau, engineering honoraries. Fred Board represented the group as a member of Thanes, and Bruce Cauthers was a campus reporter for K-FLY.

The TIG men were not to be outdone on the social side either, as they participated in several exchanges and firesides.

Sports provided an active field with Ross Cariaga, Varsity football member, and Larry Munz, Varsity swimmer. Several men were on freshman crew and intramurals were actively engaged in. The members generally had an enjoyable and eventful year.

Cinder City

Gary Stenlund, president

A new co-op on campus, Cinder City, has become familiar as "Track Shack" to its members who are exclusively from the Oregon State track team. It was formed as an experiment designed to supplement the current expansion in the track program.

The men were led by President Gary Stenlund, track All-American 1960, while able assistance was provided by Richard Cuddihy, Varsity track member.

Mrs. Lila Fones was housemother for the new group and El Blanco Sampson, otherwise known as "Sam" represented the house as mascot. Successful firesides made up the social calendar for this year.

Romping through another successful scholastic, social and athletic year, the brothers of Delta Chi held three enjoyable house dances. Fall term members and their dates wore African costumes to the "Jungle Drums" house dance. The annual "One Night In Hell" dance was held winter term, followed by the spring term formal and beach party. The house captured the Ugly Man on Campus award fall term.

Prominent members on the athletic scene were John Hadraba, Varsity football and baseball; Fred Smith, Varsity Crew coxswain Dick Elliott, Rook track; and Jerry Klinger, Rook basketball. Greg Murrell kept up school spirit as a member of the Rook rally squad.

Gene Ginther was drum major for the OSC Marching Band and Hank Crowhurst was IFC rush reception chairman. Gordon McPhaden served as chairman of the program committee for Dad's Weekend.

In honoraries, Ralph Golik was secretary of Phi Tau Sigma and Dan Wilson was treasurer of Kappa Kappa Psi.

Delta Tau Delta strengthened its coveted position of prominence among campus fraternities with a well-rounded and integrated program, excelling in social, scholarship, intramurals and student activities.

In athletics, Bill Wold played Varsity basketball; Scott McKean was a Varsity swimmer and Marv Tyler was on the Varsity track team.

The Delts were represented on campus by Lou Parmenter, ASOSC Pharmacy senator, Mike O'Mara, MU dance chairman, and Don Wrenn, Junior class treasurer.

Socially, the Delts held the annual French Apache dance and numerous firesides and exchanges.

Down through the ages, the mature male has joined groups like Delta Upsilon, and this year was no exception with 29 pledges for fall term.

Returning to a newly remodeled house, the DU's started the social year off with a grubby house dance. Other activities included a banquet for the alums, given during Homecoming.

Mike Hanson served as assistant sports editor for the Barometer, Jim Youde was on the MU games and recreation committees, and Dave Clements assisted as chairman for Homecoming.

"Honor above all things" was the motto of Kappa Delta Rho leading them to a successful year in campus and house achievements. The KDR's captured the fall term blood drive award in the small farternity division and were active participants in campus intramurals.

The KDR's lent their talents to many fields. Ed Gustafson was president of Ag Council and Toastmasters and vice president of Alpha Zeta. Loren McClure was on the Varsity rifle team and Larry Hyder was Thane representative.

Dave Rongerude was a member of the Arnold Air Society and Ken Messerle handled the finances for the Dairy club. Doug Schoen was president of the Oregon State section of American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Caron N. Beard, IFYE delegate to New Zealand in 59-60, was president of the local branch of the American Society for Horticultural Science, Ag Executive Council representative for Campus 4-H club, member of the Marching band and Concert band, member of Kappa Kappa Psi and Mu Beta Beta and played on the Varsity wrestling team.

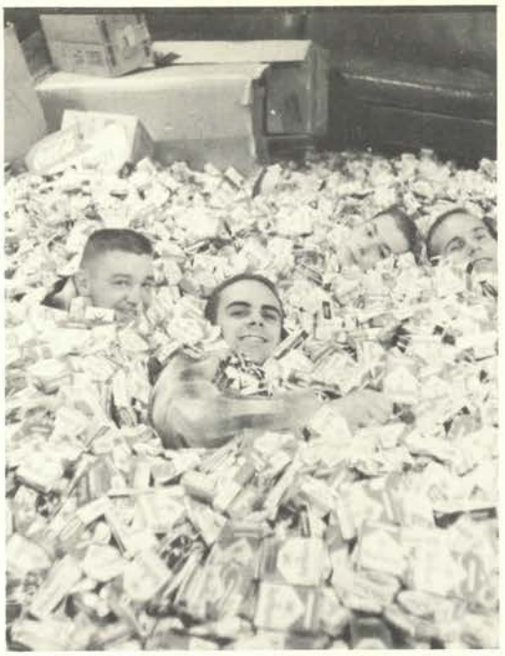
Success of Lambda Chi Alpha was evident in the wide variety of campus activities in which members were participants.

Roy Jones was a member of the Varsity football team. In wrestling, Gary Butler offered his talents. Lee Collins was active in swim team events.

Bob Rolfness served as MARS president while Ron Grant represented Lambda Chi as Thane.

In the military, Air Force cadet officers Bob Wallin and John Christianson were active Scabbard and Blade members. Mike Harris and Bob Wallin were recipients of Air Force Distinguished Cadet awards.

The Lambda Chi's won a stereo phonograph in the Marlboro contest and a division first-place trophy in the fall term blood drive.



With all these Marlboro boxes, why shouldn't Lambda Chi win the contest?

The men of Phi Delta Theta had their usual good year, complete with all the things necessary for the "good life."

Social life was plentiful with the annual Barn Dance, and winter term was highlighted by the Miami Triad formal.

The athletic scene found Terry Baker as a first team all-coast choice and Linebacker's Player of the Week. Ron Miller, Felix Mazzocco, Rick Brooks, Jim Galyen, Dick DeBisschop and Tim Ankerson represented the Phi Delts on the Varsity football team. Varsity basketball players were once again led by Jay Carty, Ernie Johnson, Gary Ross and Terry Baker.

Active men included Jim Sehorn, member of Silver Wings, and Roy Chapin, Arnold Air Society. Joe College finalist was Terry Baker. Jim and Jeff Roehm were selected for Sigma Delta Psi, national athletic honorary. Jeff also served as a member of Thanes.

Along with all other triumphs, the Phi Delts were the only living group ever to retire the all-college intramural trophy, at Oregon State.

This dazzling array of trophies makes Phi Delt hearts swell with pride.

Phi Kappa Psi launched the social season with a biennial dance, the "Two-Yard Hop." Following the custom each man gave his date two yards of material from which she was to make a costume, returning the yard and a half left over. "Skid Row Squeeze" was the theme of the spring term dance and beach party.

Two of last year's Squires, Jay Sumner and Bill Nilsen teamed up with Bob Ward to form a new vocal trio, the Continentals, and gave performances in the Corvallis area. Gene Thornton represented the house as Barometer sports editor.

On the athletic scene Sid Eilertson finished the season on Rook football, Jim Norfleet played Rook basketball and Gene Johnson was on the Rook swim team. The Phi Psi's tied for first place in the intramural football league.

Phi Kappa Tau members returning to the campus this fall did not waste time in taking advantage of the newly enlarged party room as a full schedule of exchanges and firesides contributed to the social season.

Other social highlights included the Zombie Jamboree, a winter term pledge dance entitled "Enchanted Sea" and the annual spring "Red Carnation Ball."

Active participation in intramural sports was evidenced in the high rating, based on total points in all activities awarded to the Phi Tau's. John Hamstreet, Varsity crew member, represented the house in inter-collegiate sports.

Russ Maddox served as wing commander for the Air Force, while Dick Hansen acted as chairman for the IFC rush program. Norm Seelye and Bob Steele represented the Phi Tau's in publications and Dave Harmon was a member of the Marching band.

Pi Kappa Phi began the school year with an Oriental dance in their party room. The annual pledge pajama dance winter term proved a great advance for cupid. With this year's Rose Queen, Donna Biggs, crowning the new Rose at the spring term Rose Ball, the social calendar was completed.

Rook representative, Dave McEachen, voiced his opinions in the freshman class council while Bill Elliott helped the Junior class plan their affairs. Larry Leedham and Ron Hawley added their talents to the College Playhouse productions and served on various campus committees.

Bill Cooksley served on the general homecoming committee, MU Music committee, and worked as a Beaver section editor. Other Beaver staff members included Bill Thomas, Al Smith, and Jim Engdahl.

Dick Colby spent most of his spare hours working as the, Barometer editorial page editor. With the Pi Kaps at home and on campus, it was a successful year.

Ilix Ilix Ilix

Social functions, books, athletics and activities all mixed together made for a well organized group in campus called Ilix Ilix Ilix. The Sackett "C" club found the combining of these items the secret of their success.

Socially, there were firesides and exchanges, spring term beach trips and the annual steak fry enjoyed by the members.

Campus notables were plentiful in the Sigma Chi house this year with members active in athletics, honoraries and campus events.

Activities seemed to lean a little heavy on athletics with four Varsity track men—Don Martin, captain, Darrell Horn, John Ball and Larry Meyers; Steve Pauly, Varsity basketball; Jerry Perez, Varsity wrestling captain; Gary Samuel, Varsity swimming and Mike Watters, Varsity football.

Campus activities were not ignored with Brian Busch serving as president of Choralaires. Darrell Horn, Blue Key member, was selected Mortar Board King.

Jeanne Boyd was awarded the title of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" at the annual fall term house dance. Winter term the Sigma Chi's, in conjunction with Phi Delta Theta and Beta Theta Pi, held the Miami Triad. The spring term house dance was entitled, "Embarcadero."

In intramurals, Sigma Chi captured the all-school volleyball championship and all-school basketball free throw honors.

The year started big at Sigma Nu. Coming back to a fully remodeled house, a very successful rush filled the picture. Along with fine grades, the new pledges were also active in sports and campus activities.

Rook basketball claimed John Wheeler and Steve Clark. Larry Robinson toured the links for the golf squad, while Clark, Wheeler and Terry Markham were in the baseball picture.

The White Star made news as Earl Woodward was on the football team; Bob Semon, tennis; and Tom Hamblin, golf. Steve Langenburg used his lap quite well fall term as he was Santa Claus at the MU Christmas party. The Sigma Nu's were represented in Thanes by Mark Simons. As a house, those living in participated in activities at the farm home. The men also were on their way towards repeating as the most active fraternity in intramurals.

The three highly successful house dances highlighted the year, helped by a full schedule of exchanges and firesides.

This was an outstanding year of improvement and achievement for Theta Chi, and one that gives strong indication of even greater years ahead.

A broad representation on campus was highlighted by John Luebben as Rally King and Don Wirth as a Senior class officer. Also well known were Tom Ross on Varsity rally and John Struve in Phi Eta Sigma.

On the athletic field, Varsity high-jumper John Hunter, third basemen Bruce Day, and defensive guard Ed Vetsch are readily remembered. Dick Fulwyler and Jerry Neil displayed talent in Rook football that is certain to be prominently used in keeping the varsity winning next year.

Socially, the annual fall Red-Ox stampede kicked off an abundant year of dances, exchanges and firesides.

Theta Xi had a busy and successful year led by house presidents Keith Mobley and Duane Bankofier. Keith was also IFC treasurer, chairman of the IFC Sing, president of student OEA, and a member of Epsilon Pi Tau honorary. Other TX men active on campus were Paul Hansen, construction chairman for the Sophomore Cotillion; Dave Schreiber, Thane; John Lang, Beaver Staff; and Dave Dunahay, associate Beaver editor.

Theta Xi was also well represented in athletics, having Bob Hutchins on the Varsity football team, Bob Crawford, Phil Delucchi, and captain Phil Baker in Varsity swimming competition, and Nathan Francis on the Rook swimming team.

The social calendar was filled with a variety of firesides and exchanges and was highlighted by the house dances; Pajama Hop, Club Theta Xi, and the Roman Romp which was, of course, accompanied by the traditional Roman feast.

During the fall term most of the members of Hagall Staan concentrated on their studies. As a result, this living group composed largely of engineering students had one of the better g.p.a.'s on campus, with four men making the honor roll.

Four members were active in the MARS radio club, and David Jordan, club athletic chairman, was named secretary of that organization.

Keith Larson and Fred Funston, both Varsity wrestlers, along with Vic Kimsey comprised the ruling body of the Baptist Student union.

On the social side, all members, accompanied by the girls of West, had a very enjoyable time on the noise parade during Homecoming. The truck used was one of the largest present at the function. An exchange and a fireside were planned for Winter term.

Gar Tyr

Jerry Maasdam, president

The men of Gar Tyr had a successful year combining social and athletic events but not forgetting the academic side.

One of the most active clubs in Waldo Hall, the members found time to participate in many campus activities. On the social side, the club held numerous firesides and exchanges.

Gar Wyn

Campus leaders were plentiful in the membership of Gar Wyn this year. John Eskeldson, president, was also IDC vice president. Don West, Barometer staff member, was in Pershing Rifles.

Thane representative, James Husband, was commander of AFROTC color guard and a member of Silver Wings. Tsuyoshi Onuma was also cited for military honors in the Arnold Air Society.

Richard Brown was a member of Tau Beta Pi and John Inman was vice president and program chairman of ASAE. Ray Girod, IDC senator, was a member of IRE, and a delegate to OFCL.

Gar Wyn members on the Waldo Hall Council were Phil Gregg, president, who was also IDC vice president and chairman of the IDC mothers' banquet; Robert Hiyama, secretary, and Harold Kameya, treasurer, also a member of Eta Kappa Nu and the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Robert Kirkpatrick, president

Kaun Eis, sparked by a core of athletic freshmen, made a good showing in independent intramurals this year.

A beach party for members of Kaun Eis and their dates attracted a large turnout. Swimming, playing and food put everyone in good spirits for spring term finals to close out the activities for the year.

Sigel Hagall

Lee Golder, president

Waldo Hall's 4th floor north, alias, Sigel Hagall, came through again this year with a resounding success in their hall dance, "Pillow Talk," put on in conjunction with Gar Wyn. This gala affair was attended well by pajama-clad members and their dates.

Being independent champs in badminton and ranking high in basketball, volleyball and bowling made the year successful from the athletic standpoint.

Numerous exchanges with various women's living groups and the hall dance made the social year outstanding.

Steve Gray of the Rook track team, Ron Boeckler of the Varsity track team, Lyle Evanson of the Rook swimming team, and Ed Corwin of the Rook basketball squad strengthened the hall's athletic potential measurably.

Naud Kaun

Don Mantei, president

Naud Kaun in Weatherford Hall was reopened this fall term for the first time in over a year. The club housed mostly freshmen; however;, there were a few upper-classmen and graduate students.

Although the club was new, they promptly and actively took part in the fellowship of Beaver brotherhood. They participated in intramural football, basketball and wrestling.

Among their other activities, Naud Kaun sponsored Wednesday night dances for Weatherford, Poling and Hawley Halls during fall term and were responsible for dinner music in the cafeteria.

Othil Gar

Fred Koken, president

For the second year Othil Gar won the AIA trophy for the outstanding men's living group in dormitories. In spring sports, Othil Gar placed first in team golf and was runner up in crew and softball. The club also displayed its scholastic ability by placing fourth among independent men's living groups.

One of the most exciting events of fall term was the fireside, which ended with an unexpected fire. On a more cheerful note, four engagements were announced and a painting by Al Parker was unveiled for the club. It was a crest and shield with the Othil Gar symbol.

Besides several members making a trip to the Stanford football game, the men of Othil Gar had a full year of activities to look back on.

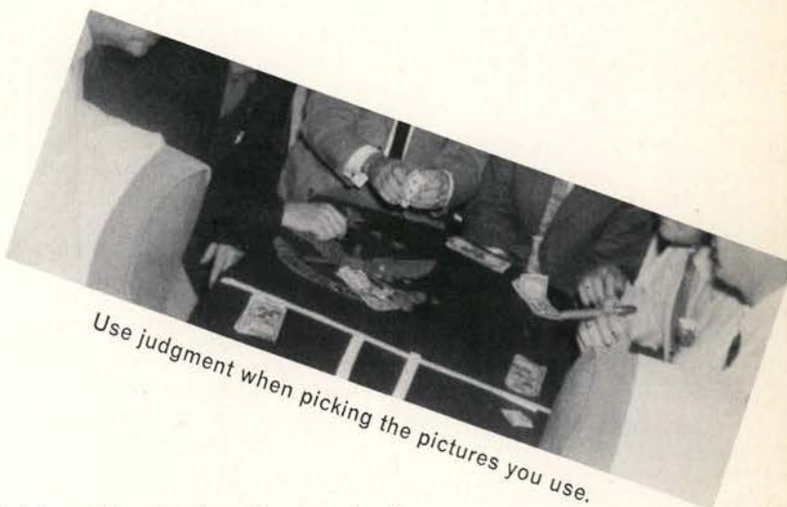
To our staff, our publishers, and our photographers

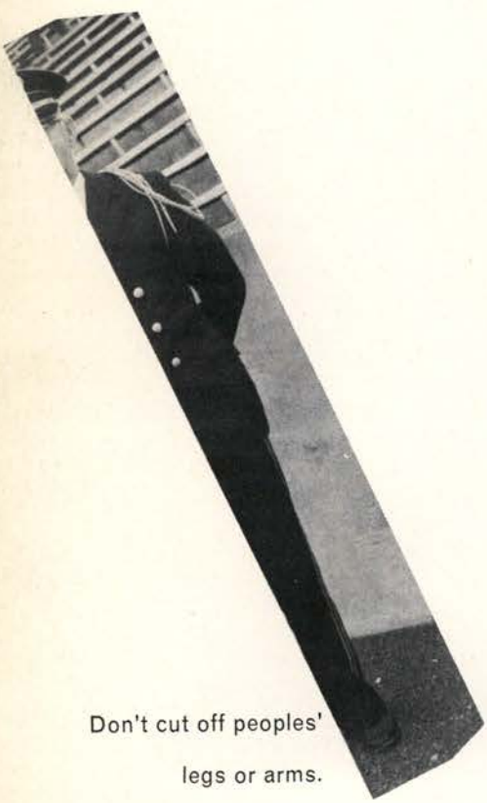
Remember to erase your grease pencil marks and cut off all white edges.

For many reasons, this has been a year we can never forget:
. . . Florence, we hope you don't mind, but we rearranged a couple of pictures.
. . . Joanie, let's go take pictures of outstanding seniors.
. . . Paul, where's the copy for B & T?
. . . Let's go have coffee, you buy!
. . . Seelye, it's so good to see you, where's Steele?
. . . Frank and Vic, do you have some pictures for me?
. . . Susie, we need secretaries.
. . . Has anybody seen my pencil?
. . . Irwin, Don Abbott called today, of course, everything will be in (sometime).
. . . Gwil, will you write an editorial and give us a banner.
. . . Cooksley, the rally boys called.

. . . Diana, let's use activity pictures every year.
. . . How do you expect me to know where it is?
. . . Paul and Ruth Ann, aren't intramurals played off yet?
. . . Al, sure glad to see that copy.
. . . Don, let's check your list again, we can't leave anybody out.
. . . Merilyn, no, we can't possibly give you any more pages.
. . . Marian, Dave, Stan and Bill, you've got to get together and organize your section.



Use judgment when picking the pictures you use.



Don't cut off peoples' legs or arms.

. . . Sandy, would you mind doing this, Jay has it organized, all you have to do is . . .
. . . We'll win the Horned Owl trophy yet, with Cooksley and Gloria around.
. . . John, did you really expect to find someone in the Baro office on Wednesday?
. . . Mike, how many books have we sold now?
. . . Yes, the Beaver will be out on May 15. (gulp)

Gratefully,
Linda, Dave, Ron

Above all, faces are important.
