

Commencement

130TH ANNUAL

OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY

.....

JUNE 13, 1999

Alma Mater

Within a vale of western mountains
There's a college we hold dear
Her shady slopes and fountains
Oft to me appear.
I love to wander on the pathway
Down to the Trysting Tree,
For there again I see in fancy,
Old Friends dear to me.

(Chorus)

Carry me back to OSU,
Back to her vine-clad halls;
Thus fondly ever in my mem'ry
Alma Mater calls

Oregon State Creed

I believe in Oregon State,
Builder of men and women,
Seeker after truth,
Organized for the service of a great commonwealth.

I believe in her traditions,
A heritage from the deeds and dreams
of yesterday;
In her sportsmanship and honor, a reality
with the students of today,
In her aspirations and ideals,
The assurance of a magnificent tomorrow.

I believe in her democracy,
The beauty of her diversity,
And her far-reaching bond of Beaver spirit.
If I degrade myself I degrade her;
As I honor myself I honor her.

I therefore pledge to her, my Alma Mater,
My loyalty, my love, and my devotion.

Processional

Chief Marshal
The President of the University and Guests
The Faculties
The Candidates for Advanced Degrees
The Class of 1999

Seating Arrangement and Color of Tassels

Faculty and Master's Degree Candidates will be seated in the southwest and northwest corners of the coliseum at the balcony level.

Academic Costume

Academic gowns represent a tradition which comes down from the universities of the Middle Ages. At that time they were a common form of dress and were retained by the clergy when the laity adopted more modern styles. The caps, originally round, later became square mortar boards. The hoods attached to the gown were originally cowls which could be slipped over the head for protection from the weather.

The significance of the costume is indicated especially by the sleeves and hoods. The bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves; the master's gown has long, closed sleeves; and the doctor's gown has bell-shaped sleeves and velvet trimmings.

The colored velvet border of the hood indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains, as do the tassel colors. (See Processional, page 2.)

The colorful lining of the hood indicates the institution from which the wearer received his or her degree. The lining of the Harvard University hood, for example, is crimson; Yale, blue; Wisconsin, bright red; California, gold; Washington State, crimson above grey; Oregon, lemon yellow and dark green, Stanford, cardinal; Oregon State, burnt orange.

Your Graduation on Videotape

A videotape program of the 1999 Oregon State University Graduation Ceremony will be available for purchase by graduates, relatives, or friends. The program is professionally produced with narration highlighting the activities of each college. You can capture and retain this important life event by contacting:

Communication Media Center
Oregon State University
109 Kidder Hall
Corvallis, OR 97331
Phone: (541) 737-2121

The cost of the cassette is $30. Please allow three weeks after graduation for delivery.

First Aid

Room 110 at the northwest corner of the main Coliseum floor is staffed by OSU medical personnel. Contact any usher if you need assistance.

Lost and Found

Valuables found during today's Commencement may be delivered to any usher or to the head usher at the northeast corner of the Coliseum main floor. Items not claimed after the ceremonies are completed will be delivered to the OSU Facilities Services Custodial Services Office, 15th and Washington, (541) 737-2163. The office is open 6:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Family and Baby Changing Area

Professional Degrees

THE COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Robert C. Wilson/Dean

Oregon State University offers the degree Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (D.V.M.) to those students who have satisfactorily completed a minimum of three years of preveterinary medical courses and four years of professional veterinary medical training. A portion of the professional training program is procured by OSU through a formal cooperative agreement with Washington State University and the University of Idaho, whereby the students move to Washington State University to receive training. The college also offers the M.S. in Veterinary Science and the Ph.D. in Comparative Veterinary Medicine.

THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

Wayne Kradjan/Dean

Oregon State University offers the degree Doctor of Pharmacy (Pharm.D.) to those students who have satisfactorily completed a Bachelor of Science degree, plus two additional years of study in the post-baccalaureate Pharm.D. program. Applicants to the Doctor of Pharmacy program must have a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy degree from an accredited school or college of pharmacy in the United States or an equivalent degree from an international school with successful completion of the Foreign Graduate Equivalency Examination. This post-baccalaureate Pharm.D. program is a collaborative effort between the Oregon State University College of Pharmacy and the Oregon Health Sciences University School of Medicine. The degree is jointly conferred by these two institutions.

Distinguished Service Award

Donald M. Kerr

Donald M. Kerr is the founder and president emeritus of The High Desert Museum in Bend. Under his leadership, the museum has grown into a leading educational and economic force in the region.

It has been called “many museums in one,” including a wildlife sanctuary, a historical museum and an art gallery. With its focus on the cultural and natural history of the Intermountain West—an area encompassing eight western states and British Columbia—The High Desert Museum has helped promote understanding of the region and its natural resources.

A 1969 graduate of Oregon State, Kerr earned bachelor’s degrees in journalism and biology, then pursued graduate interdisciplinary studies at OSU while working as an instructor at the Washington Park Zoo (now Oregon Zoo) in Portland.

He became chief biologist for the Oregon chapter of The Nature Conservancy, where he formed his vision for a non-profit educational endeavor in central Oregon. In 1974, after securing seed money from individuals and corporations, Kerr founded the Western Natural History Institute in Bend, which grew into The High Desert Museum.

Despite skeptics who said that such an enterprise could never succeed in central Oregon, Don Kerr was not deterred. His OSU journalism professors noted his dogged determination and vision while he was still an undergraduate student—and those traits would carry his dream to fruition.

Said Professor Gwil Evans: “Don Kerr set himself apart from other students in class by his desire to succeed. Unlike so many of these young men and women who were just beginning to discover opportunities before them, Don displayed both passion and commitment to a vision that belied not only his age, but the age. For Don, the Oregon high desert had become a classroom, a place where the dependency of one species on another could be observed and understood, where the cycles of life displayed themselves in depth, dimension and diversity.”

Kerr served as president and director of The High Desert Museum until 1995. He was responsible for the museum’s philosophical direction, financial strategy, and growth. In addition to his duties with the museum, Kerr served on the State Parks and Recreation Commission from 1992-95, and was on the board of directors for both the Mid-Oregon Indian Historical Society and the 2010 Committee of the Oregon Department of Transportation.

OSU President Paul Risser said in announcing the award that Kerr deserves credit for building “one of the region’s premier educational institutions. Don Kerr’s leadership and vision have created a place where people of all ages can explore the interrelationships between humans and nature, and their impacts on the world around us. The Distinguished Service Award is a small measure of the pride we share in his work.”

Paul G. Hawken

Paul Hawken has created a growing revolution in the corporate world—a movement that combines successful, dynamic business practices with environmental awareness and responsibility. His book, “The Ecology of Commerce,” was a national best-seller that was translated into more than a dozen languages.

His 17-part PBS television series, “Growing a Business,” illustrated how a growing number of companies are thriving while being good citizens, including LL Bean, Ben & Jerry’s Homemade Ice Cream, Esprit, and others.

In 1994, Hawken founded the U.S. version of The Natural Step, an organization created to share frameworks of understanding about sustainable development. The group’s teachings focus on the scientific principles and comprehensive understanding of the requirements for life on Earth, and how individuals, companies and organizations can maintain and enhance those requirements.

Two years later, he was named chairman of The Natural Step International, which has organizations in nine countries. The organization has trained more than 120 major corporations, including McDonald’s of Sweden, Siemens, and IKEA, the world’s largest furniture company.

His own business background has similar themes of environmental friendliness. In 1966, at the age of 20, Hawken created Erewhon Trading Company, the first natural foods company in the United States. Erewhon introduced many foods which have become staple items today, including whole grain breads and pastas, organic fruits and vegetables, and soy products.

In 1979, Hawken struck again. He was founder, chairman of the board and CEO of Smith & Hawken, a $75 million catalog and retail company specializing in garden and horticultural products. The company not only is successful financially, it has been cited as being one of the most environmentally innovative companies in the U.S.

His activism has not been restricted to the corporate world. In 1965, Hawken served as a volunteer on the staff of Martin Luther King, Jr., in Selma, Alabama, and was press coordinator for the March on Montgomery.

It should come as no surprise that Paul Hawken has been named as one of the “100 Visionaries Who Could Change Our Lives.” What may be something of a surprise—he never graduated from college, though he attended San Francisco State for one year.

Honorary Doctorates

Admiral James D. Watkins

Admiral James D. Watkins has been a successful military leader, public servant, educator and advocate for research during his long, illustrious career, that also has been noteworthy for his efforts to enhance the lives of people in many different arenas.

While in the U.S. Navy, Watkins became a four-star admiral and reached the Navy's highest position—Chief of Naval Operations. His naval career spanned four decades, took him around the world, and earned him numerous awards. It also turned him into something of an activist. As Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Watkins spoke out against the decline of the American educational system, the growth of international terrorism and other issues.

He soon became involved in another cause: AIDS. In 1987, Watkins was appointed chairman of the Presidential Commission on the Human Immunodeficiency Virus Epidemic, and submitted the commission's final report, which led to the establishment of a more-enlightened federal AIDS policy.

In 1989, President Bush appointed Watkins as the sixth Secretary of Energy. During his four-year tenure, he led the development of the first comprehensive National Energy Strategy, implemented policies based on conservation and renewable energy sources, restructured the Department of Energy to emphasize environmental protection, safety and health, and spearheaded a move to fund a five-fold increase in appropriations for environmental cleanup.

He also helped refocus national laboratories in the United States after the Cold War, placing the focus on improving U.S. economic competitiveness.

Most recently, Watkins has been an advocate for research and education in the marine sciences. He is president of both the Joint Oceanographic Institutions, Inc., an organization of the 10 leading oceanographic institutions in the world, and the Consortium of Oceanographic Research and Education, Inc., a historic partnership of public and private organizations united to advance knowledge and learning in ocean sciences.

Admiral James D. Watkins is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and has a master's degree in mechanical engineering. He has been decorated by several nations in Europe, Asia, North America, and South America.

Anne H. and Paul R. Ehrlich

Anne and Paul Ehrlich have been called the nation's "first couple" of environmental research and advocacy. They were honored last year with the 25th annual Tyler Prize for environmental achievement for their significant scientific contributions—collectively and individually—on population biology, ecology, and evolution.

In receiving the prestigious international award, they also were noted for raising public awareness about the environment, and helping to shape public opinion on resource declines.

Anne Ehrlich is the associate director of the Center for Conservation Biology at Stanford University. Paul Ehrlich is the Bing Professor of Population Studies and a professor of biological sciences at Stanford. They have worked together since the 1950s, beginning their scientific collaboration through research on butterflies as a test system for answering key questions about biological classification, ecology, and evolution.

Together they have produced an enormous body of important work and taken public stands on diverse issues critical to the quality of human life, including the preservation of biodiversity and endangered species, the hazards of chemical pollution, the search for racial justice, and the horrible dangers of nuclear winter.

Paul Ehrlich's 1968 book, "The Population Bomb," was labeled a wake-up call for an entire generation on the issue of overpopulation.

The Ehrlichs have written more than 30 other books, among them, "Ecoscience: Population, Resources, Environment" in 1977, which has been called a template for environmental education. More recently, they have been publishing a series of newsletters using science to debunk myths about humans' relationships with the environment.

Anne and Paul Ehrlich are scientists who have taken a lead role in communicating to the public the implications of scientific research. At their own personal risk, they have taken their findings into the public realm to influence other scientists, policymakers, and public opinion about the dangers of overpopulation and environmental degradation.

In short, they were among the first scientists to effectively communicate to the public how to solve our growing environmental problems.

Graduation with Academic Distinction

Graduation with Academic Distinction is conferred by the Faculty Senate on those candidates for the baccalaureate degree who have maintained high scholastic standing in their respective colleges and who have been in attendance at Oregon State University for at least two regular academic years. The designation Cum Laude is conferred upon students graduating with a cumulative GPA of 3.50 to 3.69; the designation Magna Cum Laude is conferred upon students with a GPA of 3.70 to 3.84; and the designation Summa Cum Laude is conferred upon those students with a GPA of 3.85 or better.

Those who are graduating Cum Laude are wearing orange honor cords; students graduating Magna Cum Laude are wearing gold honor cords; and those students who are graduating Summa Cum Laude are wearing white honor cords.

LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

The undergraduate curricula in the liberal arts and sciences at Oregon State University are offered through the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Science.

Candidates receive their diplomas from their deans in the order listed below.

College of Liberal Arts

Kay F. Schaffer/Dean

The College of Liberal Arts offers departmental majors in American studies, anthropology, art, economics, English, ethnic studies, foreign languages and literatures (French, German and Spanish), history, music, philosophy, political science, psychology, sociology and speech communication and a major program in liberal studies. Certificate programs are available in applied ethics, Latin American affairs, peace studies, Russian studies, scientific and technical communication, twentieth-century studies, and women studies. The College of Liberal Arts also offers many courses in the arts, humanities, and social sciences which are of value to all students and are basic to a liberal education.

College of Science

F.H. Horne/Dean

The College of Science offers majors in the biological, earth, mathematical, and physical sciences for students who desire a career in science, a liberal education, or preparation for advanced study in science. Undergraduate students can major in biochemistry and biophysics, biology, botany and plant pathology, chemistry, entomology, environmental sciences, geosciences, mathematical sciences, mathematics, microbiology, physics, and zoology. Advanced degrees are offered in all the above disciplines and in general science, molecular and cellular biology, science and mathematics education, and statistics. Special programs include genetics and science. The College of Science provides preprofessional preparation for students wishing to enter dentistry, dental hygiene, medicine, medical-technology, nursing, occupational therapy, optometry, osteopathy, physical therapy, physician assistant, podiatry, radiation therapy, and veterinary medicine. The college also offers a certificate program in science, technology, and society.

PROFESSIONAL COLLEGES

The undergraduate professional curricula at Oregon State University are offered through the Colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Business, Engineering, Forestry, Health and Human Performance, Home Economics and Education, and Pharmacy. The College of Oceanic and Atmospheric Sciences and the College of Veterinary Medicine offer graduate degrees only.

College of Agricultural Sciences

Thayne R. Dutson/Dean

The diverse professional and occupational areas in agriculture include production, processing, and marketing of food and fiber; outdoor recreation; and efficient utilization of human and natural resources. The main instructional fields within the college are agricultural and resource economics, animal sciences, bioresource engineering, environmental and molecular toxicology, bioresource research, crop and soil science, fisheries science, food science and technology, general agriculture, horticulture, international agricultural development, rangeland resources, and wildlife science. Extension education is an additional area of instruction, and the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Oregon State University Extension Service are closely connected with the college and its programs.

College of Forestry

George W. Brown/Dean

Forestry and natural resource professionals protect and manage forests and other natural resources to meet various public values and to provide the goods and services people need. Foresters are involved in management for water, wood, recreation, wildlife, fish, forage, and many other outputs as well as in sustainability of ecological processes, wilderness, and human communities. The college offers undergraduate curricula in forest engineering, forest management, forest products, forest recreation resources, and natural resources. The college also offers graduate degrees in many facets of forestry, natural resources, and wood products.

HONORS BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

Jill Michelle Moore, Corvallis

College of Pharmacy

Wayne Kradjan/Dean

The curriculum for the College of Pharmacy consists of two years of prepharmacy courses taken during the freshman and sophomore years, followed by three years of professional pharmacy courses; a total of five years required to complete formal pharmacy education. Major options include pharmaceutical chemistry, pharmaceutical science, and pharmacology and toxicology. A student may concentrate in such areas as general pharmacy practice, clinical pharmacy, administrative pharmacy, or industrial pharmacy, or may prepare for graduate study.

Fellowships and Scholarships

Making a Difference: Contributions to Scholarships & Fellowships

Because a college degree can pave the way for future success, one of OSU's main goals is to help the greatest number of students attend OSU and see their way through to their degree.

How does OSU accomplish this goal? One of the primary ways is through scholarships and fellowships. This type of funding support attracts the very best students and helps them get the most from their education (reducing the need for a part-time job). At the same time, it also minimizes student debt. Because these awards attract high-caliber students who expect to be challenged intellectually, the entire OSU community benefits from their presence.

OSU offers hundreds of scholarships and fellowships, both campus-wide and within individual academic programs—most of which are funded through gifts to the OSU Foundation.* With these awards, the University can offset economic limitations that might otherwise prevent excellent students from attending OSU. In addition, they allow the University to give deserved recognition to accomplished and/or promising undergraduates and advanced degree candidates.

Thanks in part to increased contributions toward scholarships and fellowships, enrollment has reached its highest level since 1991, and OSU continues to draw new students with the highest grade point average of any public institution in the state.

Contributions can go to OSU's general scholarship fund or to specific scholarship or fellowship programs—according to the contributor's wishes. Many donors make gifts in honor or memory of another person, or to commemorate an event (an anniversary, the birth of a grandchild, etc.)

Won't you join the thousands of people who have helped make a personal difference via their gifts to OSU scholarships and fellowships?

* The OSU Foundation is the non-profit organization which accepts charitable contributions on behalf of Oregon State University. The Foundation accepts outright gifts of cash, securities, and real and personal property, as well as deferred gifts such as bequest, life insurance, and life income agreements.

Total revenues, gains, and other support for the OSU Foundation in the 1998 fiscal year was $82.2 million.
