UNION MEMORIAL BUILDING RESOLUTION

Approved on June 2, 1923.

WHEREAS, Your committee on the subject of an O. A. C. Union Memorial Building has found that such a building is needed to provide a suitable center for student and alumni activities—a headquarters for their administrative work, also a meeting place of faculty and friends of the institution as well as students and alumni, all to the end of strengthening ties of friendship and supplementing college instruction in developing high ideals of college spirit, citizenship, and private life; and

WHEREAS, It is altogether fitting that a lasting memorial be erected to the honor and memory of the students and alumni who gave their lives in the service of their country during the Spanish-American and World Wars; and

WHEREAS, The O. A. C. Alumni Association has been formally invited to participate in this worthy undertaking by the O. A. C. Student Assembly, whose members, to the last man and woman, have shown their good faith in it by taking the initiative, and, with the sanction of the College Administration and the Board of Regents, not only raising to date the sum of $45,000, but continuing to make further contributions, although they realize that the building cannot be completed until many of them, at least, are alumni; now, therefore, in view of these significant facts, be it

RESOLVED, That this Alumni Association officially accept the invitation of the Student Assembly and participate in raising funds to assist in the construction of this building, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a central committee of seven alumni be appointed by the Alumni Board of Directors to fully represent us in cooperating with the students and Regents in providing the funds and plans necessary to construct this building.

"Best Reunion We've Ever Had," Says Everyone

The Silver Jubilee class started off the fireworks with 26 at its luncheon Friday noon in the tea room, followed by a class picture over by the Administration building, then the big general meeting that night in the old Chapel.

An address of welcome by President Kerr and a reply by Charles F. McKnight with comments and talks and much visiting by all the old time alumni and teachers returned made of the occasion a memory to be cherished long. Charley McKnight hit the keynote when in his talk he said: "There is a spirit that lies buried deep that causes one always to return home. Outside of my own home this is the only place that I ever want to call home. Four years here made this my home."

But of the sayings and carryings-on of the Silver Jubilee reunion, more later, for Dr. W. J. Gilstrap, manager, is having the entire proceedings and all other information about the 1898 class compiled and printed in a booklet, "The Twenty-five Year History of the Class of 1898."

Saturday, Alumni Day, proper, proved ideal except for a tiny rain shower in the afternoon. The brown, military tents were set up in an attractive semi-circle on either side of the center campus walk on the east side of the Administration building. Groups of classes met at each tent, save one, the headquarters, where the matter of paying dues and giving information, attracted the entire alumni body. True, there was a special tent for the student orchestra which so generously entertained the crowds during the luncheon hour.

At 10:30 the Association transacted business in its annual meeting (details of which are given elsewhere in the magazine) while the Senior class presided at an open air convocation under the Old Trysting Tree. At this convocation, the class memorial, a huge bronze tablet on which were inscribed the names of the O. A. C. World War heroes was presented. This tablet will be placed, eventually, in the Union Memorial Building, which fact made it all the more fitting that the Association business meeting adjourned in time for announcement to be made that the alumni had unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed the resolution to enter the campaign for the Union Memorial Building. President Kerr made the announcement, expressing the hope that the building might be started in 1925 and dedicated in 1926, which, incidentally, under the Dix plan of reunions, happens to be the first reunion year for the 1923 class.

The picnic luncheon, served at 12:30 o'clock, was a jolly informal affair which gave the guests of honor, the seniors, an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the older alumni. There followed the annual contest in baseball between the faculty and alumni in the afternoon, although the members of the class of 1918 and 1919 used the time as an opportunity to dig up their class hatchets and class records and engage in a few reminiscences.

The alumni reception and banquet began the program for the evening (told about elsewhere in the magazine) and were followed by the alumni dance in honor of the Class of 1923, given by the Benton County O. A. C. Club. At the dance the Class of 1923, in caps and gowns, were presented by Dean A. B. Cordley to the Association, and Sinclair A. Wilson, the retiring president, made the acceptance speech. Mary Helen Reider, president of the class responded. The dance lasted until the morning.

Sunday and Monday were beautiful with sunshine and flowers and the joyous atmosphere of friendship. Rev. Thomas Jefferson Villers, pastor of White Temple (First Baptist church) of Portland delivered the baccalaureate sermon "Christ's Call to Youth," and Rufus Bernard von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, was the speaker at the commencement exercises.

Degrees conferred numbered 532 this year and included seven master's and two honorary degrees. The honorary degree doctor of laws was conferred upon James K. Weatherford, '72, who as president of the O. A. C. Board of Regents, this year was permitted to award the degree of bachelor of science in home economics upon his granddaughter, Annette Weatherford. The honorary degree of doctor of science was awarded Clara H. Waldo, former regent of the college.

There were partings, of course, but all accompanied by the reminder, "I'll see you again next year."

The alumni have caught the spirit!

Many Regrets Are Received

"Although I should like very much to attend, it will be utterly impossible for me to be present," writes A. L. Knisely who is with the Northwest Testing Laboratories, 114 Marion street, Seattle, Washington.

"I want to thank you for the invitation to attend this function, and only regret that it is next to impossible for me to be present. My present work is such that I have to prepare the monthly report during the first few days of each month, which prevents my being away from the office during part of each month.

"I wish you a grand time, and regret my inability to be present," says a letter from F. L. Kent who is with the division of crop and livestock estimates, 204 Custom House, Portland, Oregon.

"Your very kind letter requesting my presence at the Silver Jubilee of the 1898 Class, reached me last evening, too late for consideration. I cannot tell you how much I regret this, knowing the pleasure it would have given me to meet once more the teachers, students and friends of those days. Accept most sincere thanks for thus remembering me and please extend the same to my dear friend, Mrs. Callahan," is the word from Ellen Chamberlain. It is a regrettable fact that we did not learn Miss Chamberlain's address sooner. It is 2736 62nd street, Southeast, Portland.

"Please accept my thanks for the very courteous invitation to be present at the meeting of the alumni in June.

ried on brilliantly and successfully by others more competent.

"It would be a red letter day for me to meet those with whom I was associated so long, and all other alumni of the college, but—I fear I am too old for the trip—85 and going on a 100!

"Please convey my kindest regards to all the alumni, both present and absent.

MUCH BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT BIG ANNUAL MEETING

That the atmosphere and spirit of the annual business meeting on June 2 was very, very fine, highly desirable and much appreciated, is the sentiment expressed by more than one of the hundred or so present. The membership present was representative including 100 per cent membership of the '71 class and others on down to the class of 1922.

President S. A. Wilson presided, opening the meeting with a remark to the effect that "we are all sincere and we are all desirous of one thing—that our college may always stand on a finer plane at all times," no matter what our varying opinions on any particular item may be.

Report of Year's Work of Association

The report of the general secretary contained the following facts:

That the Alumnus which has been issued regularly for the past two years is rated in class "A" of alumni magazines.

That the Alumni Directory, called the September issue of the Alumnus, was the first printed since 1917, contains 3567 names listed alphabetically and geographically.

That the office directory cards for graduates and ex-students have been very materially brought up-to-date through the aid of personal conversations and letters, newspaper clippings and departmental co-operation.

That the Association has now a total of 27 O. A. C. Clubs, 16 in Oregon, 4 in California, and one each in Colorado, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, New York, Montana, and Washington.

That the alumni office and clubs have cooperated generally and effectively with the Greater O. A. C. Committee in its vacation plans and college activities, with the O. A. C. commencement speakers in high schools, and with the faculty activities where possible.

That last year 12 Life Memberships in full of $40; 107 Life Membership payments of $5; and 552 annual dues of $2.50 were paid into the Association, totaling $2395.

That the Trust Fund adopted by the Association last June now contains $1900 the principal of which is inviolable.

That the alumni office is in receipt of a gift of a mimeograph machine presented by Thomas Bilyeu, '02, as well as a $50 bond from Harry Holgate, '86.

Student Loan Fund and Legislature

Student loan fund facts and figures were presented by Registrar E. B. Lemon, '11, who stressed the fact that there is no better way to secure 100 per cent return on an investment than through student loans.

Claude Buchanan, '03, emphasized the fact that it is a business proposition to send alumni down to the legislature. "It is a loyal thing for the institution to do—sending intelligent men to the state's service."

Handsome Register is Gift of '98ers

It was at this point that Dr. Gilstrap, in behalf of the Silver Jubilee class presented the Association with a beautiful, leather bound, loose leaf, register, in which, it was hoped, "that all alumni of the institution will write their names, addresses, and suitable history of themselves every time they revisit the college, thus making the register a center of attraction in days to come."

S. B. Hall, '09, discussed the "employment service" idea, his chief thought being that there were opportunities here for developing a central employment service which could cover a very wide territory.

The chairman of the Union Building committee, Carle Abrams, '00, made his report at this time and presented the resolution to enter into the project. This resolution and the resulting discussion is given elsewhere. Suffice it to say that the resolution was adopted enthusiastically and unanimously.

Jay Reynolds, '10, gave a report on his work with the Board of Control which administers student finances and formulates policies. He urged alumni to communicate with him the important ideas and suggestions which they have to give.

"Doug" McKay Elected to Board

Nominations were opened for the new member of the Board of Directors. The name of Douglas McKay, '17, was immediately presented and enthusiastically endorsed, following which the nominations were closed and the secretary instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for Mr. McKay.

The meeting adjourned with a rising vote to the Benton County O. A. C. Club for all the things which it had done to make the reunion time so delightful and enjoyable.

Dr. Emory Comes From California

Dear, old Dr. Joseph Emory who taught at the college from 1868 to 1885—eighteen years!—came all the way from Hollister, California, to be present for the commencement activities. He is 91 years old but with undiminished enthusiasm for O. A. C. His delight in meeting old friends was a joy to see. He attended the general meeting on Friday night and the banquet Saturday evening. At the senior presentation he delivered a well-planned, inspirational address to the Class of 1923, and seated on the speakers platform during the graduation exercises on Monday morning, took J. K. Weatherford's hand in congratulation and commendation as the degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him.

The old home ties are strong within us! May they never be lessened but ever increase in the years to come!

Memorial Building Campaign Entered By Alumni

The resolution concerning the Union Memorial Building (printed inside the cover) was introduced by Carle Abrams, '00, at the annual business meeting with these remarks:

"As stated by your president this matter of the Union Memorial Building has been under consideration for a considerable length of time, in fact very much longer than the 15 months in which this committee has been in existence (meaning the committee of Roy Clarke, C. L. Johnson and himself, appointed by the Board in March, 1922). There has been such a need felt by me for something like 23 years. I think some of you may have felt that need much longer. Now with the advent of the World War and the remarkable place that this college took in that war an additional need arose for a college memorial. And one of the modern evolutions of colleges has been to recognize the need for a Union building on the campus. These three needs seem to have come to a head here in the proposal for a Union Memorial Building."

Students Assess Selves

Earl Price, '22 ,who was in college when the student proposal materialized, explained how the students so wanted this Union and this Memorial that they by unanimous vote petitioned the president and the board of regents to be allowed to assess themselves $3 a term for a fund that would be used to construct such a building. The petition was granted and the first assessment received in January, 1922. The fund now totals approximately $45,000 and is invested in government certificates bearing 4¾ per cent interest.

"Mr. President," said Jack Grafton, '20, "the alumni have taken no part up to this time. We all feel very deeply indebted to the graduates of this institution who gave their lives in the World War. We wish to do something to show our gratitude to those men. As to the need for such a building, many of us who have come back for reunions or for Homecoming or Junior Week-end realize the need. We alumni, while we have worked for our college and appreciate all we got here, appreciate the fact that our earning capacity has been increased, we haven't in return done anything in a big way, a prominent way, a lasting way, to show our appreciation for our institution."

Home for Students and Alumni

And Sam Dolan, '08, touched the keynote when he said "We need a home, a place where we are brought close together and welded into one great family; where visiting teams and friends may be entertained as a unit and made to realize more fully the great Beaver Spirit."

Upon the suggestion of A. J. Stimpson, '98, the resolution was amended to include the clause honoring the alumni of the Spanish-American War.

Upon the conclusion of Charles F. McKnight's earnest plea to "take care of the memorials while the people are living and get back of the campaign 100 per cent," the question was called for so loudly that the resolution was passed almost before the vote was put.

Union Building Committee Named

Assembled in meeting a week later, the Board of Directors selected the central committee of seven alumni with whom the Board will work as ex-officio members. The alumni appointed are:

Roy R. Clark, '09, Portland
Carle Abrams, '00, Salem
C. L. Johnson, '92, Corvallis
S. A. Wilson, '10, Linnton
Emil Seibert, '20, Corvallis
Zelta Feike, '18, Corvallis
Charles Reynolds, '13, La Grande

This committee was appointed with instructions to proceed to develop the Union Memorial organization —this central organization to include student representation, regent representation and alumni representation—this central organization to formulate plans for campaign to raise money, consider building plans, supervise construction and outline operation and use of building.

Student-Alumni-Regent Committee Proposed

The above named committee and the Board of Directors met in Portland on June 15 and took steps toward perfecting a central building committee. A letter was sent to the members of the student body who are members of the building committee, appraising them of the fact that the alumni have decided to participate in the building and that the committee approved by the alumni is ready to meet with the student committee appointed to work out plans of organization. The date of the joint student-alumni-regent meeting was set for July 14, at Salem.

A similar letter was sent to the board of regents.

Sub-committees were named at the Portland meeting to report at the July meeting on matters of incorporation, definite information on what other schools have done in similar campaigns, suggested and probable uses of the Union Memorial building at O. A. C., and a possible plan for campaign.

HALL TO HEAD ASSOCIATION BOARD TRANSACTS BUSINESS

S. B. Hall, '09, of Troutdale, Oregon, was elected president of the Association at the meeting of the Board of Directors on Alumni Day. S. L. Burnaugh, '03, Corvallis, was chosen vice-president, and Claude Buchanan, '03, Corvallis, made treasurer.

An auditing committee composed of C. M. Howard, '21, Mrs. C. T. McDevitt, '01, and Wallace Kadderly, '16, was named at a Board meeting held a week later.

Employment Committee Named

Floyd Rowland, '07, was named chairman of a committee to gather and compile information on employment bureaus of other institutions, acquaint itself with employment activities and plans already being carried on at O. A. C., then formulate a plan for a central employment bureau and report same to the Board of Directors at an early date. The other members of that committee are Orville Reeves, '14, and Ruth Kennedy, '20.

Jay Reynolds, '10, was unanimously reappointed as alumni representative on the Board of Control of the student body.

The alumni committee on the Union Memorial Building was also appointed by the Board at this meeting. Detail of this appointment may be found above in this column.

PRESIDENT'S BANQUET IS BIG EVENT OF ALUMNI DAY

One can well imagine the enthusiasm with which the crowded banquet room of some 300 alumni greeted President Kerr's announcement that he and Mrs. Kerr wish to make this reception and banquet on the reunion program their annual compliment to the alumni. Coming as it did at the close of a bounteous meal in an atmosphere charged with good fellowship and much speechmaking—well, it was just right.

President Kerr with his usual able and gracious manner presided, opening the after dinner speeches with a few remarks on the college progress, needs and standards, and complimenting the alumni on the step which they have taken to lend their support to the Union Memorial Building.

"Service Counts Most"

Regent T. H. Crawford, '74, responding, said: "If you do not get in service more than you get in capital there is nothing left in life. There is no institution in the United States that compares with O. A. C. at the present time and to our president, Mr. Kerr, we owe the success of this institution as well as to our grand old professor, Dr. Emory, now with us. The alumni will help in the future in every way they can."

Wilson Heartily Thanked

A resolution honoring the late Sheriff Dunlap was introduced by Sinclair Wilson, '10, during his toast in which he likened the alumnus without an alma mater to "The Man Without a Country." A rising vote of thanks for his faithful and efficient five years of service was accorded Mr. Wilson upon motion of Orville Reeves, '14.

"President Kerr has always given a square deal to the women," said Mrs. Callahan. "I appeal to the girls present to get ready for the legislature. You can count on the women of Oregon to stand for all things that will help to make the new Memorial Union Building a success. I assure you that you can count on the women of O. A. C."

Organized Alumni Needed

This very succinct thought was dropped by E. E. Wilson, '89, when he spoke: "More times than you would think it occurs that the president of the institution requires the services of someone in another part of the state. Can't you see of what immense value would be a well organized alumni association in every part of the state to whom the president might turn on these occasions for assistance and find it in that well organized body."

Impromptu remarks from Mrs. Hulda Holden-Guild of Portland, Robert Reichart of New York, Judge Wm. E. Yates of Vancauver, and others were cut short by the lateness of the hour. The ball at the gymnasium called.

Toast to Prexy

"Here's to President Kerr, may his reign over O. A. C. continue for many, many years and may he have the united support of faculty, students and alumni in this remarkable work of building up America's greatest college of science," is the toast given by Carle Abrams, '00, and heartily responded to by the banqueters.

It isn't the perfect that is beautiful, but the promise of the perfect; the rosebud is more beautiful than the full-blown rose.

"O. A. C. is one of the four colleges and universities among 50 of the leading institutions of the country whose fraternity average of scholarship is higher than the student body average," is the statement of H. W. Congdon, general secretary of Delta Upsilon.

O. A. C. was the first institution in the world to instruct young men in the utilization of horticultural by-products and to conduct research into the problems of the canning industry.

SPORT CHATTER

By Wallace Kadderly, '16

The year is done.

Results of official conference competition may be found in another column. The record is creditable and speaks for itself. Can it be said that, taking all sports into consideration, it has been an unsuccessful year? We think not.

Did we hold our own with the University of Oregon? We did. All the more reason to dig in and keep up the good work. It does not behoove us to glory in our record and let the future take care of itself. There will be need for cooperation all the way along the line if the record for the coming year is to be as creditable as that of the year just finished. Think it over.

It was a great junior week-end down at Eugene this summer—for the Aggies. Two baseball games, the dual track meet and the dual tennis meet. That was the record of Aggie victories. It was a clean sweep.

The baseball team, after a slow start, made a good record. When the pitchers were going right the Aggies were hard to beat. Woodward and Young looked mighty good along toward the end of the season. Both are expected back next year.

Ridings led the regulars in stickwork with an average of .431. Perry was runner-up with .356; Rippey, .339; Noonan, .333; Tasto, .268; Duffy, .245; McKenna, 212. Other marks were: Sullivan, .333; Woodward, .249; Parkinson, .250; Holmquist, .193; Street, .100; Young, 111.

Rippey, Sullivan, Parkinson and McKenna finished the season with perfect fielding averages. Ridings fielded .888; Perry, 987; Noonan, .875; Woodward, .900; Tasto, .875; Duffy, 987; Holmquist, .800; Young, .846; Street, .750.

Better than the average college baseball team with the exception of the pitching staff—thus may this year's Aggie varsity nine be described. The ineligibility of Newbill hit "Coley" a hard wallop. Street, Young, Woodward and Mendenhall have carried the pitching burden with varying success.

The Aggie cinder artists took third place in the annual coast conference track meet at Pullman on June 2. University of California gathered in first honors with a score of 43½. University of Washington was close up with 40 points. "Dad" Butler's boys took 28½ points. University of Oregon was fourth with 24. University of Montana, Washington State college and University of Idaho finished in the order named.

Failure of the quarter milers to place, the inability of Dodge to finish the half mile, failure of Osburn to take points in the pole vault, and losing the relay were upsets that cost the Aggies points that had been figured on.

Simms won the half mile; Walker the mile and two mile. Gerhart took a second in the 220 yard hurdles and third in the high sticks. Bennet tied for second in the high jump. The relay team finished second to the University of Oregon quartet. Dodge took second in the mile but become sick when about three fourths the way through the half mile and was forced to drop our of that race.

A six day rain had made a near lake out of the track and past records never were endangered.

Candidates for next season's football team are "rarin' " to go. Prospects look pretty fair for a good team but the proof of the football pudding will be in the eating. If determination and willingness to work are worth anything, however, the 1923 Aggie eleven must be reckoned with. It may not win a championship but should give 'em all a run for their money. Most of the men have been working out this spring and some likely looking new material has come to light. More anon.

Scylla and Charybdis

At a Time—

When some college presidents affirm that too many men are going to college and others say that more opportunities for higher education should be granted to American youths—

When it is affirmed that democracy does not exist in this country and Abraham Lincoln is cited as an example of the rule of intelligensia and an aristocracy of brains—

When the body politic looks to college-bred men for leadership in matters of government, national and international, and professors are divided as to whether labor ought to be put into its place or capital be brought to its knees—

When administration is interpreted by some as the presentation of one motive to one person and a second motive to another, in order to secure the favor of each for a common cause, and executives have failed to enforce regulations in order to make life more pleasant and incidently to keep publicity beneficial—

When educators say that few young men know why they are in college, and students complain of a lack of time to complete assignments—

When the custodianship of the direction of intercollegiate athletics wavers between the extremes of undergraduate and faculty control, and athletic alumni are blamed for the major part of the evils of intercollegiate athletics—

When the system of scouting, universally condemned in its infancy as a child of victory at any cost, even that of offending one's chief rival, is now acklowledged as desirable and the intelligence departments of college athletics are officially sanctioned—

When some affirm that the contributions an alumnus should make are money and silence, and that alumni as an organized element of our system of higher education are a nuisance, while others claim that alumni support of our colleges has been not only progressive but intelligent—

When some educators believe that colleges should give more attention to ethical education, and young men and young women are rebelling against the direction of their morals by those outside of the ancestral roof—

When the study of psychology is employed by some to do others rather than to do more work, and the spirit of the "dog eat dog" policies of business has pervaded academic and representative circles, and men work to further their own interests rather than those of their constitunecy—

When propaganda and politics supplant truth and statesmanship, and secret and hurried negotiations bring discord, and open or legal covenants are relegated to the waste basket—

At such times, while we are waiting the lifting of this intellectual fog and the appearance of the pilot, may we not keep our thoughts clear, our passions calm, our tolerance broad, our sympathy with others' viewpoints warm, our sense of fair play undulled? May we not have continued faith in our democracy and in measure do as our great patriot, Roosevelt, advised—face facts, go over or through difficulties, not around, and attempt to make our average abilities do more than average work?

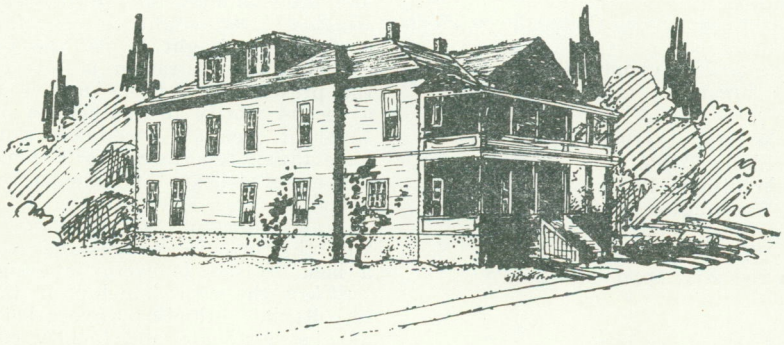
The Wesleyan University Alumnus.

"Cheerfulness is a duty we owe to others. Men never break down as long as they can keep cheerful. It is a great moral tonic."

Mansion Has Remarkable Half Century History

(By Chester Rehfield, '25)

Through the snows, rains, winds, and sunshine of 51 years, the house now occupied by Theta Nu Phi fraternity and standing at Eleventh and Jefferson streets, recently known as Heilig Hall, has served as an English mansion, club and fraternity house, and a meeting place for the early literary societies on the campus. Within its walls have passed almost every tragedy and joy known to man. What stories it could tell of austere English servants and aristocratic Englishmen! What class fights it has seen and what secrets have been heard by its silent walls!



In 1862 J. C. Clark, at that time one of the wealthiest men in Oregon, built the house on the ground where stately Waldo hall now stands. At that time it was said to have been one of the finest mansions in the state.

A few years later it was sold to Wallis Nash, one of the first regents of the college and an author of several books. Two of his children that graduated from the institution, Percival and Rodney, were famous football stars in their time.

William M. Hoag and T. E. Hogg, full blooded brothers, who spelled their names differently, were the next owners of the house. These men were aristocratic Englishmen and delighted in the pomp and formality of numerous servants. They had large stables and kept the finest of thoroughbred horses. Stories are told by old-timers of Corvallis about workmen on the Corvallis & Eastern railroad shooting the windows out of the house when the Hoag and Hogg brothers did not pay them promptly for their labor.

A few years later the two brothers lost their fortunes and were forced to move from their mansion. The house was then used for a club house, after being vacated for several years, in 1899 by a girl's club, called Sororis. Twenty girls formed the membership of the group.

From 1901 to 1902 the house served as a class room for music students and all literary societies held their meeting there. At that time there were eight societies on the campus.

The building was sold in 1902 and moved to its present location. Here it was remodeled and called Heilig hall and since then has been utilized as a club and fraternity house.

FORENSIC SIDELIGHTS

By Ruth Kennedy, '20

Five alumni were initiated into Delta Sigma Rho, naional honorary forensic fraternity, Sunday June 3. Elmer Goudy, winner of the Oregon peace oratorical contest, was the only undergraduate to receive the honor at that time.

Robert Reichart, '17, a varsity debator for two years, Chester Womer, '21, a varsity debater in his senior year, L. P. Gambee, '14, E. W. McMindes, '18, and F. H. Parrish, '15, are the alumni who received recognition for their forensic ability.

Gertrude Ellis, junior in home economics, Hazel Williams, junior in vocational education, Marjorie Stone, sophomore in home economics and Elizabeth M. Barnes, instructor in expression and dramatic art, are new members of Zeta Kappa Psi, national honorary forensic fraternity. Initiaton and election of officers was Sunday, May 27.

Mask and Dagger increased its membership by 14, Thursday May 17, when that number of associate members, who, by participation in recent plays proved themselves worthy of full membership in this dramatic organization, were formally initiated.

Marjorie Niles, Kathleen Bitney, Frankie Holm, Pauline Carter, Rosalie Daus, Dorothy Hubbs, Stafford Sadler, Julian Miley, Glenn Burright, Lloyd Reynolds, Bernard Guthry, Willard Leihy, Elmer Batchelder and Dick Wynne are the new members.

The eighteenth amendment has been successful and will be adequately enforced in the future if the decision of the judges in the men's final inter-fraternity debate is any indication of public opinion. Sigma Phi Epsilon debating the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that Congress should enact a law permitting the manufacture and sale of light wines and beers," defeated Tau Delta, April 26, thus winning the inter-fraternity championship. Both teams have upheld the negative throughout the series which was composed of 14 teams in three rounds. The fact that the return of light wines and beers would bring back the saloons and all its resulting evils because beer constituted 98 percent of the liquor traffic seemed to be the main contention on which Sigma Phi Epsilon based its case.

Vernon Paine of Pasadena and Robert Kerr of Corvallis are the men who won the championship for their fraternity and Floyd Willert and Dave Whittle were the "runners up." Hubert Hall, president of the inter-fraternity council, presented the silver loving cup, held by Lambda Chi Alpha, to the winners.

Three one-act plays, "The Rising of the Moon," by Lady Jane Gregory, one of the organizers of the Irish National theater; "Miss Civilization," a melodrama by Richard Harding Davis, and "Joint Owners in Spain," an American comedy by Alice Brown, presented at the Majestic theater May 4 marked the final appearance of Mask and Dagger this season.

The stage settings rivaled those of "Chauve Souris" it is reported. Unusual backgrounds produced from the use of different colored lights on a neutral grey curtain was one of the most striking features of the production. This is the first time this scenery, which was constructed especially for the presentation of "Adam and Eva" in Portland at the Heilig theater, has been shown in Corvallis.

CO-EDS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP OF COAST IN DEBATE MEETS

The co-ed debators won the title to the coast championship by defeating the debaters of the University of California at Corvallis, and the University of Southern California at Los Angeles. They defeated the University of Oregon in a dual meet in March.

Hazel Williams of Portland and Essie Reams of Prineville debated at Los Angeles, and Ethel Rodgers of Woodburn and Irma Van Hollebecke of Walla Walla, Washington, met their oppositon at home. "Resolved that France was justified in her occupation of the Rhur valley," was the question debated.

These debates were "judgeless debates," the first of that kind beween college teams of the west. This new type of deciding a debate attracted popular interest as the audience likes to voice its opinion.

The dual O. A. C.-Linfield college freshman debate Tuesday, May 8, resulted in a draw, the rooks winning at McMinnville, while the Linfield college freshmen received the decision at O. A. C. The question was: "Resolved, that Great Britain should relinquish mandatory rights over the Mosul oil fields." Robert Kerr and Seth Giem composed the negative team for the rooks at McMinnville and Kenneth Perry and Forest Woods the affirmative team at home.

"The opening speech for the affirmative case was the best that I have ever heard on any collegiate platform," remarked Gus Edwards.

A College Year of Athletic Competition With the University of Oregon

Varsity Football: O. A. C. 0, Oregon 10, at Corvallis.
Varsity Basketball: Won two and lost two games.
Varsity Baseball: Won four straight games.
Varsity Wrestling: Won two dual meets (Oregon didn't score a point).
Varsity Track: Won dual meet.
Varsity Tennis: Won dual meet.
Varsity Swimming: Won two dual meets.
Varsity Cross-country: Won dual meet.

"Distinguished" Rating Again Earned

Congratulations from the secretary of war to President Kerr, were relayed to Corvallis by Major-General Charles Morton of San Francisco, commander of the ninth corps area, with the information that a "distinguished" rating had been given the college. Major Henry Bull and Major R. W. Kingman, staff officers from Washington, D. C., determined the rating in April, and after comparisons with records of other reserve officer training corps groups in the United States the Oregon Agricultural College department was given the honor.

The success of the college in getting this rating every year since 1917, except 1918, is ascribed by men in the military department to the large number of reserve officers commissioned on graduation. The 95 commissions given this year led by far the other colleges of the ninth corps area.

Deaths

William James Dunlap, '08, ME, sheriff of Linn county, died on May 18 from wounds received in a running gun fight between automobile bandits and the sheriff and his deputy. Public funeral services were held in Tekenah park, Albany, on May 23, following which the body was taken to Shedd where services for the family and close personal friends were held. A charge of murder in the first degree was filed against the man who shot Sheriff Dunlap.

The editorial columns of the Oregonian contained this retrospection of Sheriff Dunlap's life:

"The whelps who killed Sheriff Dunlap at Albany struck down one of the gentlest, sqarest and kindest of men.

"In his life there was no shoddy or sham. As a farmer, he was just plain Bill Dunlap, who tilled his acres, gathered his crops, loved his community and lived in peace with the world. As sheriff, he was all the law required him to be and all the community expected him to be—an honest, four-square officer. How devoted he was to duty, was made clear in his last fight. Shot to the death, but with the few sparks of life still in him he kept up the chase until the loss of blood gushing from his wound was so great that he could go no farther."

Donald Wesley H. Morse, '21, C, died on May 23, at the home of his parents in Seattle, Washington, as a result of tuberculosis developed from an attack of influenza suffered during his war service.

Don volunteered for war service immediately after the United States entered the world war, joining Company "A", 116th Engineers, A. E. F. Because of his experience in radio telegraphy, the Navy Department asked him to enter the Radio service which he did, serving as radio instructor in the training camp on the University of Washington campus. ALTITUDE

Did you ever in the springtime
Wander up a mountain pass
When clouds of fleecy whiteness
Cast soft shadows on the grass?
Did you stand upon the summit
Crowned with just a bit of snow
Gazing at the panorama
Of the world spread out below?
You saw a village nestled
In a valley far away
And did it not look peaceful
From your altitude that day?
You did not see the litter
That's of every town a part
You did not feel the bitterness
That lurks in every heart.
You had climbed above the little things,
They didn't even show
In the glorious panorama
Of the world spread out below.
There's a message in it for us
In this world of stress and strife,
Let's do a little climbing
Up the mountain slopes of life.
Life will lose its imperfections
In the purer higher air
And the world spread out before us
Then will seem divinely fair.

Brief Items

The annual field trip of the school of forestry is of ten days' duration, and is in the nature of a concentrated laboratory practice, all the students in the school taking active part, with timber cruising, plane surveying, and topographical surveying as major problems.

An enterprise built upon personal friendship alone is founded upon shifting sand; but the personal friendship that grows out of honorable commercial dealings is the most worth-while of all the by-products of business.

Don't be afraid of what "people will think"—people don't think about you half as often as you think they do.

No one ever got ahead by holding someone else back.

The right man can make a good job out of any job.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Garden Of Sun Club Secretary Visits

"MALCOLM CRAWFORD"

The picnic referred to above was held at Three Rivers, a place chosen because of its proximity to those members living in Kern, Kings and Tulare counties. Malcolm gave a good verbal report of the club activities on his visit during reunion.

Bozeman Club Plan A Get-to-Gether

A note from Palmer Patton, Bozeman, Montana, says: "We go on an O. A. C. picnic tonight if it doesn't rain." Haven't heard just what happened.

Thought and knowledge, without action, the will to do, are merely sign posts—they do not go or get anywhere—they just point the way.

If people liked to work we'd still be plowing the ground with sticks and transporting goods on our backs.

However, please be informed that the alumni office and headquarters are open the year 'round and invite and encourage suggestions, oftentimes following them. Alumni visitors to Corvallis are doing themselves and the Association a positive injury by failing to drop into the office to pass the time of day, sign his name in the beautiful, huge register presented by the Class of 1898 or pay his dues. Remember, keep in touch!
