

Go-O Jinja, Kyoto.

Dedicated to the divine soul of Wake no-kiyomaru. One of the best types of Hero Worship shrines. This shrine is recognized as a First rank, special class shrine and is highly revered by the Imperial Court. The shrine has no Ujiko.

The kami enshrined lived in the 8th Century. He was the only man in the history of Japan who tried to usurp the throne from the imperial line. He was of common birth, but extremely brave, so he came to be deified in 1871 under the name of Go-dai-Myo-jin (most brilliant god protecting the Imperial Court). Later a follower who assisted him came to be enshrined with him. His name was Momo kawa.

November 3rd the Autumn festival is held. The regular festival takes place on the 4th of April every year. In 1898 the 1,100 anniversary of this prominent man was held and the emperor donated money to set up a monument at the shrine.

Since 1898, the regular festival takes place on April 15th. Heian gu is used as an Utabisho of this shrine. The divine mikoshi and procession of Go-o remains for a day at the Heian gu. A performance of music and dancing is held at the Heian, and a flower arrangement is held in honor of the kami.

The Guji prepares a special Norito for the kami of this shrine at the time of festival. The usual ones are never read at this shrine.

Go-o Jinja, Kyoto.

Dedicated to the divine soul of Wake no-Kiyomasa. One of the best types of Hero Worship shrines. This shrine is recognized as a First rank, special class shrine and is highly revered by the Imperial Court.

The shrine has no Ujiko.

The kami enshrined lived in the 8th Century. He was the only man in the history of Japan who tried to usurp the throne from the imperial line. He was of common birth, but extremely brave, so he came to be believed in 1871 under the name of Go-dai-Myo-jin (most brilliant god protecting the Imperial Court). Later a follower who assisted him came to be enshrined with him. His name was Momo Kawa.

November 3rd the Autumn Festival is held. The regular festival takes place on the 4th of April every year. In 1898 the 1,100 anniversary of this prominent man was held and the emperor donated money to set up a monument at the shrine.

Since 1898, the regular festival takes place on April 15th. Heian is used as an Utsushi of this shrine. The divine mikoshi and procession of Go-o remains for a day at the Heian gr. A performance of music and dancing is held at the Heian, and a flower arrangement is held in honor of the kami.

The Giji prepares a special Norito for the kami of this shrine at the time of festival. The usual ones are never read at this shrine.